125 DOWNSTATE LABOR LEADERS INDORSE BROOKS

Record on Worker Issues Hailed.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 25.—Opposing the stand taken by top officials of the Illinois State Federation of Labor and the state Congress of Industrial Organizations, 125 downstate leaders at a testimonial breakfast today pledged themselves to work for the reelection of Sen. Wayland Brooks.

William Keck.

Those at the meeting represented unions scattered from Rockford to Cairo and from all factions of organized labor. They selected William Keck, international president of the Progressive Miners, an AFL affiliate, as their chairman and Mrs. Helen Sewell, business representative of the AFL state, county, and municipal workers, as secretary.

A co-chairman for each downstate county will be named within the next two days.

Chairman Tells Stand.

"This meeting is especially significant because of the stand taken by certain officers of organized labor," said Keck. "It should prove to the executive board of the Illinois State Federation of Labor as well as to the public that there are many trade unionists who think for themselves and who are wholeheartedly in support of Sen. Brooks.

"We are for Sen. Brooks because he has kept his promises to the trade unionists and the people of the state. This testimonial today is just a forerunner of the testimonial that the voters will give him on Nov. 3. If you will examine the record you will find that Sen. Brooks never has done a single thing that would harm wage earners of Illinois."

The breakfast was arranged by the labor section of the Republican party. Francis B. Murphy, state director of labor, opened the speaking program by introducing Keck. Murphy said that under the administration of Gov. Dwight H. Green labor has received many advantages, including increases in unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation.

Kelly-Nash Combine Blasted.

Criticism of the officials of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, the officials of the Illinois CIO, and the Kelly-Nash organization marked the meeting.

Edward Blanck, president of the Building Trades council of Rockford, asserted that the indorsement of Rep. Raymond S. McKeough by the executive board of the Illinois State Federation of Labor "is a joke." He charged that officials of the federation had tried to use their influence with officials of the international union, of which he is a member, to remove him from office and "to shut

RUNWAY HACKED OUT OF JUNGLE TO SAVE DOWNED U. S. PLANE

New York, Oct. 25 (AP).—Pan American Airways told today how a four engine American bomber, forced down in a small Brazilian jungle clearing in July, subsequently was flown out after a salvage crew hacked out a runway. The bomber crew made the emergency landing with only minor damage and then trekked 11 days thru heavy vegetation to Belem [Para], where a branch of Pan American Airways charged with airport development was asked to salvage the plane for the United States army.

The expedition under M. de la Torre, Pan American engineer, reached the bomber early in August after it had been located from the air by scouting planes. Fifty-four natives were hired to construct the makeshift runway, using machetes, hoes, picks, and shovels. On Sept. 3 the plane took off.

CHRISTMAS TREE SCARCITY LOOMS

Prices to Soar; Cutting Reduced a Third.

Machias, Me., Oct. 25 (AP).—The fragrant balsam trees you once saw stacked on rolling flatcars as a Christmas harbinger will travel under wraps this year because of the war, and there'll be fewer available.

Christmas trees don't come under the heading of military secrets, but they'll go to eastern and midwestern markets in boxcars because the armed forces need the flats.

The balsam fir and spruce trees—cutting and selling them has been a 10 million dollar business in the nation—will be ready for their gay lights and bright tinsel in better condition, however, as they weather the travel better in closed compartments, shippers said. Flatcars were less costly.

Tree Choppers Scarce.

Maine railroad officials said they would be able to move as many trees as ever—ordinarily 1 million are hauled from the state's woodlands and pastures—but they probably won't have to because there aren't enough hands available to keep the axes swinging.

Bert B. Morang of Pembroke, grizzled Christmas tree "king" of Maine who has been helping to decorate the Yuletide living room for 20 years, said his cutting will be off a third this year because the war and armament industries have taken so many men. He usually sends out about 100 carloads of 3,000 trees each.

Labor Costs Double.

Labor costs have soared, Morang said. Last year top wage for his crewmen was $3 a day. This year the rate is $5 to $6, with few takers. Some tree men paid their help 9 cents a bundle of four to five trees each in past years, but that's up 5 cents this year, with a good man able to fell 300 trees a day.

Stumpage costs, paid to land owners for cutting rights, have mounted from 10 to 12 cents a tree paid last year to 15 cents.

"The retail price probably will be more than double this year," Morang estimates. Last year with trees aplenty, retail prices ranged from 25 cents to $1.50, he added.

WOWS Mobilizing at Home to Back Their Fighting Men

Meet the WOWS!

They are the Women Ordnance Workers, Inc., a uniformed organization which will include women in hundreds of plants in Chicagoland and the nation who are turning out the shells, bombs, and gun and tank parts that are helping to blast the axis armies and navies on the war fronts of the world.

Thus far, the WOWS are present in only one of these plants—but their corps is less than 5 weeks old. On Sept. 21 there were only five WOWS. The next day there were scores of them. Today there are nearly 500. In another month, according to indications, there may be thousands of them.

Hope to Enlist Legions.

In a year—they hope—there will be more WOWS than there are WAACS. More WOWS than WAVES. More WOWS than WRENS. Because there are hundreds of thousands of girls and women now in the war production factories of the nation—there may be 2 million next year—and because the WOW organization stands unique in its appeal.

The WOWS were conceived in the Hurley Machine company, an ordnance plant in the Chicago area. The five young founders envisioned the corps as a means of maintaining health, promoting friendship, coöperation, and fun—and as an altar of patriotism.

They took their proposal to E. N. Hurley Jr., president of the company—which built household electrical appliances in the days of peace—and asked his advice and permission to organize. They told him women ordnance workers probably are the largest group of their sex engaged in a specific war enterprise who have no organization.

Many Lonesome Workers.

They told Hurley also that there are many girls in war plants who are lonesome; lonesome for the little towns and the farms from which they came to the cities. Many have no boy friends; don't know what to do with themselves on their days off and who are too shy to get acquainted with their fellow workers.

Hurley said he would give them a chance. On Sept. 22 he dismissed the 8 to 4 shift 15 minutes early and started the 4 to 12 shift 15 minutes late. The girls outlined their plan in the 30 minute meeting that resulted. Those who attended were enthusiastic. Membership cards were distributed subsequently. Hurley was amazed at the response. The WOWS had come into being with a wow!

Yesterday at the Hurley plant in a Chicago suburb, more than 200 WOWS—all who were off duty—held a tea to dedicate club quarters put at their disposal by the plant. Five of them were in uniform—the rest will be soon. They were a lusty, happy group, proud of being the first WOWS and already foreseeing the spread nationally of their corps. For much has happened since Sept. 22.

Copyright Their Name.

Hurley has helped them copyright their name and incorporate. They have a medallion, specially designed for them. It is a shield superimposed upon crossed cannon, bearing the letters W O W, and topped by wings of the eagle and the monogram USA. Already dozens of inquiries have come to officers of the WOWS from workers in other Chicago plants and from plants hundreds of miles away.

Their by-laws, secret initiation [which will come later], uniform design, and mottoes are open to qualified groups who wish to join them. The WOWS' downtown office, they'll have you know, is at 31 North State street.

But a little more about yesterday's tea and about the fresh faced young women who were there. Miss Agnes Spiner, 19 years old, 2434 South 58th court, Cicero, was one of those in uniform and she was busy showing the other four the proper rakish angle for their caps.

"I hope the girl ordnance workers everywhere can have as much fun as

MOSCOW, Oct. 26 [Monday]—(AP).—Taking advantage of improved weather, the Germans renewed their large scale assaults on the factory area of northern Stalingrad yesterday and succeeded in occupying two streets after losing about 3,000 men, the soviet midnight communique said today as the 63d day of siege began.

63

This announcement came a short time after Moscow radio had reported that Russian troops had overcome stubborn enemy resistance northwest of Stalingrad and advanced into new positions on the German left flank.

Describing the great battle inside Stalingrad, the communique said "soviet troops repelled repeated tank and infantry attacks."

Tell of Losses Inflicted.

"The heroic defenders of Stalingrad are stubbornly defending every street and every building," it continued. "At the cost of enormous losses the Germans succeeded in occupying two streets in a factory settlement." The gains were the most important acknowledged in several days by the Russians.

One soviet unit alone repulsed five attacks, destroying four tanks and wiping out 2,600 Germans, the communique said. Another unit burned out three tanks and killed about 400 men.

The communique said the Red army held the initiative on some sectors northwest of the city. One unit occupied a German held village after overcoming fierce resistance and other units occupied an enemy operational base. Nearly 1,000 Rumanians and Germans were said to have been killed in these two attacks.

Lull in Mozdok Area.

The communique reported a lull in the fighting around Mozdok in the Caucasus, where the Germans were said to be "exhausted by heavy losses." It said soviet troops took advantage of the lull to consolidate their positions.

In the Black sea area, southeast of Novorossisk, the Germans succeeded in penetrating into the rear of a soviet marine detachment, but a Russian counterattack restored the situation, the communique said. Two companies of Rumanian infantry were wiped out.

Goaded on by the first touches of night frost and snow flurries the Germans hurled two fresh divisions of infantry, 80 tanks and masses of planes into their assaults on a narrow sector at Stalingrad.

Claim All Except One Building.

BERLIN, Oct. 25 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command said today that all the remaining plants of the Red October metal works in Stalingrad except one building had been captured by German troops in "stubborn fighting" and that the northern suburb of Spartakovka had been taken.

Ground captured on the previous day "has been cleared of the remnants of enemy groups," the German communique said, asserting that "all soviet relief attacks collapsed."

German bombers made heavy attacks on Russian bases in Stalingrad and east of the Volga, it was reported.

In the western Caucasus, the communique said, German and Rumanian troops supported by aircraft stormed more heights and repulsed counterattacks.

FLYERS BLAST TRIO OF CRUISERS AND DOWN 21 PLANES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25 (AP).—Full scale fighting has started on Guadalcanal Island, with American soldiers and marines beating back five heavy Japanese onslaughts, the navy reported tonight, but the foe has landed fresh reënforcements.

The Japanese opened their big push Friday night, laying down a heavy artillery barrage and then throwing tanks and troops against the Americans' western defense lines. The lines held firm thruout the four attacks that night, however, repulsing the Japanese troops and destroying five of their tanks.

The enemy attacked again Saturday and again was repulsed. The United States forces had the support of artillery themselves in countering the blows, but the navy communique reporting the action mentioned no American tanks. Aircraft also fought the foe during his daylight attack, and one American plane was lost.

Bag Entire Escort.

Before sending their ground forces into action Friday the Japanese struck at Henderson airfield with devastating results for themselves. They sent over 16 bombers escorted by 20 "Zero" fighters. The marines' Grumman "Wildcats" wiped out the entire 20 fighters, shot down one bomber and damaged three others.

The Japanese reënforcements were landed from transports on the northwestern end of Guadalcanal Sunday morning, Solomon Islands time [Saturday in the United States], the first new landings reported in more than a week.

How heavy these reënforcements were was not told, the communique saying that "no amplifying report on these operations has been received."

Five Warships Hit.

Meanwhile American aviation struck at Japanese shipping thruout the Solomons area, striving to thwart further landings and disrupt enemy supply lines. The airmen chalked up two Japanese cruisers and one destroyer damaged, another cruiser probably damaged and one heavy cruiser or battleship possibly damaged.

The heavy cruiser, the destroyer, and a light cruiser were attacked by long range aircraft in Shortland Island waters about 260 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, without the loss of a plane.

A group of several Japanese cruisers and destroyers, probably a scouting force, was encountered Saturday night 300 miles northeast of Guadalcanal by aircraft which probably damaged a cruiser with a torpedo.

Fleet Again Attacked.

On Sunday [Solomons time] Douglas "Dauntless" dive bombers from the Guadalcanal field made three attacks on a force of cruisers and destroyers just north of Florida Island, which lies 13 miles north of Guadalcanal. The navy said one enemy cruiser was damaged by bombs and the force withdrew.

The communique was silent as to any activity by units of the American fleet under the new commander, Vice Adm. William F. Halsey, who also commands the ground and air forces in the Solomons.

JAPS GRIEVOUSLY UNDERRATED IN U. S., SAYS EVATT

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 25 (AP).—The strength of Japan is "grievously underestimated" in some influential quarters in the United States, H. V. Evatt, Australian attorney general and minister for external affairs, said in a speech here today.

The disposition to underrate the Japanese exists "even after Japan has occupied great segments of what she regards as her economic empire," he said. "It is a deadly fallacy which not only endangers Australia, but jeopardizes victory for the united nations."

The slogan "Hitler first," he said, "is a curious one and in some respects dangerous."

U. S. Flyers Attack

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 25 (AP).—United States army headquarters in the middle east issued this communique today:

"Fighter, fighter-bomber and medium bombardment aircraft of the desert aid task force of the United States middle east air force made continuous and repeated attacks thruout the day yesterday against enemy positions, gun emplacements and motor vehicles.

"Many direct hits were observed on gun emplacements and motor vehicles and many fires were started. Fighter opposition encountered was very light altho anti-aircraft fire was heavy over all targets."

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 25 (AP).—The British offensive to crush the axis African army has driven forward into main enemy positions at several points in the El Alamein line, while swarms of American and British royal air force planes, supreme in the skies, gave thunderous support, headquarters announced today.

[A Cairo dispatch published in today's London Daily Express said the 51st Highland division had advanced two miles into the axis lines in the first stages of the attack. It said British troops had broken thru two lines of axis defense positions and were attempting to breach a third line of positions. The enemy's 3 line defense zone was said to be about four miles deep.]

"Our gains were maintained in spite of enemy counterattacks. Fighting continues," the communique said.

Four submarines of the British Mediterranean fleet sank five more Italian supply ships, probably sank a destroyer and armed merchant cruiser, and damaged five other ships trying to ferry supplies to the hard pressed forces under axis Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

24 Ships Hit in October.

"Among the ships destroyed was a medium sized tanker and a vessel heavily laden with motor transport which previously had been damaged and stopped by air attack. The other three supply ships sunk were carrying foodstuffs and stores," the admiralty said.

This brought to 24 the number of axis supply ships sunk or damaged by submarines during October. Of these 14 were seen to sink.

Striking at the supply bases and ports in northern Italy from which reënforcements and material have moved across the Mediterranean, British bombers from England conducted their third successive night raid, extending their operations to Milan, which was blasted by daylight as well as by night.

Strike at Massing Forces.

A terrific battle between German armored vehicles and allied aircraft—perhaps the fiercest pitched battle of this type the war has yet seen—opened at dawn today in the Egyptian desert.

As great panzer [armored] formations were massing to try to halt the powerful British offensive, united nations air forces started a big attack designed to make it difficult for Rommel's forces even to get into position for battle.

By midmorning four big raids had been made with scores of tons of bombs unloaded upon them. The day's air activity surpassed that of yesterday which was the greatest air day in the desert so far.

In the whole day's operations one fighter and eight bombers were lost. Little enemy opposition was encountered.

Altho opposing armored forces have not yet come to direct grips, a number of German tanks have been knocked out from the air, some of them going up in flames.

6 HAUPT AIDS GO ON TRIAL TODAY FOR THEIR LIVES

First Case of Treason in Illinois History.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Six Chicago men and women will go on trial for their lives today before Federal Judge William J. Campbell in the first treason case in Illinois history.

The six are the parents, an aunt and uncle, and two friends of Herbert Haupt, who was executed in Washington, D. C., last Aug. 8 along with five other Nazi saboteurs who were landed on Long Island and in Florida by German submarines earlier in the summer. The Chicagoans are charged with aiding young Haupt in preparing for a campaign of sabotage in this country.

The six saboteurs who were executed and two others—who were sentenced to long prison terms—were seized after they were landed on the east coast from a submarine and had burried in beach sands large stores of TNT, bombs resembling lumps of coal, detonators, infernal machines, and pencil bombs. They carried $150,000 in American currency.

One Saboteur to Testify.

At the federal building yesterday it was reported that Ernest Peter Burger, one of the two Nazi spies who escaped the electric chair in the secret trial in Washington in August, is expected to appear in the trial here. Burger will be brought to Chicago, it was said, in a special train, heavily guarded.

The government will charge that Haupt's parents, Hans Max and Erna Haupt, 2234 North Fremont street, have admitted their son told them of his training in Berlin as a saboteur and that he had come here to wreck important war plants.

The Haupts also are accused of having permitted the son to stay at their home, purchasing an automobile for his use in his travels as a saboteur, and hid $2,550 he turned over to them for safekeeping.

Walter and Lucille Froehling, 3643 North Whipple street, uncle and aunt of young Haupt, will be described by the government as "important contacts for the German sabotage agents." The government also will charge that Froehling's name was on a list of American contacts, approved by the Nazi high command and that the saboteurs intended using the Froehling home as a hideout.

The uncle has admitted, according to federal prosecutors, that Haupt left a bag containing $9,950 in their home. It later was found by FBI agents.

The third couple facing trial will be Otto and Kate Wergin, 5416 South Wood street, who were visited by Haupt shortly after he arrived in Chicago, the government charges.

J. Albert Woll, United States district attorney, will head the prosecution and is expected to make the opening statement. He will be assisted by Earl C. Hurley and Richard G. Finn. Woll has announced that the government has subpenaed 140 witnesses.

Fiancée to Testify.

Witnesses will include FBI agents and Haupt's fiancée, Mrs. Gerda Melind.

Considerable testimony given before the military commission which sentenced the six saboteurs to death probably will be repeated here. Testimony given there never has been revealed, the record in the case having been sealed for the duration of the war.

The defense will be conducted by Paul A. Warnholtz and Benedict J. Short. Warnholtz has specialized in civil cases more than 30 years and Short, with 50 years' experience, tries criminal cases almost exclusively.

Both sides expressed confidence the jury will be selected today. Each side expects to require about three weeks to present its witnesses.

The defendants are reported to feel confident of acquittal, only the Froehlings showing any concern. Haupt's father, who was reported to have tried to take his own life last August during a temporary mental collapse, now has recovered.

If convicted, the six defendants would face a maximum sentence of death and a minimum of five years in prison and payment of a $10,000 fine.

Trial Figures

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Max Haupt, parents of the executed saboteur, Herbert Hans Haupt, who are two of the six persons whose trial on treason charges starts today.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Froehling, also on trial for treason.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wergin, among defendants in treason trial.

Mrs. Gerda Melind with executed Nazi saboteur, Herbert Hans Haupt. She was his sweetheart prior to his arrest and execution, and is expected to testify at treason trial starting today.

MAN, 64, STABBED TO DEATH.

Hassen Camel, 64 years old, was fatally stabbed yesterday in his room at 864 North Wells street. Police took Ali Hassen, 48, into custody for questioning. Hassen said he heard screams from Camel's room and ran in to find a stranger fleeing.

BROWDER URGES IMMEDIATE 2D EUROPEAN FRONT

Communist Leader Speaks in City Tonight.

Earl Browder.

Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, yesterday called for the immediate opening of a second front in Europe, declaring that it is the responsibility of the Chinese to furnish the bulk of the man power needed to lick the Japs and win the battle of the Pacific.

He termed the second front as the long awaited general offensive, which would achieve a quick and decisive victory over the axis. But such an offensive if it is to succeed, he stipulated, must be backed by a full and complete mobilization of all the forces of the other united nations to insure a war to the death.

Would Strengthen U. S. Position.

"A second front would not tend to weaken, but it would strengthen our position in the Pacific by supplying proof to the world that the United States is committed to fight on to the finish and not to a negotiated peace," Browder said.

Browder asserted the united nations must revise previous estimates that the Chinese "can't make war." He said they can, that they will continue to fight, and that they will win.

While he contended he was not worried about the ability of the soviets to fight and win, he explained that his second front view stemmed from the belief that the United States would be in a precarious position if "one of our allies was lost."

Talks to Reds Tonight.

Browder, puffing away at a big briar pipe, expressed his views to newspaper reporters at the Hotel Sherman. He said he came to talk before a Communist party meeting in the Civic opera house tonight and will confine himself to talking about the second war front, our war economy, and politics only as they affected the war effort.

NEWSPAPER EDITORS PLAN COMMITTEE TO SAVE PRESS FREEDOM

Directors of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, meeting yesterday in the University club, authorized the appointment of a committee of five, to be known as the Committee on the Government and the Press, "to protect the rights of the press wherever and whenever they may be endangered and to make available to the government in its war effort the advisory fallilities of the society."

The new committee, empowered to act on behalf of the society on any subject growing out of the war emergency, is headed by W. S. Gilmore of the Detroit News, president of the society. Other members are Wilbur Forrest of the New York Herald Tribune, Dwight Marvin of the Troy [N. Y.] Record, Roy Roberts of the Kansas City Star, and Erwin D. Canham of the Christian Science Monitor.

WOWS MOBILIZE TO BACK BOYS ON FIGHTING FRONTS

War Plants Women Form New Organization.

we have had in the three weeks since the WOWS have been really active," she said. "It's a wonderful idea and I hope it spreads all over the United States."

Now—About Uniforms.

And word about the uniforms. They are two piece, khaki outfits with gored skirts. The jacket has two patch pockets and buttons down the front with gold buttons. A white shirt is worn under the jacket with the collar showing. The cap is overseas style with WOW on it. The medallion will, of course, be worn on the jacket. Mrs. Josephine Novak, president, said there is temporary trouble in getting material, but an ample supply is expected soon.

Rosemerrie Schultz, a petite blonde, also uniformed, is 19 and comes from 4102 Elm avenue, Lyons. She said vivaciously:

"It's grand. It makes working fun. It makes you really want to help our boys. And it helps the girls they left behind them keep from getting too lonesome. The club gives us a place to go and things to do in the hours that used to seem pretty lonesome."

Too Busy to Be Lonesome.

"I was terribly lonesome for a while," she said. "But the WOWS have changed all that. All my spare time is taken up with horseback riding, bowling, writing letters to the boys in camps and overseas, and lots of other WOW activities."

Incidentally, the ones she names are just part of the long list of worthwhile and fun pursuits in which the WOWS engage. The membership cards they signed bore a list of these activities, with the suggestion the applicant check those that interested her.

Well, since then, you'd be surprised. They do all the things uniformed Katheryn mentioned and besides they form theater parties, Sunday walking tours, they go to the Field and art museums, they take hayrides, and they swim. There are dramatics, too, and a play is coming up.

One of the most worthwhile things has been their collection of more than $200 to pack and ship Christmas boxes to the boys far away. They made this packing and shipping a part of their tea party yesterday. It was work and it was fun. Best of all, it was a labor of love.

Sure Idea Will Spread.

Mrs. Mary De Smedt, 35, of 1809 49th avenue, Cicero, said there is a different feeling already thruout the organization. "Fun and recreation is making us friendlier and happier at our jobs." Mrs. Elizabeth Mueller,

And Now It's the WOW

Badge of the WOW (Women Ordnance Workers), for women who work in war industry plants.

Elizabeth Mueller, a Hurley Machine company WOW, dancing with James Shinn, aviation machinist's mate, first class, at WOW party.

3309 Maple avenue, has a husband with the army air corps. She's sure the idea will spread like wildfire.

Dolores Grimmenga, 22, of 3322 Sunnyside avenue, is treasurer of the corps. She had some ideas, too. "It gives the girls with boy friends in the service a chance to get out somewhere. It rests your mind and gives you pep. We're all proud that we are the first WOWS and that this is Post No. 1, but we know it won't be long until there are thousands more."

And the one man who attended their tea was a man who could tell them just how much those boxes would mean when they got there. He told them, too, how much the other things they send will mean; things that are making Hirohito and Hitler sicker every day. He is James Shinn, aviation machinist's mate first class, USN. Jim Shinn served as engineer on the gallant old Lexington when Lieut. Comm. Edward H. O'Hare took off from her flight deck one sunny afternoon and shot down five Japs in the twinkling of an eye.

A Pretty Swell Outfit.

Jim is 21 and comes from Sturgis, Mich. He is stationed at the Naval Training school, 87th street and Anthony avenue, as an instructor. Between dances—and did those WOWS keeps him at it!—he said:

"I think the WOWS are a plenty swell outfit. I am really amazed at the fine work they're putting out in this plant.

"They're doing a swell job. God knows the boys need everything they can send over there. I came from a fighting squadron that holds a record for bagging Japs, but the work these girls and other girl war workers are doing at home—the girls that stand behind the men on the fronts—is every bit as important as ours."

That's about all, except that Jimmy came pretty close to voicing the subtitle the WOWs have picked out for themselves:

4 Yanks in Canadian Army List of Hongkong Prisoners

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 25 (AP).—Four Americans were listed tonight as prisoners of war at Hongkong in the Canadian army's 186th overseas casualty list of the war. They are Rifleman Bernard Brophy, whose mother, Mrs. Esther Erickson, lives at Frederick, Wis.; Rifleman John Francis Burns of New York City; Pvt. Robert Forsyth, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Pvt. Roger Joseph Zane, Boston, Mass.

ROBBED OF WATCH AND SILK.

Samuel Zimmerman, 4112 15th street, asked police yesterday to search for two bandits who robbed him of his watch and seven silk drapes after forcing his car to the curb in the 100 block of South Karlov avenue. Zimmerman valued the loot at $175.

REP. HOFFMAN SEEKS U. S. AID FOR STRICKEN PEARL HARBOR VET

Allegan, Mich., Oct. 25 [Special].—Rep. Clare Hoffman [R., Mich.] said at his home here today that he has appealed to the war veterans' legislation committee of the house for intervention in the case of Earl Hendershot of Niles, Pearl Harbor veteran now seriously ill in a state hospital at Ann Arbor.

Hoffman wired Rep. John E. Rankin, chairman of this committee, asking his immediate intercession with the veterans' administration to gain Hendershot's admittance to the veterans' hospital at Dearborn. Altho local physicians have said Hendershot is suffering from a violent case of shell shock, the veterans' administration has refused him hospitalization, ruling that there is no proof his illness is service connected.

"The Hendershot case is one of the worst examples of government neglect of one of its fighting men which has ever come to my attention," Hoffman said.

125 DOWNSTATE LABOR LEADERS INDORSE BROOKS

Hail Record of Supporting Workers' Cause.

me up" because he did not agree with them.

Joseph Marchesi of La Salle, representing the United Mine Workers of America, questioned the motives of the state CIO convention in attacking Murphy, Gov. Green, and Sen. Brooks.

Previous Backing Recalled.

"Just a year ago these same people were for Murphy, Green, and Brooks," said Marchesi. "If anything, these officials have shown more favors to labor in the last year. The opposition now must be based on some reasons that I can't understand. We owe an allegiance to the Republican administration for what it has done for the workers."

Marchesi led off the barrage against the Kelly-Nash organization by asserting that Mayor Kelly showed "his true colors as far as labor is concerned during the steel strike in Chicago."

Blanck also castigated Mayor Kelly, asserting the mayor had refused to pay union wages to Chicago painters employed by the city until directed to do so by Attorney General George Barrett.

Declaring the breakfast was attended by "rank and file union members and elected union officials, and not a bunch of pay rollers," Harry Curzon of Moweaqua, assistant business representative of local 702 of the AFL Electrical Workers, declared that the "Illinois State Federation of Labor executive board doesn't speak for me or thousands of other working men."

In introducing Sen. Brooks to the labor leaders, Keck asserted the senator is not a "yes-man, not a rubber stamp or a tool for special interests, but a man who kept his promises."

Brooks Praises Labor.

Sen. Brooks praised labor for the part that it is playing in the war, asserting that without labor's contribution America's armed forces would bog down.

"We are showing now that free men can outproduce the slaves of dictators," Sen. Brooks said. "We have only one job—to win the war—and that will take all we've got.

"To some of us, Nov. 3 may seem like just another election, but we're the only nation in the world holding a general election during the war. It's important that we preserve our liberties by making the most of it. Where one party has achieved complete domination of the government in any land, liberty has been lost and trade unionism has died."

BEVERLY GROESBECK.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 25 [Special].—Beverly Groesbeck, 14 years old, of the Fond du Lac Children's home will christen a minesweeper to be launched in Manitowoc, Wis., on Tuesday, Navy day. She was selected after she wrote a letter to President Roosevelt in which she said: "I am living in the Fond du Lac Children's home because my daddy is in the army in Australia. I am writing this to ask if I can launch a ship. Seeing that so many adults have launched ships, why not let a child [rather a girl] do it?"

RAP DEMOCRAT PLOT TO COERCE POLISH VOTERS

2 Leaders Pledge Aid to G.O.P. Candidate.

Attempts by the Democratic party and "professional Polish-American politicians" to force Chicago's Polish-Americans to vote the straight Democratic ticket on Nov. 3 were condemned yesterday by two Polish leaders in letters to Stanley R. Pulaski, Republican nominee for judge of the Probate court.

John A. Stanek, World War I. veteran who was wounded in France, past state commander of the Polish Legion of America, secretary general of the Polish Alma Mater of America, and member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, sent in one protest. The other came from Edmund Ambrozewski, president of the Polish National Alliance, council 128; president of Polish Falcon society, group 705; and director of the Civic League of Polish National Alliance, 13th circuit.

Quotes President's Appeal.

"Their letters are but two of many I have received from independents, Republicans, and Democrats protesting at the Kelly-Nash 'order' for straight Democratic ballots," Pulaski said. "Even the President has asked that partisanism be laid aside in the coming election—and a straight ballot is certainly partisanism.

"Chicago's Polish-American population will not be told by professional Polish-American politicians how they 'must' cast their votes. A man who can be told how to vote is a craven—and that label has never been tagged on our race."

Excerpts from Stanek's letter follow:

"Many of my friends and associates resent the demands that all Chicago Poles vote straight Democratic on Nov. 3. Were we cowed by the tactics practiced by the tools of the Kelly-Nash machine, were we so un-American as to be blindly partisan in our voting—then, perhaps, we would heed the order as to how and for whom we should vote.

Plan to Defy "Masqueraders."

"Please be advised, Mr. Pulaski, that Chicago Poles will determine the qualifications of the respective candidates without regard to party label."

Ambrozewski's letter said in part:

"When Frank Bobrytzke, as president of the Polish-American Democratic organization, demands that Chicagoans of Polish descent forego the privilege of voting for you, he is certainly taking a lot upon himself.

"Bobrytzke's demand that we vote a straight Democratic ticket on Nov. 3 is viewed by many of your admirers in fraternal, religious, and educational fields in the light of an insult to our intelligence and a direct challenge to our freedom.

"It is most regrettable that the Bobrytzke organization, an instrument of the Kelly-Nash political machine, should seek to inject partisanship into the forthcoming election.

"Please be advised of our intention to ignore the Kelly-Nash inspired demand when we cast our votes for your candidacy and for the candidacy of Michael J. Rudnik [Republican nominee for county commissioner], two nominees of Polish descent whose names appear on the Republican ballot."

WRIGHT ASSAILS SCOTT LUCAS IN RADIO ADDRESS

Devotes Monthly Report to Political Speech.

State Treasurer Warren Wright, a candidate against Wayland Brooks for the senatorial nomination in the April primary, broke a self-imposed rule yesterday. In his 21st monthly report by radio on state finances he dealt with a hitherto banned subject—politics.

He chose as his particular subject Sen. Scott W. Lucas who has been one of the headliners of the Democratic campaign. Wright and Lucas come from the same congressional district, the 20th, and the feeling between them has been marked for several years.

Scores Lucas on 2 Points.

This time Wright pointed a forceful finger of scorn at Lucas for two specific reasons—in addition to a blanket reproof for the campaign tactics followed by him as well as other Democratic speakers. He stressed an incident at the Democratic national convention of 1940 and he charged that Lucas did not go into the armed forces of the nation willinging in 1918.

"To heed the voices of some candidates for office would lead us to believe that one particular party had a corner on all the patriotism in the country," he said.

"You hear this from Washington. You hear it from the city hall in Chicago. And you hear it from the Democratic senior senator from Illinois, for whom Gov. Horner fought the Kelly-Nash machine but who has since joined hand and glove with the machine in anticipation of 1944.

Calls Him "Ace of Apes."

"This is the same senator who graduated from the 1940 Democratic national convention in Chicago as the ace of all apes with the modest utterance on the radio that he, himself, would have been a candidate for the Vice Presidency if the convention had been "free and open."

"He moans about the patriotism of Sen. Brooks. Well, here's the answer to his anxiety: While Sen. Brooks was in a hospital in France recovering from wounds received in action, Scott Lucas was still putting up a stiff battle with his draft board in Havana, Ill., trying to be exempted.

"The Kelly-Nash machine has not been bequeathed full right and title to patriotism. Neither has that party or Kelly-Nash squatters' rights to it.

"I've never heard a Democratic soldied claim that he was doing all the fighting in this war."

A theme similar to Wright's was used by Thomas J. Downs, Republican nominee for congress in the 2d district. Downs asserted that political unity is irreconcilable with the American system.

"Germany has political unity, Italy has political unity, Japan has political unity," he said, "and when political unity enters the door, human liberties go out the window."

ANTI-VOTE FRAUD ARMIES TO SEEK RECRUITS TODAY

Business Men Urged to Let Employes Join.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Business leaders were urged yesterday to encourage their employés to enlist under the banner of the Business Men's committee to prevent election frauds and to stop hoodlums and thugs from stealing votes or using violence and intimidation to aid their candidates.

County Chairman John T. Dempsey said the Republican county committee also planned a fraud prevention bureau under the leadership of former Judge Edward B. Casey.

Wade Fetzer Jr., chairman of the Business Men's committee, said his enlistment drive would begin today. He asked that volunteers report by telephone, calling Central 8716, or in person at room 514, 120 South La Salle street. This committee and another fraud fighting organization, the Joint Civic Committee on Elections, have a training course for poll watchers.

Groups to Coöperate.

While the joint committee is nonpartisan, it was expected that the three groups, all formed to help obtain honest elections, would work harmoniously and coöperate wherever possible. Guy Reed, chairman of the joint committee, said they planned to man the polls in 16 river wards, at least.

"Hundreds of volunteer workers we had two years ago have joined the armed forces to fight for their country," said Fetzer in announcing his appeal for additional volunteers. "We need new men to carry on a second front fight right here.

Must "Maintain Democracy."

"The reservists should be moved up into the front line trenches at home this week and next week to prevent the election from being stolen. Those of us who are here should do our part to maintain democracy in this country by means of honest elections.

"The hoodlums are the 5th columnists in this election campaign. They have to be beaten by preventing them from stealing votes. The Business Men's committee will give a course of instruction to our workers this week and the volunteers will be assigned to work in day and night shifts on election day.

"We are going to concentrate our efforts in two districts. We hope to have enough watchers so that every ward will be given attention.

"The poll watchers should insist that any person suspected of being a fraudulent voter be required to show his draft registration card to the policeman at the polling place."

Attorney General to Help.

Attorney General George F. Barrett, who has assigned a staff of his employés to the fight for honest balloting, made the suggestion regarding the draft registration cards. Barrett's organization and that of the Republican group under Attorney Casey were expected to give legal assistance and advice to the other groups.

Fetzer said he expects to take up with County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki today the matter of prosecution of those responsible for false registrations uncovered by the committee investigators.

Reds Protest Bulgarian Anti-Soviet Show Again

MOSCOW, Oct. 25 (AP).—Rejecting an earlier Bulgarian reply, the Russian government has protested again over an anti-Russian exhibit in Sofia, charging that it was intended as a slander. The Russian protests held that the exhibition was made up of faked material similar to that concocted in Germany and that it was considered "a manifestation of hostile attitude toward the soviet union." The first note was delivered by the Russian minister to Sofia on Oct. 6 and the second on Oct. 22.

THE G. O. P. HOPES DEMOCRATS PACK STADIUM TONIGHT

Why? Because It Will Bare Nash Pay Roll.

There should be a crowd in the Chicago Stadium tonight, John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Republican central committee of Cook county, said yesterday.

The occasion will be a Democratic massmeeting, "a spontaneous turnout of citizens to welcome the Democratic nominees," as it has been billed by its sponsors. But—

A few weeks ago a letter over the signature of P. A. Nash, chairman of the Democratic central committee, went out to all Democratic precinct captains and all the pay rollers on the machine's list.

It Requires "Efforts of All."

"The Stadium must be filled to overflowing for this meeting and it will require the combined efforts of all of us to fill it," Nash's letter read. "You will be given employé cards to turn in at the Stadium and you will be furnished 100 tickets by your ward committeeman which you are expected to use to invite your neighbors to attend this meeting.

"All precinct captains and other employed members of our organization MUST ATTEND. We want such precinct captains and employés as have automobiles to use same to bring to the meeting four or five voters who are not jobholders.

"We expect that our request in this regard will be absolutely complied with, to the end that not only the Stadium itself but the surrounding streets will be crowded for this meeting.

[Signed] P. A. Nash, chairman."

Check up on Attendance.

As explained by Dempsey, the employé cards are a device by which a complete attendance record can be kept of all pay rollers. The jobholder fills out a stub on the ticket with his name, address, and position. These stubs are collected at the meeting.

"If all the people the Kelly-Nash machine has on its pay roll in the city hall, the County building, the park district and the sanitary district go to the meeting, the stadium certainly should be jammed," Dempsey said.

"It will give the voters of the county an excellent chance to find out by the size of the crowd just how many people they have been supporting in political jobs all these years."

BLONDE SLAYER HOPES TO REWED EX-MATE IN JAIL

Child, 6, to See Reunion if Warden Consents.

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

Plans for a county jail wedding this week were announced yesterday by Mrs. Eleanor Williams, 25 years old, former dice girl convicted of manslaughter by a jury early yesterday morning. With a dreamy look in her eyes and her fingers pushing restlessly thru her tousled blonde hair, Mrs. Williams said softly that she will remarry Clarence Williams, her former husband, in the presence of their 6 year old daughter, Jacqueline.

Conviction of Mrs. Williams for the shooting of Gordon McNaughton, former big league baseball player, in the hotel room of Mrs. Dorothy Moos, a rival, carries a mandatory prison sentence of 1 to 14 years, but that won't stop the wedding.

Comes to Her Aid in Crisis.

"Clarence and I were divorced almost three years ago but he came running right back when he heard about my trouble," Mrs. Williams said yesterday. "He asked me to marry him again even before the trial but I said we'd better wait. Now we're going to do it. I'm glad Jacqueline will be here. She's been out in Omaha with my in-laws since the divorce and Christmas was the last time I saw her."

Mrs. Williams has asked her sisters to bring her a brand-new outfit, "maybe blue," for the ceremony. She's not quite sure Warden Frank G. Sain will sanction the marriage but she said hopefully, "I surely hope so. It will be good to be married again." Warden Sain could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Williams, a telegrapher, said he wants to marry her right away. "But I want to talk to her first," he said. "I plan to join the army air corps as a telegrapher within a month, and I'd like to remarry Eleanor by then."

Sam Hunt "Blesses" Woman.

In the men's quarters of the jail, Sam [Golf Bag] Hunt, embarrassed because he forgot to fit in his false teeth, blessed the woman juror whose change of mind brought him a second mistrial on Saturday.

Hunt is charged with the murder of Michael Wade, a Negro houseman, in a traffic argument. All of the jurors at his second trial agreed for conviction Friday night but a woman juror changed her mind overnight when she learned the minimum punishment for murder is 14 years' imprisonment.

"It surely was nice of her," Hunt grinned yesterday. "After the first mistrial I sort of lost interest because I couldn't get a bond but this surely helps. As far as I can see the state's case gets weaker with every trial."

A few cells down the line, Irwin Kadens, the 33 year old man charged with almost all the crimes in the law books, from robbery to rape to kidnaping, rested his chin on the bars and whispered, "Hi, babe!" and "Hi, spook!" as matrons and guards passed by.

Eager to Ask for Death.

Kadens claims he can hardly wait for the trial so he can ask for the death penalty. "I figured out four months ago that I oughta die by my birthday, Oct. 22, and the cops double crossed me by catching me," he said. "I'm not gonna tell you how I figured out I should die. It's too deep. But if I don't get the death penalty I'm gonna die anyway. I won't tell you how. It's a military secret."

Asked about the hunger strike on which he embarked Friday night but abandoned Saturday afternoon, Kadens said he could have kept going if he wanted to.

"They haven't got anything here I want. I want the luxuries," he said.

BURNED WHILE STARTING FIRE.

CHARGES JUSTICE IS SECONDARY IN 'MACHINE' COURTS

There can be no justice in the Municipal court where the judges' first obligation is to the Kelly-Nash machine and justice is a secondary consideration, Daniel J. Buckley, Republican nominee for the court, charged yesterday at a Republican massmeeting at Wallace and 31st streets.

Buckley, who is the son of the former chief of the Chicago fire department, Edward J. Buckley, said that 36 of the 37 judges of the Municipal court, including the chief justice, are controled by the Kelly-Nash combine.

At the same meeting, Albert J. Meserow, also a nominee on the Republican Municipal court ticket and organizer and chairman of the Joint Civic Committee of Elections to Stop Vote Frauds, said: "I know from personal experience how far the Kelly-Nash machine has gone to steal elections. The people who directed the vote stealing are today receiving every consideration from every branch of government controled by that machine—including the courts."

EXPECT 250,000 TO SEE PARADE OF NAVY IN LOOP

State St. to Be Officially Opened Tomorrow.

At least 250,000 persons will look on tomorrow as Chicago celebrates Navy day and the official opening of newly paved State street, David Mayer Jr., chairman of the State Street council, predicted yesterday.

Between 6,000 and 8,000 men and women representing all branches of naval service will march in the huge Navy day parade, the largest parade of uniformed service men in Chicago since the nation became involved in war. Navy planes will soar overhead thruout the program.

Seven Bands in Parade.

Included in the march, according to George M. Weichelt, chairman of the parade committee of the Navy league, sponsor of the Navy day program, will be about 3,000 sailors and marines from Navy pier, 1,000 students from the Abbott hall midshipmen's school, 2,500 from the University of Chicago naval schools, and some 500 to 700 inductees who are to be sworn in during the program.

Seven bands, including four naval organizations, will provide the music. A variety of naval equipment, including anti-aircraft revolving turrets and guns and coast guard landing equipment, will be in the line of march.

Officials to Ride in Jeeps.

Parade dignitaries will ride in coast guard "commando jeeps." Included will be Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district; Mayor Kelly, Gov. Green, Sheldon Clark, president of the Navy league of the United States, and Rear Adm. Albert C. Read, who commanded a navy plane in the first nonstop Atlantic crossing.

The parade will start about 10 a. m., moving west from Columbus drive along Randolph street, and south on State street to Madison, where it will halt at 11 a. m. for the 30 minute ceremony opening State street.

Naval Hawser to Be Cut.

Clark, assisted by naval personnel, will cut a large naval hawser, or cable, which is to be stretched across the street. The hawser, obtained from the Chicago Historical society, was extended across the Chicago river during the Civil war so the army could control river traffic. Following the program the hawser will be turned over to the waste metal salvage drive. Several of the dignitaries will speak.

From Madison street the parade will move down State street to Jackson boulevard, west to La Salle street, and north past the reviewing stand at the city hall. A highlight at the reviewing stand will be the swearing in of the several hundred recruits. Mayor Kelly and others will speak.

Adm. King to Speak.

Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, will speak at a Navy day dinner in the La Salle hotel tomorrow night. Naval authorities here said they had not learned when Adm. King will arrive. He is expected to inspect naval facilities at Great Lakes and may appear at the parade reviewing stand.

Another highlight of the dinner will be a "Meet Your Navy" show, in which activities of the different branches of the navy will be demonstrated.

Mayer said State street will be elaborately decorated for the affair. Large navy signs will be in the windows of every State street store, and navy signal flags will be on lines extended overhead between lamp posts.

Trawler's Loss Announced by British Admiralty

7 ON PLANE WITH RICKENBACKER, ARMY DISCLOSES

Col. Adamson, Historian, Among Missing Flyers.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—The war department reported today that it had no further word on Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, American ace in World War I. and famed aviation expert, missing over the Pacific since Wednesday, but disclosed that seven army officers and enlisted men were with him on a secret inspection trip of American air forces.

Col. H. C. Adamson.

Capt. W. T. Cherry Jr.

The war department listed these men as missing with Rickenbacker:

Col. Hans C. Adamson, 52 years old, Washington, D. C., special assistant to Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces.

Sergt. James W. Reynolds, 25, Fort Jones, Cal.

Sergt. Alexander T. Kaczmarczyk, 19, Torrington, Conn.

Pvt. John F. Bartek, 23, Freehold, N. J.

Rickenbacker was being flown in an army plane from the Island of Oahu in Hawaii to an undisclosed island in the Pacific when he dropped out of sight. Army and navy planes have been engaged in an intensive search since then without avail.

Col. Adamson, in addition to being special assistant to Gen. Arnold, is chief of the narrative history section of the historical division of the army air forces, and was formerly deputy director of the public relations office of the AAF. He was born in Esbjerd, Denmark, on July 20, 1890, and became a naturalized American citizen in 1917. For 13 years prior to 1916 he was engaged in newspaper work in this country.

He was civilian assistant to F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation between 1926 and 1932. When Davison left the war department to become president of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, Adamson accompanied him as public relations director of the museum. He was commissioned a major in the army air forces in January, 1942.

The war department, in announcing Rickenbacker's disappearance, disclosed that he was on a secret inspection trip of army air forces personnel and equipment in the Pacific area similar to a special study he had made recently in the European theater of operations for Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Upon his return from the European mission, Rickenbacker reported on Oct. 15 that united nations' mastery of the air was absolutely essential to achieve victory over Germany. Rickenbacker said in his report to Stimson that American aircraft were proving their worth in combat and that the trend in Europe was clearly one of air war, with the allies gaining.

Constant improvement in design is necessary in warplanes, he warned. One concrete result of Rickenbacker's survey was seen in the disclosure by President Roosevelt on Friday that the high goal of 60,000 planes for this year has been lowered in favor of improved types.

Are you puzzled? Like lots of fellows who are asking themselves questions about Fall clothes—what they'll get—how to make their dollars click? As usual, the big majority are turning to Bond's for the answers—because more men wear Bond clothes than any other clothes in America. Our smiling friend here knows why. How about you?

Can I still get warm all-wool clothes that'll stand up?

I'm a crank about tailoring—how about it?
Shake, mister—we're cranks, too. Only top needle specialists work in our shops. That's why your Bond suit holds its shape so much longer.

And how about my size—I'm hard to fit?

What about a Charge Account—can I have one?
Yes indeed, sir. Charge Account or Budget Service as you wish—and you pay nothing extra for this convenience, at Bond's.

Is it unpatriotic to buy new clothes now?
"Keep punching", says Uncle Sam. Seedy appearance blasts morale. So fill your needs—demand peak quality—exercise good old Yankee thrift.

And what's going to happen to the old bankroll?
You'll like this. In 34 years, Bond suit prices have changed exactly once—and then only a tiny 2%. Yes, that's all—2%! Maybe that's why we've so many loyal friends. Well, we're not using the war as an excuse to let them down now. And there's your answer to one of today's big problems—how to stretch your dollars!

U.S. PLANES BOMB HONGKONG; DOWN 10 JAP FIGHTERS

Blast Kowloon Dock Area; One Bomber Missing.

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY AIR FORCES IN CHINA, Oct. 25 (AP).—United States bombers in the greatest raid thus far of the China air task force blasted Japanese held Hongkong today with tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs, turning the great Kowloon dock area of the conquered British crown colony into an awesome scene of destruction.

This was the first allied raid on the colony since the Japanese occupied it last Christmas day. Medium bombers escorted by fighters blew up long stretches of docks, hit several ships, spread ruin in warehouses and other buildings, and started a number of fierce fires.

Intercepted by Japanese fighters after their run over the target area, the Americans shot down 10 of the enemy's planes and probably accounted for five others.

Led by Gen. Haynes.

Only one American bomber failed to return and one fighter was reported to have made a forced landing in Chinese territory with its pilot slightly wounded. There were no other losses or casualties.

The bombers were led by Brig. Gen. Caleb V. Haynes of Mount Airy, N. C., chief of the United States bomber command in China. Col. Robert L. Scott of Macon, Ga., led the fighters. Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the United States army air forces in China, directed the operation from an advanced field.

In another operation today, six American fighters intercepted 20 Japanese fighters 30 miles south of Megtze in south Yunnan province, southwestern China, and shot down three of the foe and probably destroyed four more without loss to themselves.

Jap Version of Raid.

TOKIO, Oct. 25 [From Japanese Broadcasts] (AP).—Eight large planes appeared over Hongkong about 3:30 p. m. today and from a high altitude dropped several incendiary bombs, according to an announcement by the government general, relayed by Domei news agency.

It said that the damage was negligible and that planes were repulsed by both Japanese interceptors and anti-aircraft fire. The planes flew back to the northwest.

The Japanese later announced officially that their planes shot down one enemy plane and another was seen falling.

Knock Out Mine Area.

Not a plane was lost.

The bombers destroyed the huge power plant, which was the main target, and decommissioned the Linsi mine and five others in the Kailan area 80 miles northeast of Tientsin.

The bombers struck at the mines an hour before sunset. The first bombs landed smack on the powerhouse, which was blown up.

It was believed that the powerhouse and other wrecked installations could not be restored for months.

[A dispatch from New Delhi, India, said a Japanese broadcast suggested the raid was the cause of a crash on the Tokio stock market Friday. It said stocks of industrial firms which rely upon coal slumped by amounts up to 80 per cent of opening quotations. The dispatch said the Kailan mines produce some of the best coking and steam coal in the world and that Japanese war production plans were based on an increased output this year.]

Japs Raid China Town Again.

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 25 (AP).—The strategically important town of Mengtsz, in Yunnan province, was raided today for the second time in 24 hours as six enemy planes plastered it with bombs, the Chinese Central news agency reported tonight.

JAPS CAPTURED 3 TOKIO RAIDERS, SAYS DOOLITTLE

Writes Father of Missing Sergeant.

Lebo, Kas., Oct. 25 (AP).—Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle notified the parents of Sergt. Harold Spatz last May 22 that the 21 year old air forces mechanic might have been taken prisoner by the Japanese after the United States bomber raid on Tokio.

Gen. Doolittle wrote to Robert Spatz, Lebo filling station operator, requesting the letter be "kept in the strictest confidence, as the information is of military significance." He said:

"Dear Mr. Spatz:

"I am extremely sorry to have to bring you bad news. It is not, however, absolutely reliable.

Reports Three Captured.

"The latest information we are able to get is that your son landed near Japanese occupied territory and that two of the crew members are missing and three have been taken prisoner by the Japanese.

"We are unable to definitely authenticate this report, and are also unable to determine which of the crew members are missing and which captured.

"An attempt is being made today thru the American Red Cross to obtain more definite information. As fast as we can obtain more definite information, you may depend on my passing it on to you.

"I am sincerely sorry that I am obliged to give you such an unfortunate report.

Praises Boy's Bravery.

"I do want to point out, however, that your son comported himself with conspicuous bravery and distinction. He was awarded the distinguished flying cross for gallantry in action and also was decorated by the Chinese government.

"I am proud to have served with Harold and hope that I may have the opportunity to serve with him again soon.

"Very sincerely yours,
"J. H. DOOLITTLE,
"Brigadier General, U. S. Army."

The elder Spatz said he had received no further word from his son other than a war department notification that the boy was missing. No attempt has been made to communicate with him.

"I didn't think it'd do much good," he said.

22,000 Cheer Midway Hero as He Gets Medal in Miami

Miami, Fla., Oct. 25 (AP).—Twenty-two thousand spectators cheered today as a distinguished flying cross was awarded to a hero of the battle of Midway, Lieut. Harold M. McDowell, 27 years old, of Miami, in a Navy day celebration at the Orange bowl stadium. He is assigned now to the Miami naval air station as an instructor. McDowell was born in Salina, Kas., and formerly lived in Aberdeen, Wash. He lives here with his wife and two children.

SPIRIT OF NAVY ASSURES A U. S. VICTORY: KNOX

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox declared today that "No matter what the reverses along the road to Tokio and Berlin," Americans can be sure of ultimate victory.

Speaking on a National Broadcasting company program saluting Navy day to be observed Tuesday, the cabinet officer said, "We all know that there will be many dark days.

"But the navy has a tradition of victory, and we shall not let that tradition die. With justice on our side, we shall fight in the spirit of Lexington and Concord. And with grim determination we shall declare, 'Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead.' That is the spirit of our navy today in action on all seas and oceans of the world."

The program picked up broadcasts from navy ships and stations in this country and in areas of conflict to show what naval forces are doing to help win the war.

FAILURE TO MAKE AUSTRALIA MAIN BASE EXPLAINED

3 Factors Keep MacArthur Powerless.

BY HANSON W. BALDWIN.

[Military analyst of the New York Times.]

New York, Oct. 25.—After 10 months of war in the Pacific, the rôle of Australia in the campaign there is still uncertain.

For our current campaign in the Solomons is based, not upon Australia, but primarily upon Hawaii, and secondarily upon New Zealand and New Caledonia, with advanced bases in the New Hebrides.

The battle of the Solomons is not, therefore, primarily an effort to protect the supply line to Australia. It is a battle to break Japan's power, the start of a campaign to push northward step by step toward Rabaul and Truk.

It had been understood, when Gen. Douglas MacArthur was shifted from the Philippines that Australia would be the main base. But her potentialities are not yet fully developed due to internal problems, the shipping shortage, and the division of the Pacific into two separate areas.

MacArthur Hampered.

Australia's internal problems have rendered Gen. MacArthur's position as commander in chief in the southwestern Pacific difficult. "The land down under" was for a long time too preoccupied with defense of Australian soil to pay proper attention to New Guinea.

Nor was this the fault of Gen. MacArthur, who in some ways is a supreme commander in name only. He has been hampered in initiating the grand offensive for the reconquest of the Philippines—a project dear to his heart—by a number of factors.

One is the unfortunate proposal made in this country of "MacArthur for President"—a proposal that found no support from the general. Those close to him in Australia believe he has no desire for the Presidency and no intention of seeking it.

War Cabinet Has a Say.

Australian political factors also have to be considered. Prime Minister John Curtin's political position was strengthened by MacArthur's arrival. The Australian war cabinet naturally has continued to reserve to itself a considerable share of authority.

But the normal difficulties of waging a coalition war have been increased in Australia by the labor problem. Australian labor's insistence upon its "rights," its determination to work a stated number of hours, and to knock off Saturday afternoons and holidays, and its general attitude toward the war have hampered the war effort in Australia. The labor attitude can perhaps best be described as "complacency."

As a result what has been accomplished in Australia has been chiefly by our own efforts. In numerous instances our troops have unloaded convoys, built airfields, roads, cantonments; the Australians have helped, but their help has been by no means what was hoped for.

The only way in which an offensive can be developed from Australia is across the seas, and this means ships. Gen. MacArthur has only a limited naval force under his command—a few Australian cruisers, destroyers, escort vessels and miscellaneous types and a few American ships and submarines. The total in no sense is enough to support a strategic push to the north.

Division Creates Problems.

When the commands of Gen. MacArthur and that of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz were defined the problems were complicated by the division of the Pacific into two separate areas. Gen. MacArthur is supreme commander of all forces in the southwest Pacific; Adm. Nimitz commands all the rest of the vast area with Vice Adm. William F. Halsey Jr., who has relieved Vice Adm. Ghormley, as a subcommander in the South Pacific.

This division lumped Australia, New Guinea, a part of the Solomons, the Netherlands Indies, and the Philippines as one strategic unit under MacArthur, but excluded New Zealand, the Japanese base at Truk, and New Caledonia. Guadalcanal and the southern Solomons were put under Adm. Nimitz's jurisdiction. But all of the Japanese bases in the northern Solomons and at Rabaul in New Britain are on MacArthur's side of the line, altho our first footholds in the southern Solomons are on Nimitz's side.

ALLIED BOMBERS SINK GUNBOAT IN NEW RABAUL RAID

17 Tons of Missiles Set 3 Other Ships Afire.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 26 Monday (AP).—Allied bombers kept up their attack on Japanese bases north of the Solomon Islands Sunday, sinking an enemy gunboat and damaging three merchant vessels at Rabaul, New Britain, for a total of about 100,000 tons of shipping destroyed or damaged in this port in the last three nights, it was announced today.

The midday communique from allied headquarters said 17 tons of bombs were dropped on the Rabaul area, sending the gunboat to the bottom of the sea and leaving the other three vessels listing badly or on fire.

80,000 Tons of Ships Hit.

"This brings the total tonnage by actual observation completely destroyed, or badly damaged, in this harbor during the last three nights to approximately 80,000 tons. At least 20,000 tons in addition are believed to have received more or less serious damage."

The bombers also hit fuel barges near the wharves, causing a series of explosions and fires which were visible for 100 miles. No allied planes were lost in this action.

Farther to the north other allied bombers attacked Kavieng, New Ireland, scoring direct hits on Japanese fuel dumps, supply dump installations, and air field dispersal areas.

Huge fires, visible for 90 miles and sending columns of smoke 4,000 feet into the air, followed the bombardment. One Japanese four engined bomber was destroyed on the ground.

Bomb Aircraft at Timor.

Other medium bombers were in action over Dutch Timor, north of Australia, where they bombed grounded aircraft on the airdrome at Koepang and started a number of fires.

Three Japanese planes dropped some bombs near the beach at Darwin, Australia, during the night, but no damage was done.

The communique said the ground situation was unchanged in the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea, where the Australians have met strong opposition near Kokoda.

In this area allied attack planes made a bombing and strafing sweep along the enemy supply line north of Isurava and also bombed the area south of Wairopi.

Curtin Praises Troops.

The following order of the day was published today:

"The commander in chief of the southwest Pacific area, Gen. MacArthur, has received a message from Prime Minister Mr. John Curtin expressing appreciation of 'the magnificent efforts put forward by our allied forces under the most difficult conditions' and of 'the splendid fight being waged in New Guinea by the Australian and American forces against the Japanese invaders."

LA GUARDIA ON AIR WITH PROPAGANDA BEAMED AT ROME

New York, Oct. 25 [Special].—Dispatches from Berne revealed today for the first time that Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia has been making regular propaganda broadcasts to Italy. A spokesman for the National Broadcasting company said that the program, entitled "Mayor La Guardia Calling Rome," was the mayor's idea and grew out of his desire to have a chance to reply to criticism directed against him by Rome radio stations.

The NBC spokesman explained that Mayor La Guardia had insisted the whole venture must be kept "absolutely secret" and that he would discontinue the broadcasts if there were any local publicity about them, a condition to which NBC agreed. The mayor began the broadcasts "about two months ago," NBC said.

The mayor records his speech in Italian and it is broadcast by NBC from 1:15 to 1:30 p. m., Chicago war time, Sundays over its two short wave stations, WRCA, operating on 15.15 megacycles, and WNBI, operating on 17.78 megacycles. A repeat broadcast of the mayor's speech is carried over WNBI at 2:45 a. m. Mondays. One or both of the stations can usually be heard clearly in the metropolitan area.

So far as could be learned, the mayor is not required to have his speeches cleared by the Office of War Information.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 25 [Special].—John Lower, 40 years old, and William Hurgert, 38, farmers, were killed last night when they were pinned beneath their automobile after it was sidewiped by a car occupied by three youths. Robert Kell, Robert Connelly, and Gerald Wilson, all of Milan, were seriously injured.

DECORATE YANKS IN BOMBER CREW; FOUGHT 23 JAPS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25 [Special].—Awards of the silver star for "gallantry of the highest order" to four army air force enlisted men who bailed out of their disabled Flying Fortress in Burma June 4 were announced by the war department today. The men are Staff Sergt. Albert L. Malok of Hellertown, Pa.; Sergt. Harold E. Cummings of Monroe, La.; Sergt. Elias E. Gonsalves, Los Angeles, Cal., and Pvt. Smith W. Radcliffe of Dexter, Kas.

Their plane, commanded by Maj. Frank D. Sharp of Salem, Ore., bombed a freighter while under attack by four Japanese Zeros. As the Flying Fortress headed north toward its base in India, the fighter attack became heavier, until the lone bomber was engaged in battle with 23 Japanese fighters, at least four of which were shot down. Pvt. First Class Francis J. Teehan of Footeville, Wis., was killed while manning a machine gun turret.

After the men bailed out, Maj. Sharp and his co-pilot, Second Lieut. Herbert E. Wunderlich of Williston, N. Y., made a crash landing and walked 74 miles to a British controled village. Awards of the silver star for this action to Maj. Sharp, Lieut. Wunderlich, and posthumously to Pvt. Teehan, had been previously announced by the war department.

HOW ALLIES HIT AXIS IN EGYPT TOLD BY WITNESS

Hail of Shells and Bombs Opens Drive.

BY FRANK L. MARTIN.

A BRITISH ADVANCE OBSERVATION POST ON THE EL ALAMEIN FRONT, Oct. 24 [Delayed]—(AP).—From this vantage point facing the enemy lines on two sides I saw the opening barrage last night in the thundering allied offensive against the axis in the Egyptian desert.

The barrage, of a scope unprecedented in north African warfare, started on the minute at 9:40 o'clock. Only a few hundred yards in front of this observation post were troops of the British 8th army, motionless in the bright moonlight as they awaited the zero hour to charge forward.

Hit with Great Force.

In this new allied offensive Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery is throwing a greater striking force against the Germans and Italians than in any battle during three years of north African warfare.

There are no American ground forces in this clash but the American air force is playing a big part in air attacks upon enemy troop and gun positions in combined operations with the RAF and south African air force.

As I watched from this observation post with my back to the Mediterranean and looking south along the El Alamein front hundreds of guns opened up, almost as one.

Shells were flying over my head from the batteries to rear and left. A few minutes after the preliminary bombardment began Britons, Australians, New Zealanders, Greeks, South Africans, and "Fighting French" streamed forward in a general push.

As the minutes dragged by the artillery began concentrating on an area to the front of the outpost where allied ground troops had orders to break thru the enemy lines and open a wide gap in the enemy mine fields.

A few yards behind me still heavier British guns spoke up. About 10 miles in front of me I saw these shells burst.

Bombs Add to Din.

Shortly before midnight United States, RAF and South African airmen joined the fray. Suddenly from their planes flares were dropped, lighting up the ground to my front and right where the axis big guns were. Bombs whistled down to add to the din created by the deluge of artillery shells engulfing the axis positions.

This double dose of exploding steel did its work well, for the confusion was so great among enemy positions that the allies were able to surge forward without great opposition from axis heavy field pieces. At 2 a. m. the artillery was keeping up its destructive pace.

A lane had been cut in the enemy line and the protective mine field cut up into a series of safe lanes for the allied forces to move thru. Before sunrise the allies had established themselves behind the enemy "soft stuff"—troops, unarmored vehicles and forward artillery posts.

The first phase of the battle was successful.

Allied armor had not yet come in contact with enemy tanks. In hand to hand fighting the allied soldiers captured their share of German and Italian prisoners in the first few hours of battle.

CATHOLIC UNITS PLAN CAMPAIGN ON RECRUITING

Principals of Chicago parochial high schools and officials of the Catholic Youth Organization, coöperating with army enlistment officers, tomorrow will launch a movement to foster enlistment in the armed services of youths 18 years old and over, and to provide pre-induction training for boys 17 and 16 years old.

The action is being taken at the request of Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch that Catholic educational institutions and the CYO act as liaison contacts to aid the army in presenting its story of the advantages of enlistment. The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, Thursday night will open a preflight "skull course" at CYO headquarters to aid youths awaiting acceptance in the army and navy flying services.

Supplementary programs to prepare youths for summer work on farms thru agricultural courses, and courses to train girl mechanics, are also being planned, Bishop Sheil said.

PRAISES MORALE OF YANK TROOPS IN MIDDLE EAST

AN AMERICAN BASE SOMEWHERE IN THE MIDDLE EAST, Oct. 25 (AP).—Capt. Earle [Preach] Smith, 37 years old, American morale officer of Auburn, Ala., said today the Americans now on the offensive in the Egyptian desert "know what they are fighting for and are supremely confident in ultimate victory." The spirit of American troops in the middle east "is unsurpassed," he said. "Their morale could not be higher. They have a fine sense of humor. Their courage is matchless."

Capt. Smith is associated with the young American airmen who have performed many vitally important missions in the desert and along the Mediterranean coast. Their achievements have been a great contribution to effectiveness of the present offensive.

Allied Forces Press Forward in Egyptian Campaign

Developments reported yesterday from the fighting in Egypt and in the Mediterranean are told in the captions on the map. The horizontal lines indicate approximate area in which allied sea power is striking against axis transports taking men and materials to Africa.

reticent concerning details and told only of the initial penetrations along the 35 mile front between the sea and Qattara depression 80 miles west of Alexandria.

But war correspondents had the assurance of the British field commander, Lieut. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery, that his preparations were complete and he meant business.

"The allies have been plugging holes all over the world. Our forces therefore have been stretched. Now the Germans are getting into that position of being stretched, as well as the Japanese. With the Americans on our side we may be able to do something about it now," he said.

Build Up Huge Supplies.

Enemy aviation has been thrown completely on the defensive. Few axis planes were found in the air—only one was shot down yesterday.

The land forces had been rejuvenated by mountains of United States material.

The Germans for two months have been feverishly building a strong defense in depth behind their front.

The Germans had four armored divisions, two of them Italian; a German motorized division; a German infantry division partially motorized, and at least six Italian infantry divisions, none of which approached full strength. Their numerical strength probably is in the neighborhood of 125,000 men.

The British never have disclosed their full strength but it is believed to be superior in men, tanks, guns, as well as planes to anything the axis holds.

For two months, the sky ruling allies have seriously hampered axis attempts to reënforce and supply their army, sinking a large share of vessels venturing out on the Mediterranean and destroying vast stores of fighting material that managed to get thru.

Malta, the rocky island bastion just south of Italian Sicily, was attacked again by axis planes because it is a key to the enemy supply problem. For their "negligible result," the enemy paid three planes yesterday and five more today.

Claim 47 Tanks Smashed.

ROME, Oct. 25 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—The Italian high command said today that the British attacked the northern and southern sectors of the El Alamein front, but that all assaults were repulsed with heavy losses, including 47 tanks.

The Germans said the allies have lost 20 planes so far.

A German communique said "the enemy, after strong artillery preparation, launched an expected large scale attack on a wide front. Strong enemy infantry and tank formations as well as strong aerial formations are employed. Embittered fighting is taking place at present."

The Italians said a British Spitfire was shot down in air combat over Malta, where the airports of Lucca and La Venezia were bombed. The Italians reported that "during an attack against a British convoy in the eastern Mediterranean an Italian plane torpedoed and sank an enemy destroyer."

Hear Nazis Force Hungary to Retire Twelve Generals

MOSCOW, Oct. 26 [Monday]—(AP).—The soviet news agency Tass said today that 12 Hungarian generals had been placed on the retired list "on direct demand of the German command because of their anti-German outlook and their refusal to submit to the orders of general headquarters."

BRITISH REPEAT HEAVY AIR BLOWS AT MILAN, ITALY

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP).—Royal air force bombers took the long aerial highway across the Alps to northern Italy again last night for a heavy assault on Milan in an offensive against factories and communications feeding supplies to axis armies under allied attack in North Africa.

Buildings in Milan "went flying" as two ton "block buster" bombs crashed into Italy's second largest city, British pilots reported. One pilot said one two ton bomb "simply blew a factory to pieces. You think the factory is there—and then it isn't."

[An air alarm was sounded at Basel, Switzerland, last night, possibly indicating another British raid on Italy.]

Home of Big Bomber Works.

The raid on Milan, home of Mussolini's Caproni bomber works, followed within a few hours a big scale attack by British Lancasters which subjected that industrial center to the first daylight bombing of the war for northern Italy. Genoa and Turin were raided Friday night for the second night in succession and Savona, 25 miles west of Genoa, was the target of other Friday night raiders.

The Italians tried to hide Genoa from British raiders by throwing up a smoke screen along the coast but as fast as the generators spewed out the smoke the wind blew it out to sea, a participating pilot reported.

[The American-Swedish news exchange in New York received a cable from Stockholm last night reporting that the Swedish consulate at Genoa was badly damaged in a recent raid.]

The Italian radio revealed that the raid on Genoa disrupted the city's transport system. It reported the Italian communications minister returned to Rome today after inspecting the damage and directing repairs to restore railway lines and other transport services.

Acknowledge Heavy Damage.

The Italians acknowledged that heavy damage was inflicted by British bombers at Milan last night and the outlying centers of Monza and Novara, reporting that 48 persons were killed and 254 injured at Milan alone.

Rome announced further that 35 persons were killed and 67 injured in the earlier raid on Savona and that the number of casualties in the first raid on Genoa had risen to 39 dead and 190 injured.

Obviously the numbers of four motored Lancasters, Stirlings, and Halifaxes engaged in the long range aerial offensive against Italy were high but only eight raiders have failed to return from their 1400 mile round trip missions.

Raid French Occupied Zones.

While the bomber command was sending its biggest bomb carriers against Italy's industrial centers, RAF fighters and bombers were hitting at trains and military establishments in France and the Netherlands and shipping along axis shores.

The fighter command reported that its "intruders sweeping into France as deep as 150 miles shot up a dozen trains, airdrome hangars, factories, and railway stations. An enemy camp was attacked near Le Havre."

The Vichy news agency, reporting the first British plane attack upon unoccupied France, claimed that one of 50 four motored British bombers yesterday strafed a barracks and railway station at Montlucon, 50 miles northwest of Vichy, causing three casualties. The agency added that the Laval government would protest.

Canadians Form Escort.

A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch from Berne said the Swiss instructed their minister in London to protest "the grave violations of Swiss territory by the royal air force during the night of Oct. 24-25."

Canadian fighter planes formed part of the escort which started the Milan raiders on their way.

The Canadians said their fighters attacked a train north of Tours, derailing it in a cloud of smoke and steam. Another Canadian pilot reported attacking three trains north of Paris.

The Germans, striking back at Britain, sent raiders against the southeast and southwest coasts today. In one southeast coast town four Nazi planes came in at 100 feet with machine guns blazing. A former hotel was hit there by a bomb, causing extensive damage and rescue workers began digging in the débris for a number of persons believed trapped.

In one southwest coast town a direct bomb hit was scored on a convalescent home and a number of patients were reported buried in the wreckage.

FRANCE CHARGES 6 RAIDS BY RAF ON VICHY ZONE

VICHY, France, Oct. 25 (AP).—The French government announced tonight it had protested to Great Britain against what it charged were RAF raids Saturday on six different regions of the unoccupied zone. This was the first disclosure of widespread attacks on Vichy territory. The announcement said raids occurred in the regions of Vichy, Montlucon, and Domerat, all in Allier department, and at Roanne, Chateauroux, and Annecy.

At Domerat, it was said, a freight train and a passenger train were strafed and an engineer was wounded. The Montlucon raid was carried out by "many planes," it was charged.

The protest was described as "energetic" and the raids were called "as odious as they were unjustified." The announcement added: "They constitute a deliberate aggression effected in broad daylight against the civilian population of a disarmed country."

HITLER WILL GAS BRITISH CITIES, HALDANE WARNS

Advises Masks Kept Ready for Use.

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP).—J. B. S. Haldane, eminent British scientist, warned today that Britain probably will be subjected to a big Nazi gas attack when a second front is opened.

J. B. S. Haldane.

Speaking to a civil defense workers' conference, he said the attack may be "against London, Birmingham, or some other large city—possibly against invasion ports when the second front is opened."

"Doubtless Hitler has large reserves of poison gas," Haldane said. "He presumably will use them, and the most probable target is Britain.

"The attack with persistent gas probably will be made fairly early on a winter night so that the contaminated areas cannot be fully evacuated until morning. The public in the large towns should carry their masks during the winter months if they have to be in the streets during darkness. They should have their respirators inspected immediately and practice putting them on rapidly."

Haldane advised that a room in each dwelling be made air tight as a precaution.

His advice was counter to that of Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, who on July 30 said he believed it no longer was necessary to carry gas masks, because "I do not anticipate an immediate gas attack and for all I know it may never come."

ONLY PLANES CAN HIT EUROPE NOW, BRITISH ARE TOLD

50,000 Hear 2d Front Demands in London.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Jubilant over the RAF's heavy raids on northern Italy and large scale attacks on Germany and occupied territory, Capt. Harold Balfour, undersecretary of state for air, today assessed the effects of the aerial blows.

"The allied bomber force is hitting the enemy hard," he told a ministry of information meeting at Epsom. "Our bombers go by night and day deep into the heart of Europe. Our bomber force is the only weapon which in the present phase of the war can strike an offensive blow on German territory."

Steel Loss 1,250,000 Tons.

He estimated the loss in output of six major steel plants in the Dusseldorf-Duisburg area at 1,250,000 tons, while coal production in the Ruhr, Saar, and Aachen districts, he said, has shrunk by some 30,000,000 tons a year.

Balfour warned that a second front in Europe based on popular clamor might well spell disaster.

"A second front in Europe, based on sound military advice after such plans and preparations as will insure that those taking part have the right direction, the right opportunity, and the right material, is something that may come about," he said. "But how and when we must leave to those who bear direct responsibility for the decision."

50,000 Hear 2d Front Demands.

More than 50,000 persons crowded Trafalgar square in London to hear trade union and Communist leaders applaud the British army's offensive in Egypt, but insist that this was no substitute for a second front. The speakers demanded complete unity of allied strategy and urged the immediate trial of Rudolf Hess, former deputy fuehrer of Germany, who flew from Germany to Scotland in 1941 and is now held somewhere in England.

Aneurin Bevan, Labor member of parliament, said that all know of British courage, but there is nothing to brag about in British leadership.

"The war could be won this year; it could have been won last year," he asserted, "but it wasn't because the British people haven't won on the home front. There is a very critical situation between Britain and Russia. The Russians demand the trial of Hess to find who in Britain is coöperating with them."

3 FERRY FLYERS LOSE 100-1 CHANCE TO SAVE BOMBER

Die as Crippled Plane Crashes in Africa.

BY JOE MORTON.

SOMEWHERE IN WEST AFRICA, Oct. 9 [delayed] (AP).—The list of heroic Americans killed in action in the cause of their country has been lengthened by three fearless bomber ferry flyers who swapped the safety of internment for a 100-to-1 chance to deliver the goods.

They are Emmett F. Clausewitz, pilot; E. G. Kall, first officer, and Marcus L. Corley, navigator, the latter from Miami, Fla. Their twin engined aircraft, crippled in flight across the Atlantic, crashed after a desperate do-or-die effort to get beyond Vichy territory. The wreckage was found on friendly soil—just a mile across the line.

One Engine Dead.

First word that the three men were in trouble came to a united nation base where I was visiting.

One engine is gone," they radioed. "What do you suggest?"

The base control officer took note of their position.

"You are nearing Vichy territory," he told them. "The beach is level and hard. I think you can get down okay. But your plane will be confiscated and you will be interned."

He told them, too, that the nearest friendly country offered nothing but a narrow strip of sand flanked by a rough plain and thick mangrove swamps. The decision was up to them.

The three men made their choice. They decided to deliver the bomber at the risk of their lives. There was no further word from them.

Eighteen hours later a veteran Pan-American airways pilot, Steve Shaw of Northampton, Mass., found the pile of smouldering wreckage. He made sure there were no survivors, then came back to the base for assistance.

Spot Wreckage on Beach.

Six men, myself among them, volunteered and climbed into his Grumman amphibian. After cruising two hours we again spotted the wreckage on the ground and dropped softly into a small, uncharted lagoon.

An hour of steady walking thru the jungle and down the beach brought up to the plane. The remains of the wing and the fuselage had to be lifted away before the charred bodies could be found.

The strangest of strange processions bore the three bodies back to the amphibian. A youthful officer led the way, followed by native bearers carrying the burden in an improvised canvas sling attached to long poles. Others in the rescue group, soaked in perspiration from laboring under the equatorial sun, brought up the rear.

A superstitious native chief appeared en route to ask that the procession not go thru his village.

At the lagoon where the Grumman floated, dugout canoes had to be obtained for ferrying the bodies out from shore. Overloaded by the added burden, the plane barely cleared the trees in the takeoff. Darkness descended before it got back to the base airport, lighted only by flares.

The next day they were buried with full military ritual. Three volleys echoed across a warm hillside and down thru a forest of rubber trees before the minister slowly intoned the benediction:

"We commit the bodies of these heroes, who died in the cause of freedom and the things we hold dear, and ask that everlasting consolation be their portion."

DISTRUST OF WAR LEADERSHIP SEEN IN DRAFT VOTE

Training Proviso a Rebuff to Administration.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—The senate's vote of 39 to 31 to give 18 and 19 year old conscripts a year of training before they may be used for combat duty outside continental United States reflected fears in congress that this country will be called upon to furnish a disproportionate share of the man power when a second land front is opened against Germany.

This is the prevailing interpretation of the senate's action last night, when it defied appeals by President Roosevelt and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, in adding the year's training limitation to the bill lowering the draft age to 18.

Informed members of the senate said the vote reflected a lack of confidence in the administration's conduct of the war, especially in the administration's ability or willingness to resist demands by Great Britain and other allied nations for the United States to make greater sacrifices than they are making.

Final Action Held Up.

Since the principal house leaders and most of the membership have gone home for the campaign, final legislative action on the draft bill is not expected until after the Nov. 3 election.

Ranking members of the house military affairs committee, including Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], who usually represent that group on conferences committees, are away from Washington. For this reason the house may not even send the bill to conference this week. When it goes to conference, however, administration forces undoubtedly will eliminate the senate amendment requiring a year's training of conscripts under 20 before they may be used for combat duty. The house defeated a similar proposal. All five of the senate conferees appointed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace voted against the training amendment, which was sponsored by Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel [D., Tex.].

Tydings Speaks for Majority.

Nevertheless, the senate, in effect, has gone on record against using conscripts of the 18 and 19 year age groups for any second front undertaking in 1943.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], who usually has the courage to say on the floor of the senate what others believe but express only in the privacy of the cloakrooms, reflected sentiments apparently shared by a majority of the members when he told the senate:

"This is not altogether our war. If Great Britain, New Zealand and Canada are not going to let their young men go into battle until they are 19 years of age, the United States should not bear an unequal burden. We are already financing the whole outfit. We are already lending them everything we can. I do not approve of keeping books with our allies; but there is a rough yardstick of justice and equal contribution which should not be abandoned under these circumstances. When it is all over, I do not want Uncle Sam to be called Uncle Simple."

Allies Have Age Limits.

Sen. Tydings is no anglophobe. He voted to repeal the arms embargo in 1939 and for the lend-lease bill in 1941. He supported the policy of aiding the allies until he became convinced that the administration's measures would take the country into a war for which it was not prepared.

Sen. Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] and Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.] reminded the senate that Britain did not authorize the conscription of 18 year olds until last Thursday and that 19 still is the minimum age for British war service overseas.

Gen. Marshall, testifying before congressional committees on the draft bill, said the army would be expanded to 7,500,000 men by the end of 1943. Its present strength is 4,250,000.

In a radio speech today, Sen. Tydings asserted that "unless there is a change in policy, it appears that we are on our way by the end of 1944 to an army of approximately 10 million men and a navy of approximately 2 million."

Danville Cereal Factory Razed by $150,000 Fire

Danville, Ill., Oct 25 (AP).—The four story H. J. Lauhoff Grain company building was damaged by a 12 hour fire today with an estimated loss of from $150,000 to $175,000. The blaze destroyed machinery and grain stocks used in the manufacture of breakfast cereals and dog foods.

ENSIGN W. C. COLEMAN KILLED AS NAVY PLANE CRASHES IN CARIBBEAN

Ensign W. C. Coleman.

Ensign Walter Cobb Coleman, U. S. N. R., formerly of Lake Forest, was killed in line of duty in a plane accident in the Caribbean area Saturday, according to word received yesterday by his brother-in-law, Victor Elting of Lake Forest. Details were not given. Services will be held today in Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican republic.

Ensign Coleman was 28 years old, the son of Mrs. Samuel Morris of Philadelphia, Pa., and Joseph G. Coleman of Santa Barbara, Cal., a former Chicagoan. He was educated at St. Mark's school and Harvard, and entered active naval service six months ago after a period as a reserve officer. Before that he was connected with the Grace shipping line.

Surviving Ensign Coleman are his widow, the former Miss Barbara Stanley, and a small daughter, who are in the Caribbean zone. The marriage of Ensign Coleman and Miss Stanley in 1938 was an event of the social season. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley.

CITY SEES DROP, NOT GAIN, IN ITS WARTIME FUNDS

Better Tax Collections Forecast, However.

Eastern financial experts who have guessed that open-handed war spending is going to make it easier for state and local governments to collect more revenue than in prewar 1941 apparently haven't described Chicago's situation.

County Assessor John S. Clark has expressed the opinion that 1942 taxes will be collected in greater volume than were those of last year. But City Collector Louis Rixmann, whose office collected between 29 and 30 million dollars in 1941, isn't so optimistic.

Expects Slump in 1943.

"It is remarkable how well our 1942 revenues have held up," he said yesterday, "but there isn't any assurance that 1943 will be as good. That depends on a lot of things."

Among other things, Rixmann collects retail and wholesale liquor and tavern licenses, wheel [auto] taxes, filling station and dog licenses.

Auto Licenses Off $250,000.

Motor vehicles licensed by the city numbered 649,926 last year and so far the number in 1942 is 606,873. Intake from this source has declined about a quarter of a million dollars so far.

Fewer taverns were licensed in 1942 as compared with 1941, and at last reports numbered 8,550. The revenue from those doesn't show so big a loss, as a larger percentage of them are taking amusement and food licenses.

Gasoline rationing is certain to reduce the use of automobiles in 1943. It may impel many car owners to put their vehicles into storage. This and the retailers' plight make it uncertain how far the city revenues may drop.

'WE WANT WARM SOX!' YANKS TELL MRS. ROOSEVELT

Mail from Home Another Doughboy Need.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Pvt. Nate Olken, 4359 Flournoy street, Chicago, Ill., wanted the answer to just one question when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt visited the American Red Cross Washington club in London today: "Why hasn't the war produced a popular song?"

"The only one at present," she said, "is 'You're in the Army Now.' We'll have another when we have something to celebrate about."

Mrs. Roosevelt remarked that she had heard complaints that service socks were too thin and said she had taken up the matter at home, but added: "It requires quite a while to get a change in what the army does."

Speaks of Her Sons.

Other complaints of which she had learned were of the slowness of mails from the United States and the cold —winter heating is not authorized in the British Isles until Nov. 1.

The first lady said her boy in the Solomons had written her that what they missed most was mail from home. She pointed out the difficulty of sending mail to Guadalcanal, but said she didn't see why the Yanks in London couldn't receive more mail. [Washington observers have said Maj. James Roosevelt is in the Solomons and it was he she was believed to be referring to.]

Referring to her son Elliott, a lieutenant colonel in the air force command in England, Mrs. Roosevelt said he had told her the English weather was a jolt to the Americans because many of them were southerners, and they needed warmer socks.

Among Chicagoans in the large crowd greeting Mrs. Roosevelt were Corp. John Oser, 2123 Seminary avenue; Elmer Fern, 735 Wellington street; Theodore Gradisek, 2518 South Lawndale avenue, and Pvt. Zdzislaw Skubikowski, 3029 North Austin avenue. Skubikowski directed winning male choruses in three Chicagoland Music festivals.

King Bids Good-by.

Also present were Corp. James Sanderson, 815 Jackson street, Aurora, Ill.; Corp. Alvin Chadwick, 1429 Dickens street, Joliet, Ill.; Sergt. Robert H. Harris, Eldorado, Ill.; Sergt. Norman Hanson, Superior, Wis.; Pvt. Eugene Thompson, Minneapolis, Minn.; Corp. Milburn Henke, Hutchinson, Minn., and Sergt. Leslie Cain, Columbus, O.

Henke was the first American soldier to set foot on British soil in this war, and Cain was one of the first Americans to receive the British distinguished flying cross.

The king and queen and the two princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, bade farewell to Mrs. Roosevelt at Buckingham palace this morning.

Gathered around a log fire in the palace after tea yesterday, the princesses showed Mrs. Roosevelt a movie they had taken of the royal family's home life and of the king and Princess Margaret Rose stalking deer in Scotland. Mrs. Roosevelt told the royal children about American youth organizations.

GOV. GREEN ASKS POLES, LITHS TO PUSH WAR WORK

2 Groups in City Hold Patriotic Rallies.

Gov. Dwight H. Green, in two patriotic talks yesterday, referred to Chicago as the "third largest free city remaining on the face of the earth," and called on the groups he addressed as citizens of that free city to continue their efforts toward winning the war.

The governor spoke at the 50 year jubilee dedication services at St. George's Lithuanian church. He also addressed citizens of Polish descent at a dinner in St. Mary Magdalene Parish hall in honor of Stanley Pinski, who for several years has been active in his section of the city curbing juvenile delinquency thru the organization of youth and musical groups.

Europe Depends on U. S.

At the St. George's church meeting Gov. Green said that peoples of Europe "are depending on us, the mighty land of America, to break the shackles of oppression."

"America, our own country, is the world's last citadel of liberty. What we do here at home, and what our boys do on the battlefields at this crucial time will decide the future of the world, possibly for a thousand years. Those of you who have friends or relatives back in your former homeland, know how much our success in this war means to the cause of liberty, to the life of the church, and to the happiness of mankind for all time."

Pinski Gets Commission.

The governor praised the citizenship of those of Lithuanian descent, saying that Chicago has the largest Lithuanian settlement in the world, and commented on the history of St. George's church in that settlement.

At the meeting in honor of Stanley Pinski, to whom the governor granted a captain's commission in the Illinois National Guard, Gov. Green said, "No one in America today knows the cost of this liberty of permitting the people of any national blood to speak their thoughts and ideals freely than Polish speaking American people.

"Millions of Polish people retain their God given faith and some day that faith shall repay them and all who remain in Poland. For surely there will come a day, and pray God it is not far distant, when their republic will be restored and Poland will again return to the council of free and independent nations. We are called upon to defend that precious freedom for which the Polish people have been fighting for centuries, and your sons are again in the vanguard of the American forces on 40 battlefronts thruout the world."

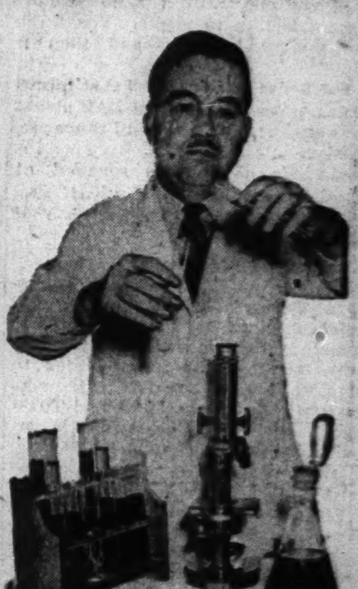
BALDNESS CAN BE PREVENTED



Science has never discovered a way to regrow hair on a bald head—and baldness remains a permanent condition except in very rare cases to the unfortunates so afflicted, but rapid strides have been made by John E. Warner and his associates in the prevention of baldness.

Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through the Warner method of treatment, but no case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. There is never any charge for a private examination and consultation—and in every case, honest advice is given as to whether or not treatment can be helpful.

Examination and treatment are given in strictest privacy. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN — NOT IN ADVANCE. There is a separate department for women.

Who Are Doing the Job

Already this year General Motors has delivered guns, tanks, airplanes, airplane engines, Diesel engines, trucks, shells, and hundreds of other items for our armed forces to a total value of more than a billion dollars.*

It is in no spirit of boastfulness that we make this encouraging report, but with full realization that the job ahead will call for even greater effort on the part of all of us.

This ever-increasing contribution to the war effort is being made in the truly American way: through the application of management experience, engineering knowledge and mass-production "know-how." As a result, voluntary reductions have already been made in contract prices, saving the Government hundreds of millions of dollars.

We would like to tell you just how many of these items have already been produced, but such information would be of value to the enemy.*

More men and women are working for General Motors in the United States and Canada than ever before—341,469 in all—and our payrolls are increasing at the rate of over 4,000 a week. For the week ending October 11th, average hours worked were 46.5, compared to 40.5 last year.

SUPPLIERS AND SUBCONTRACTORS DOING HALF THE JOB

Since half the job is being done outside our plants by our suppliers and subcontractors, they are employing an additional 300,000 or more as their part of this war effort. Their effort and employment must continue to increase with ours.

VALUABLE TIME AND MATERIALS SAVED

Hundreds of improvements effected by General Motors production men and engineers are saving millions of productive hours and thousands of tons of critical materials. Through the General Motors Suggestion Plan the factory workers are also doing their part and have made more than 4,000 constructive suggestions, for which they have received awards in War Savings Bonds.

ALL PLANTS AT WORK ON WAR PRODUCTION

The 104 General Motors plants and operating units in 46 cities and 13 states are all on war production. So are the five General Motors plants in Canada. TRAVEL in WARTIME

THE fact that the United States is a nation of travelers is largely due to the efforts of the railroads to increase passenger business by cultivating the desire to go places and providing attractive transportation to get there. It is therefore surprising to find the railroads withdrawing accustomed passenger services and urging the American people to refrain from unnecessary travel. This, however, is being done and will be done increasingly.

The reasons for this move need to be recognized and understood.

The passenger transportation required by our armed forces is enormous and is increasing every day. This must be met in full and will be, come what may.

Civilian travel essential to winning the war has also grown tremendously and will continue to grow. For this the railroads must provide transportation to the limit of their ability to do so.

After these comes the movement of civilians whose travel, however important to themselves, is not an indispensable part of the war effort. So far the railroads have done about all they have been called upon to do for these travelers. However, the time is at hand when there will have to be an increasing curtailment of this kind of travel to make way for war transportation.

Changes are being made in railroad passenger services. Seasonal trains to Florida have been ruled out. There will be no chartered cars or special trains except for military business. Second sections of established trains will not be operated except where they have been operated regularly in the past. Passenger schedules are being lengthened to accommodate longer trains and more stops. Such changes are being made to insure that the railroads continue to provide all the passenger transportation that is needed to win the war.

This will call for some sacrifice by all of us. It will mean giving up, possibly for the duration of the war, the cherished privilege of going whenever and wherever we please. Knowing it is for our national war effort, we all should and will respond willingly, cheerfully. In so doing we shall be contributing to the ultimate victory wherein lies our hope for preservation of the American way of life.

PACIFIC COAST'S CITIES GO UNDER STRICTER DIM-OUT

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 25 (AP).—A new darkness has descended on the Pacific coast—not enough gloom to keep city residents from finding their way about the streets, but enough to protect American ships from axis submarines.

Under new, stricter dim-out regulations of the army, all lights except street lamps, in coastal areas and as far eastward as the Sierra Nevadas now must be shielded from above, and from direct view of the sea. Street lights also must be shaded under regulations effective within a few days.

Italian Aliens Can Join Citizens' Defense Corps

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25 (AP).—The Office of Civilian Defense ruled today that Italian aliens now are eligible for membership in the United States citizens' defense corps. Director James M. Dearborn and Monroe streets.

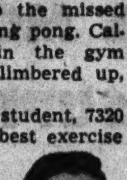
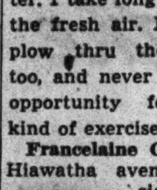
THE ANSWERS.

Mildred Gerber, sales clerk, 912 Agatite avenue—I don't participate in many outdoor sports, so I try to make up for it by walking. I live close to the lake and hardly miss a day of brisk walking along the shore. The exercise is very beneficial.

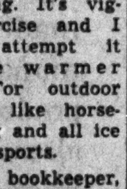
Ruth Kulwin, bookkeeper, 1237 South Kedvale avenue — At least three evenings a week I participate in active games at the club. I get a lot of good exercise playing badminton and picking up the missed shots in ping pong. Calisthenics in the gym keeps me limbered up, too.



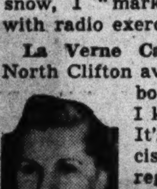
Lawrence Aldenhobel, student, 7320 Ridgeland avenue—The best exercise I ever get is in the winter. I take long hikes in the fresh air. I like to plow thru the snow, too, and never miss an opportunity for that kind of exercise.



Francelaine Gorman, student, 6639 Hiawatha avenue—Every winter I sign up for a course in tap dancing. It's vigorous exercise and I wouldn't attempt it during the warmer months. For outdoor exercise I like horseback riding and all ice and snow sports.



Mrs. Byron V. Olson, bookkeeper, 5308 Kenwood avenue—I indulge in more outdoor exercises in winter. To begin with I always walk faster to keep warmer. I never miss an opportunity to go ice skating or tobogganing. When there's no ice or snow, I "mark time" with radio exercises.



La Verne Carlsen, student, 3734 North Clifton avenue—As soon as the bowling season opens, I keep right up with it. It's my favorite exercise. I used to play regularly with a club, but this year we won't play quite so much. Walking will constitute a greater part of this winter's exercises.

RAGEN TO TAKE CONTROL OF TWO PRISONS TODAY

Joseph E. Ragen, recently appointed warden of the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries by Gov. Green, plans to take up his duties at Stateville this morning, he said yesterday. He visited the prison Thursday, after he had accepted the appointment, and made arrangements to leave his Chicago home this morning.

Ragen was warden of the prisons, which are separated by the Des Plaines river, from 1935 to February, 1941. He was also superintendent of prisons, a job now held by Col. Frank Whipp. His return to his old job followed the resignation of Warden Edward M. Stubblefield who said he left voluntarily so a thoro investigation could be made of the escape of seven convicts on Oct. 9.

T. P. Sullivan, state director of public safety, has been in personal charge of the prisons for the last week. He will continue the investigation and direct the search for the escaped convicts, he announced.

QUIZ EVANSTON NEIGHBORS IN DOUBLE MURDER

Seek Clews to Mystery Sedan and Driver.

Evanston police questioned neighbors of Mrs. Lillian Galvin yesterday in the hope that some of them might be able to offer a clew to the mysterious double murder in which Mrs. Galvin and her maid were shot to death last Thursday.

Chief Carl Ekman said he is particularly interested in tracing the gray sedan which was seen parked in the vicinity of the Galvin home on two different occasions a few days before the murders. A man was slouched over the steering wheel both times.

Noonday Angle Probed.

And both times the car was seen at noon. It was about noon on Thursday that Mrs. Galvin and the maid, Miss Edna Sibilski, are believed to have been killed in Mrs. Galvin's English type brick residence at 3038 Normandy place in Evanston.

Chief Ekman and Lieut. Anton Schultz said that altho Mrs. Galvin's furs, valued at $3,350, have not been found, it is not at all certain that they were stolen at the time of the killing. Chief Ekman said he is investigating a report that they are at a cleaning establishment.

Husband Vows to Get Killer.

Mrs. Galvin's husband, Paul V. Galvin, told the police that he will not rest until the mystery is solved. Galvin is chairman of the priorities committee for the radio and radio equipment industry, with headquarters in Washington, D. C. He is also president of the Galvin Manufacturing corporation of Chicago, manufacturers of Motorola home and automobile radios.

The funeral of Mrs. Galvin will be held at 9 a. m. today from the chapel at 1359 Devon avenue to St. Athanasius church in Evanston.

MEXICO SEIZES 3 '$2,000,000 CON MEN' FOR U. S.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Oct. 25 (AP).—Police announced today the arrest of three men wanted by the United States, Canada, and Australia, on confidence game charges involving more than $2,000,000. Police Chief Miguel Z. Martinez said the men, picked up on request of the United States treasury department, gave their names as John Woolcutt Forbes, Alfred E. Dawson, and Irving Garfunkel.

He said FBI men came here from the United States early in August but were then unable to locate the men. They were arrested yesterday in a hotel.

Martinez said Washington, D. C., officials had informed him Forbes, who passed as a member of the British secret service, was wanted in Australia for a $1,500,000 fraud, in Canada for a $500,000 one. He said the request for the arrest of Dawson noted that Dawson was wanted for cashing United States and Canadian treasury checks, but that he received no information on Garfunkel. The trio, he said, had been buying jewels here.

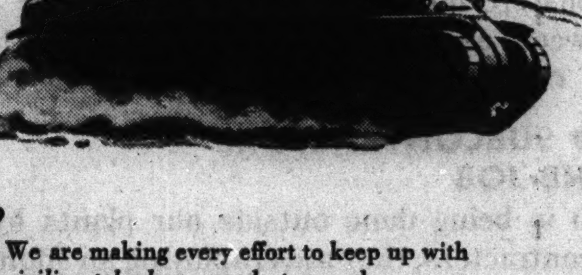
THERE GO NEW EXTENSION TELEPHONES!

1. Where? . . . Into bombers and tanks and "jeeps" and ships and guns and shells. In a single Flying Fortress, for instance, there is enough copper to make four miles of wire. An aircraft carrier takes hundreds of tons of this one scarce metal.



2. The need for copper and other strategic materials in U. S. war production puts definite limits on new telephone equipment for any but the most essential uses—Army and Navy circuits, special lines to war plants, provisions for public health and safety.

3. We are making every effort to keep up with civilian telephone needs, too, and service here is still good and fast.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press and that cannot be limited without being lost.—Thomas Jefferson.

TIRES FROM PAPER MILLS.

There never would have been any doubt of the ability of American ingenuity and enterprise to keep the nation's motor traffic moving had the loss of our natural rubber supply occurred when those forces were free to operate.

Unfortunately they have been shackled. The same public officials who failed to build a stockpile of rubber as insurance against the fall of Singapore continued to bungle—or sabotage—the synthetic rubber program after the Singapore disaster had convinced the blindest that we must make our own rubber. We have had the spectacle of the Vice President of the United States playing the game of the plantation rubber barons, in opposing the creation of a synthetic rubber industry because it will probably, and rightfully, expect tariff protection after the war.

The incompetents and self-seekers wasted nine months before the mounting scandal forced the appointment of Administrator Jeffers. He has attacked the problem in a manner to inspire confidence. He has made clear his appreciation of the importance of keeping automobiles running if collapse of the national economy is to be averted, and he has served notice that he will not tolerate political interference with the rubber program.

But even with the rubber program under the most skillful direction, it must be recognized that the war makes it impossible for free enterprise to attack the problem as it would assuredly attack it in times of peace.

The farm labor shortage is grievous. This may shorten the supply of grain available for alcohol production in the agricultural phase of synthetic rubber production. There have been warnings in the petroleum industry that because of virtual prohibition of the development of new oil fields, we may face a petroleum shortage, and petroleum furnishes the raw materials for most of the rest of the rubber program.

Thus added reasons are given for the development of the "Tires from Trees" program, under which alcohol, a primary raw material for the buna types of synthetic rubber, is made by fermentation of the liquor from sulphite paper plants. This fermentation process, perfected at the Canadian plant which makes paper for THE TRIBUNE, has been made available to the whole paper industry. Here is a raw material which, instead of requiring additional valuable labor for its production, has actually presented a waste disposal problem in this country.

The electric power supply of the Ontario Paper company, which makes Tribune newsprint, has been severely restricted on the pretext that the power is needed for essential war industries. The reduction in the mill's operations will not affect the production of alcohol at the Ontario plant. The principal uses of power in a paper mill are in the mechanical process of making groundwood pulp and in operating the paper making machines. The liquor from which alcohol is made is a by-product of the more expensive chemical process for making sulphite pulp, which uses relatively little power. The production of sulphite pulp by the Ontario company accordingly, has not been curtailed. Sulphite pulp is needed for a great variety of war uses.

As matters stand, tires can be made from trees, but this condition would not obtain if a general curtailment of paper making were ordered in the United States and Canada, since this would affect sulphite as well as groundwood processes. The WPB authorities who are talking of such a curtailment, for no demonstrably good reason, thus threaten to sabotage one of the most promising processes for ending the rubber shortage.

The excuse of a shortage of man power has no meaning in the paper industry in which the number of men employed is already very low in relation to the volume of output. The proposed reduction in the paper supply can be intended for no better purposes than to hamstring the press and deprive the people of the news they want and must have if the war is to be won without needless delay and bloodshed. There are those in Washington who hate and fear the press and would gladly destroy its usefulness. Obviously, to such men the destruction of a most promising source of rubber is a small price to pay.

IMPUDENCE.

In the Voice of the People today is a letter which sets a new high in impudence. An advertising agent, presumably handling the account of some whiskey or beer maker, not only proffers advice on our editorial policies but asks us to report back whether it was followed.

THE TRIBUNE's stand on prohibition is well known. Our dislike for the fanatics who would impose it and the gangsters whom it produces is only equaled by our contempt for those among the makers and sellers of liquor who, by their stupidity and greed, give the fanatics an opportunity to summon back the gangsters.

We don't care for editorial advice from an advertising agent. This is no special virtue of THE TRIBUNE. It is common to every self-respecting American newspaper.

THE FORLORN DUCE.

Mussolini is now visited not by Herr Hitler but by Herr Himmler, the head of Herr Hitler's secret police. There was a time when Hitler heard from friends, who learned not to be so indiscreet, that he was regarded as an imitation of the Italian. In the grand demonstrations, both in Rome and in Berlin as well as in their conferences at the Brenner pass, Mussolini's swelling chest and jutting chin threw Hitler's small lackey appearance into an unfavorable background. He was very much the inferior gamecock when it came to filling the public eye.

Appearances are deceitful and Mussolini is no longer the gamecock but most obviously the cooked goose. The Nazi is threatening to take over Italy and reduce it to the provincial stature of one of the other minor satellites. It is a painful finish for the Augustus of the new Roman empire to reflect in the Palazzo Venezia that he saw this coming himself.

After the Austrian had come to power in Germany Mussolini told Prince Starhemberg, then in Schuschnigg's government, that if the powers didn't find a way to stop Hitler he would stop all of them. "And I," he said, "can't do it alone." He was then trying to preserve Austria but lost his nerve, feeling that he wouldn't have the support of France and Great Britain—which he would not have had. Later he had to make what he could of Adolf's telegram: "Benito, I shall never forget this." Herr Himmler in Italy is Herr Hitler's repayment of the debt.

Whatever happens from now on, it is a fair guess that Mussolini has rounded out his career. And a strange career it has been, from the ragged vagabond who was an unknown, hungry refugee in Switzerland to an imperial dictator of the Italian people, now the humble servant of the Nazis. If he had drained more Pontine marshes and kept out of Ethiopia he might have gone further.

THE SECRETARIES OF ARMY AND NAVY.

A nation which is unprepared for war must be prepared for mistakes when it goes to war. Some of them may be honest and unavoidable errors of judgment and action but no honest mistake remains unavoidable.

Mr. Roosevelt appointed Mr. Stimson secretary of war and Mr. Knox secretary of navy for transparent reasons. Both were Republicans. Mr. Roosevelt, as his countrymen knew, was determined to have a third term and, as vast numbers of them didn't know, or didn't want to know, was about to be involved in war. The part Mr. Stimson and Mr. Knox were to play was simple. They were to be show pieces demonstrating that the demand for the third term transcended party lines, that Mr. Roosevelt had risen above party government, and that a national nonpolitical administration was being formed.

The two Republicans gladly fell in with the political scheme. The old roosters had their spurs on and as secretaries they were willing to fight anything. Mr. Hull will not be regarded as the most astute secretary of state who ever tried to overawe a crafty as well as touchy and also supremely confident enemy. Nevertheless, Mr. Hull did smell trouble. He naturally had to. He was in the middle of it. He was handing an ultimatum to a foe who was waiting for him and for the American navy. He seems to have tried to convey to Mr. Roosevelt's official family his impression that all was not well and that something might happen. Mr. Roosevelt got enough of the wind to send a cable message to Hirohito. The record is full of Mr. Roosevelt's messages to crowned heads.

Mr. Knox should have shared Mr. Hull's fears. The orders which should have gone to Pearl Harbor from the navy department would have shaken the most obtuse commander out of his complacency. It was Knox's business to know what Hull was doing and to act upon it. It was also the business of the commander in chief. It was also Mr. Stimson's business to warn the army in unmistakable terms and to order an alert. The admiral and the general in command have been punished by removal from command but the two secretaries who paid no attention to what the third was doing remain in their posts, altho the only qualification they had for their office was that of being obliging Republicans in a successful effort to break down a two term tradition.

The American navy still confronts its most formidable task. Its air arm in the battles of the Coral sea and at Midway inflicted great damage on Japanese sea power. It is perhaps true that the effect of the losses inflicted have been exaggerated. One time it was estimated that a third of the Japanese navy, aside from battleships, had been put out of action. The navy air successes against Japanese sea power should not obscure the fact that when surface vessels have met, the Japanese got the better of it.

Our Asiatic squadron may have been in a hopeless position from the start in the actions around Java, but the fact is that Adm. Hart resigned rather than submit to the orders which placed him under Dutch command and presumably dictated a strategy which he could not indorse. In the more recent sea actions in the Solomons we have admitted the loss of three cruisers in a fight with Japanese surface vessels. A number of destroyers were lost in similar circumstances. Vice Adm. Ghormley has now been removed, two months after the tragic event but barely two weeks after the news of it was revealed. It is admitted in Washington that the navy's task is stupendous and it is further conceded that we cannot rely upon meeting the Japanese fleet in equal strength.

The navy department's policy of concealing its losses for months is more than a little disquieting, the practice of putting American ships under foreign admirals and putting the protection of foreign territory above American interests more so, but even if the toll as published is complete, as is by no means certain, the fact is clear that our navy has never suffered as many losses in its previous history as it has thus far in the war with Japan. It has never been engaged in a more momentous struggle. In such an emergency it would seem that the navy could use as its executive head an administrator whose qualifications were other than that of being a Republican who was willing to front for the third term. In the war department that measuring stick also could be applied to Mr. Stimson. Their country might profit from the resignation of these secretaries. Retirement, if a sacrifice, would be a contribution to the national good.

Editorial of the Day

GOEBBELS IN INDIANA.

[Indianapolis News.]

Germany's arch propagandist, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister of national enlightenment and propaganda, seems to have fallen victim to a temptation to show the people of Indiana a few political tricks.

The slick work of the intrepid Goebbels came to light in Indiana when some New Deal spellbinders put out the threat that a vote against the New Deal would be interpreted in the enemy countries as evidence of American disunity and opposition to the war. The line of this argument is that this impression of American weakness would embolden the enemies and inspire them to fight all the harder for a quick victory.

Goebbels achieves this effect by broadcasting it to such of the American people as care to listen to German propaganda for anything but a laugh. He puts the very words into the mouths of the gullible orators. In their eagerness to work any kind of vote racket that seems good, they echo the Nazi argument that since opposition to Hitler is a concentration camp offense, opposition to the administration in this country must be at least a sign of weakness.

If the American people were foolish enough to fall for the Goebbels line—as the primaries and recent polls prove that many are not—Goebbels would rate another medal. He would be able to prove that he had done a good job of preventing the people from building a fire under the Washington laggards.

DODGING THE ISSUE.

The book we wanted for reference was "out," but the obliging librarian continued to search and to offer suggestions, such as borrowing it from another library.

"No, don't bother," we said. "If the book is out, our idea is out, and we'll find another. In the bright lexicon of columnists, there is no such word as 'delay'."

* * *

There is our reaction, also, to dismal discussions of shortages. Coffee, for example. The question comes up at almost every dinner table. "How is the supply, steward?" . . . "I know a wholesale coffee merchant who——". "Well, we'll be on coffee rations soon." . . . Worry, fretfulness, pessimism. Nobody ever thinks of switching from coffee to tea, and liking it.

* * *

We are a coffee drinker but not an addict, and can transfer our affection to tea, if necessary, with the greatest of ease. We have found that its effect as an eye-opener in the morning; as a brain-refresher when dull, as a soother when the nerves are on edge, is better than that of coffee.

* * *

But if a tea shortage creeps up on the nation, what then? Well, you can worry and tear your hair, but we will turn to maté for our shots of caffeine. Yerba maté, also called Paraguay tea, Jesuits' tea, tea of the Missions, and St. Bartholomew's tea. Millions of South Americans prefer it to tea or coffee, and the trade in it is enormous.

* * *

The centrally located groceries of Chicago have carried small stocks of maté for years. We have sampled it, and found it a pleasant substitute for tea. It tastes like a mildly flavored dental powder, but a nation that has slugged billions of barrels of queer soft drinks could become accustomed to it in two weeks.

* * *

Cocoa is another agreeable tipple of similar drug content [theobromine, caffeine]. It will serve admirably in the emergency. . . . Coffee shortage, so what? . . . Waiter, a calabash of yerba maté, with a silver bombilla, if you please.

HERO'S REQUIEM.

There is no death, when Glory's accolade
Anoints our gallant sons, tho they may fall
Defending Freedom's last red barricade;
They never die, who answer Glory's call.
Mourn not the deathless sacrifice they give
To give to tortured innocents the prayer
That peace again on earth shall freely live,
And hope shall rise above abject despair.

The hero's requiem is pitched in tones
Of thunder from unearthly batteries;
His tapers flare from flaming battle zones;
His bier, the reddened earth, and shell-torn trees.
He joins the peerless company "gone West";
There is no death; there's only well-earned rest.

Uncle Looie's Farewell Party.

Hon. Linemaster: You shood uv sawn tha farewell party we thrun fer your contributor "Uncle Looie" alias Le Van Roberts. Course some of tha boobs who aint got tha nerve to say "No" hadda drag their wives wit them, but its like I always says, "In this world ya gotta take tha bitter with tha sweet" [on a/c tha Touhy gang is on tha loose tha mama didn' wear her jewel].

Looie tried to get in as a major or a colonel but tha man said "No" an they agreed to split tha difference, so if ya wanna drop him a line address it Private Uncle Looie. Personally I can't see why a man who clerks in a book store shood'n rate as a general, but then, who am I that shood dictate to tha MacArthurs an tha Dooleys.

When we decided to throw tha shindig a committee of 17 was formed to buy a going away present for Looie. O. O. Flossie suggested a umbrella. I kiboshed that as being very impractical, cause what tha hell good wood that be when tha bombs are dropping. McTavish tha big-hearted Scotchman said he wood sell us a 20 inch globe at 5% off tha list, which he says is practically wholesale. This gift aint a bad idea cause if they shoved Looie off to some country that he aint never heard of he cood just pull out the ole globe an show tha boys where they was at.

C. O. R. suggested a fancy knapsack but I'm afraid Looie wood get that shot off of him tha first time out where as shirt studs wood never get hit. A. Drain from Arizona says a pair of spats wood be in order, with that guys brain it wood'n of surprised me if he'd suggested a bowl of gold fish. Casual, tha big shot who some day is gonna make tha first page, yea, he's doing it tha hard way, last week he made tha back page, well he says he wood sell us tha last 5000 of his books of sombre poems at cost. This wood save our government bokoo jack, Looie could use them instead of grenades as tha Japs wood laff themselves to death.

Odd One claims a ½ doz. pairs of silk sox might be nice, it certainly wood espeshially if they waz anklets an Looie was sent to Russia. No wonder she's called Odd. Euginie Stein says we cood have one of her new kittens fer nuthin, and it cood be tha company mascot, can ya imagine what tha gang wood do to a black cat and dear Looie.

Ennyway, when they all got thru shootin off their bazoos I collected 4 bits a piece an bought tha guy tha thing I knew he wanted. A quart of bourbon. When I gave it to him he thanked me a doz. times. Duke Bakrak.

P. S. But he didn' open it.

TO A NEW RECRUIT.

Perhaps I made my farewell "short and sweet"
(Not gay, for that's a bit too much to ask).
I hope you did not think it incomplete. . . .
I wonder if you knew how hard a task

It was to keep those teardrops safely hid:
To speak with clear and level-headed voice.
"Aloha, friend, aloha," thus I bid,
Of all farewells, my extra-special choice

Because I like my partings brief. And then,
"Aloha" means all that I wished to say:
"Good luck, my friend, until we meet again,
Good luck, and God be with you all the way!"

AUTUMN DIARRHEA IN INFANCY.

ORDINARILY we associate digestive upsets in our little ones with torrid days and nights. But there is another season when the malady is relatively common. With the approach of cooler weather, these episodes increase in frequency. Apparently many of our youngsters are susceptible to chill, affecting particularly the abdominal wall.

Of course, we must not forget polluted foods or the fact that the trouble may really originate in the tonsils, the middle ear, or somewhere along the respiratory tract. Pus that is swallowed or absorbed may play havoc with the alimentary tube.

If the seizure is severe there is no time to waste. An emergency is presented and the disorder may be likened to shock. The temperature is usually high but the skin may feel clammy and cold. Number one on the program for relief includes heat to the outside of the body. Electric heating pads or the old fashioned mustard bath may be lifesaving.

Then comes replacement of water which has been drained away thru the bowel and vomiting. The departing fluid has been stolen from the blood stream. This has left the circulation unable to flow freely as the serum is gluelike.

As a rule, refilling the reservoir via drinking water is impossible, as the stomach will refuse to retain even a teaspoonful. Rectal feedings may also be futile. This means injections of solutions beneath the skin or directly into a vein. Normal salt is the preparation of choice. It may be necessary to employ more than one avenue as assimilation is sometimes slow.

Next in importance is the restoration of proteins. With the tiny patient critically ill, a substantial portion of the intestinal mucous lining may have been destroyed. In addition, many ounces of serum [protein] from the vital fluid may have been squeezed out of the capillaries. In consequence, extensive swelling of the tissues—which always follows this condition—may be observed. Then it is that blood plasma is needed desperately and the physician will know exactly what to do.

Let us assume that the hours of anxiety have passed. We must then proceed to place the child back on an even keel with adequate nutriment. Our grandmothers knew all about castor oil. This remedy not only sweeps the bowel clear of millions of noxious germs but the aftereffect is constipating. In other words, the intestine is mildly paralyzed. This explains why small doses—2 to 5 drops—may reduce the number of bowel movements. If looseness persists, the symptom may be overcome in this manner. Occasionally, bismuth subnitrate or kaolin or both will be helpful.

So much attention has been directed toward the sulfonamide drugs that we may be inclined to place too much dependence upon them. But they are of the greatest value and, in the presence of a badly poisoned alimentary canal, sulfaguanidine or some other derivative may alter the picture abruptly from one that appears hopeless to convalescence.

Many a wise mother, with the onset of autumn, will provide her tots with flannel binders and thus forestall the harmful effects of chill.

HERPES.

Mrs. B. writes: Can shingles affect children?

REPLY.

Herpes about the mouth [cold sores] are common manifestations with children. The chest variety [zoster] appears more frequently between the ages of 8 and 20. Cases among infants have been reported.

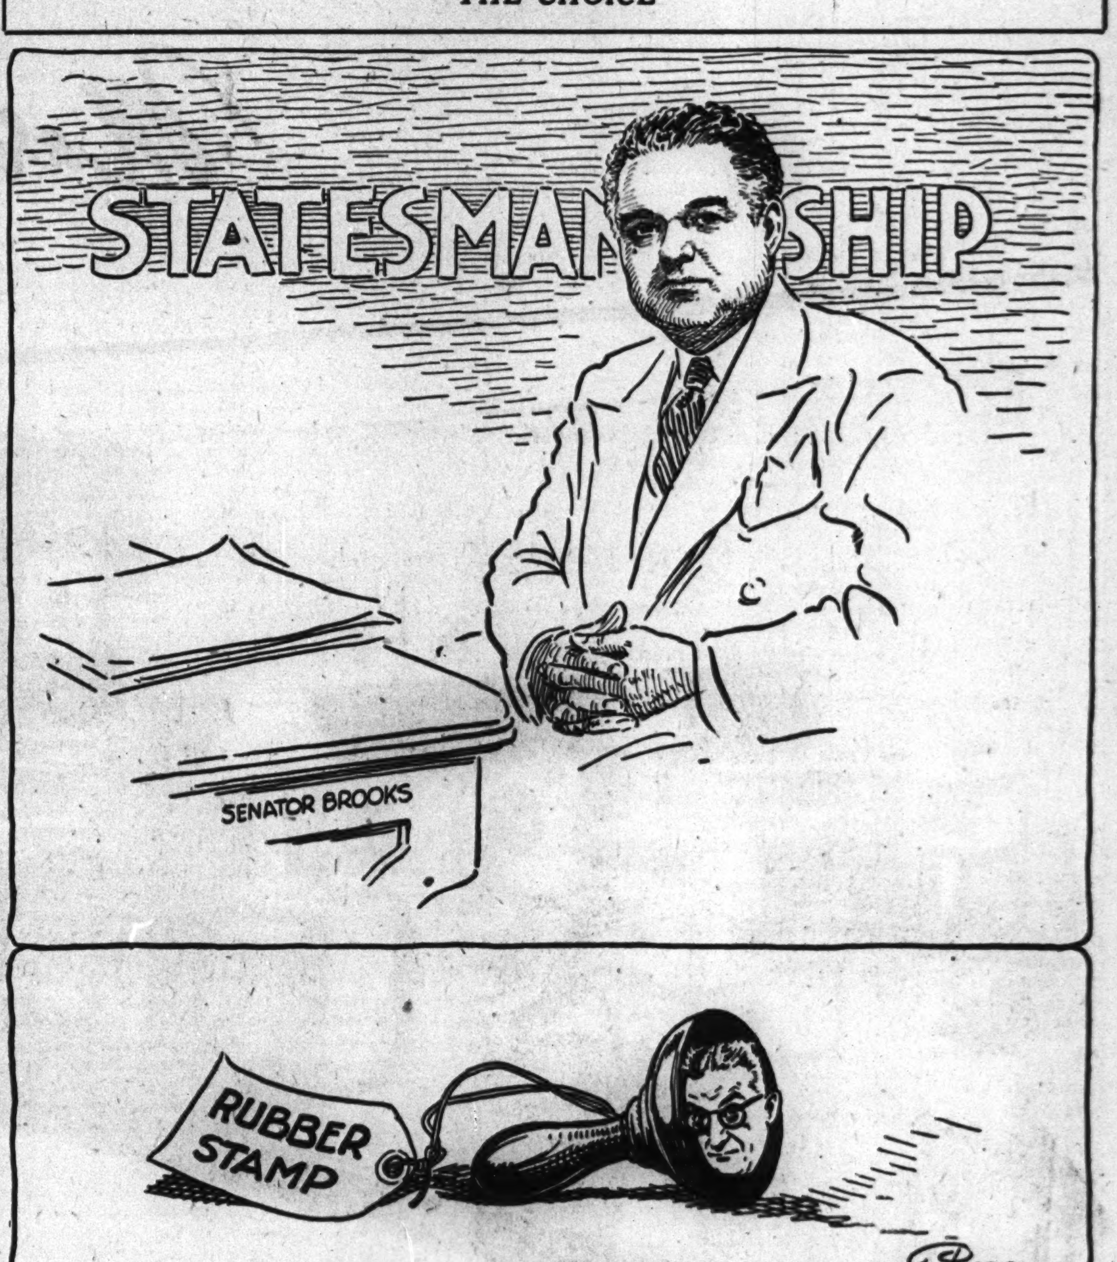
ENLARGED GLANDS.

C. H. writes: What causes swollen glands in the neck?

REPLY.

An infection, probably within the mouth or throat.

THE CHOICE



VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

MAYOR KELLY CONVERTS A DEMOCRAT.

Rantoul, Ill., Oct. 21.—Last night I listened to a speech by Mayor Kelly in which he said a vote for a Republican is a vote for Hitler, and that there is only two weeks left to save our country, and requested the people to get busy over the telephone and write letters to people everywhere to go to the polls Nov. 3 and vote Democratic.

You bet your life I will get busy, but instead of working for the falsifiers in the Democratic ranks, I will do all in my power to elect a Republican ticket for Illinois. I have always been a Democrat, but never again. How can Mayor Kelly expect the good people of America to keep on buying bonds and giving everything they have, even to the precious blood of their sons and daughters, to win this war when he talks like that? Just as many Republicans as Democrats are doing everything in their power to escape the wrath of Hitler and such a speech as that should be the turning point for all well meaning Democrats.

MRS. H. Y.

ASSISTING THE SCRAP DRIVE.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—We are very happy to have a print of Carey Orr's cartoon on scrap, which appeared first on the front page and later as an enlargement on the back page, not only because it is an artistic addition to our office, but because it is representative of the excellent publicity which you have been giving to the scrap drive. We are trying to put all of the good support which you have given us to the best possible use for the war effort, and I am sure that Chicago is going to end up with an outstanding contribution.

I am glad to convey my thanks to you on behalf of the War Production board for your continuing assistance.

JOHN NUVEEN JR.,
Regional Conservation Manager, War Production Board.

DEMAND EXCEEDS SUPPLY.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Oct. 19.—THE TRIBUNE should have presses for 20 million papers or more per hour. The people thirst for its news, for they know it speaks truth, not politics.

Many of us are compelled to drift for a livelihood and cannot be subscribers. For the last three days I have been unable to purchase a copy. Newsstands say they cannot keep enough—sold upon arrival. Hotels say they are only allowed so many—in this hotel, just seven copies—all spoken for until check out.

L. A. DE LA PIERRE.

RECOGNIZES A FACE.

Ladd, Ill., Oct. 14.—It was with great pleasure that, in looking over the rotogravure section of the SUNDAY TRIBUNE Sept. 27, I recognized in one of the pictures my son, who, according to the description, must be in New Caledonia. I want to take this opportunity to extend you my sincere thanks for the kind interest the paper is taking in the boys.

JOSEPH CAMPEGGIO.

IMPUDENCE.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—We shall greatly appreciate it if you will advise us if you have been able to assist in opposing the rider to the draft bill referred to in the following telegram which was sent to you yesterday:

"Sen. Josh Lee of Oklahoma has proposed an amendment to bill for drafting of 18 and 19 year olds which would prohibit sale of beer in and around army and navy establishments. Bill and amendment scheduled for senate action tomorrow. We urge that you telegraph or phone your senators today expressing strong opposition to this insidious attempt to insert a prohibition rider to the bill in question. This ill-timed amendment is opposed by Secretaries Knox and Stimson, also by American Legion."

Secretary of War Stimson believes the passage of the bill would result in a return to the "speakeasy and bootlegging" days.

W. E. STEVENS,

HOW UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE WORKS.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 19.—A federal department recently advertised for men for some New York job not requiring special skill, offering $35 a week. They expected hundreds to respond the first day but succeeded in getting only 93. There happen to be 120,000 persons in New York City drawing unemployment insurance.

This serves to confirm the opinion of many observers that unemployment insurance is probably the most asinine of the many asinine devices which are being used to encourage unemployment, to restrict production, and to prevent prosperity, in the hope of driving us into a state of desperation that will make us accept still more Communism, in fact, if not in name, than has already been forced upon us.

RAY ROBSON.

BROOKS SPEAKS FOR THE PEOPLE.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Mayor Kelly has a flimsy excuse in trying to smear our Sen. Brooks with his wild rantings that whoever votes Republican will have Adolf and Benito jumping for joy. Doesn't wind-bag Kelly realize that the majority of mid-westerners stood behind Brooks and that Brooks spoke their decisions and judgments? It's those same people who are going to reelect a senator who represents the people, not a political machine. It's about time to clean house, and reelecting Brooks is the beginning.

REAPER WILLO.

NOISY DEMOCRATS.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—I thought we had an anti-noise ordinance in the city and even if we haven't, what makes the Democratic headquarters at 80th and Cottage Grove think the whole neighborhood wants to hear their speeches?

From 8 o'clock until now [10:30] thru a loud speaker arrangement on the street the blaring can be heard for blocks around and it's still going strong.

I fail to see how they figure to make any friends thru such tactics of disturbing the peace.

H. M.

NOSE TROUBLE.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—I would like to venture a guess as an answer to I. F.'s question in Monday's TRIBUNE regarding the fellow in the army who writes to his wife in German and she, in turn, answers in German. They in all probability know I. F. has what is commonly known as "nose trouble," and don't care to have their personal mail read by her. Maybe the fellow loves his wife and it's a secret.

ARLIE L. FRITZ.

JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. For three years we have been paying off a judgment held against us for back rent which, along with lawyer's fee, doubled the actual amount owed.

2. Oct. 19 will be our final payment on this judgment. We are wondering if we could demand then, that our name be removed from the blacklist of the [3] rental credit association?

4. How can we be sure our name is removed, and our good credit standing reestablished?

E. H.

1. In order to raise any question as to the amount of the judgment you should have made a prompt motion.

2. You can obtain a printed satisfaction of the judgment from the plaintiff's attorney.

3. You cannot effectively demand this. The renting agents are entitled to use the information in their possession in deciding whether a person's record is such as to make him a good tenant.

4. Convince the renting agents that you will pay your debts.

TWO SCHOOLBOYS ESCAPE AS AUTO SKIDS INTO LAKE

Two Hirsch High school students escaped serious injury yesterday when their automobile skidded off Doty avenue, near 130th street, and overturned in Lake Calumet. They are James Borgie, 17 years old, 7821 Avalon avenue, and Carmen Di Cosola, 15, of 1025 East 79th street. They smashed a window of the car, crawled out, and waded to shore. They were taken to the Roseland Community hospital. Di Cosola suffered deep gashes on his neck. Borgie was treated for shock.

Mrs. Anna Coleman, 46, died in Westlake Memorial hospital at Melrose Park of injuries suffered last Monday when she fell from a truck driven by her husband, John. She lived at 509 Madison street, Maywood.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 562 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 431 died in Chicago where 16,346 were injured in the same period.

FALLS DOWN STAIRS; KILLED.

John Thompson, 32 years old, Negro, 4939 South Park way, was killed yesterday when he fell down a flight of stairs at 5632 Calumet avenue.

WATCH DRIVING AND YOU'LL GET MORE FROM GAS

Tests Show Steady Pace Most Economical.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Watch your driving and you can squeeze a lot more mileage out of the gasoline in your car's tank. This advice is given as a result of a number of driving tests made on Chicago streets to help motorists to prepare for gasoline rationing which goes into effect Nov. 22. The tests were made to find out how much mileage can be obtained from a gallon of gasoline under various types of driving.

Information useful to motorists gleaned from the tests—conducted by a Tribune reporter and two veteran automobile men—included the following points:

1. The surest way to save gasoline is to maintain a steady pressure on the accelerator.

2. There isn't much difference in the amount of gasoline consumed at speeds of 25, 30, and 35 miles an hour. However, 35 miles an hour appears to be the most economical speed in the range permitted by wartime regulations.

3. A calm driver who drives with thought to gasoline economy may get as much as 5 miles more out of a gallon of gasoline than the nervous driver who pumps on the accelerator and generally is so intent on getting to his destination that he forgets about his car.

4. Driving in congested traffic reduces mileage.

5. The "slam-bam" driver who cuts in and out of traffic will pay for his actions in reduced mileage.

Veterans Make Tests.

Arthur Levy and E. L. Pippin were the two veteran auto men taking part in the tests. A 1942 medium sized Buick was used. The engine was somewhat overdue for a tuneup, but the spark plugs had less than 3,000 miles of service and the carburetor had been adjusted within the month.

In making the tests a glass container holding one-tenth of a gallon of gasoline was attached to the car at the front window where it could be observed. The container was kept filled with gasoline by means of hosing connected with the car's fuel system. When the tests were in operation gasoline was fed from the container to the engine.

Mileage measured by the speedometer is in tenths of a mile. Thus to get the mileage on a gallon basis the mileage obtained from one filling of the container—one-tenth of a gallon—was obtained by multiplying by ten the number of tenth miles traveled as shown on the speedometer. Tests were made at speeds which did not go above the wartime rate of 35 miles an hour.

Try "Slam-Bam" Driving.

The first test was with "slam-bam" driving. The car was started by slamming down on the accelerator as the gears were shifted from first to high. A milk wagon got in the way. The car was brought to a screeching stop. Then it was started again with a bang. A stop sign at Pulaski road halted the car for a moment. Another banging start and the accelerator got a lot of attention in the next few blocks. A red light at Foster avenue brought stop No. 3. The car turned west into Foster, with some more pushing on the accelerator.

Each time the accelerator was pushed down the gasoline could be seen leaving the container. And when the test was completed the mileage was 11 miles to the gallon.

The second test was made with careful driving at a speed of 35 miles an hour north along Cicero avenue. The car stopped momentarily at Peterson avenue while a light changed from red to green and came to a full stop at Devon avenue before proceeding again. Mileage was 18 to the gallon.

Get Nearly 21 Miles.

The third test was made at 35 miles an hour with no stops. The mileage was slightly under 21 to the gallon.

Test No. 4 was of the type of driving seen frequently on the Outer drive. There was lots of gunning of the accelerator and sudden stops similar to the driving of the hurry up boys as they cut in and out of traffic along the drives. The mileage rate was 11 to the gallon.

Test No. 5 was made at 25 miles an hour with careful driving southeast along Caldwell avenue. One stop was made and the rate was 21 miles to the gallon.

Test No. 6 was made at 20 miles an hour with careful driving. Two complete stops were made and the rate was 20 miles to the gallon.

Test No. 7 was made at 30 miles an hour with careful driving. Altho five complete stops were made, the mileage was just slightly under 20 miles to the gallon.

Test No. 8 was made with fairly careful driving at 35 miles an hour. The car was driven eastward along Foster avenue, twice was slowed down by traffic lights, and dropped to 25 miles an hour as it passed North Park college. The mileage was 20 to the gallon.

Test No. 9 was to determine how much gasoline is consumed in letting the engine idle while the car is waiting for some one. After idling the engine for four minutes with less than 100th of a gallon consumed the test got tiresome and was called off. The four minutes seemed an hour.

Test No. 10 simulated a shopping trip southward along Lincoln avenue from Foster avenue. Speed was at 15 to 20 miles an hour and not over the 25 legal rate. First stop was at a shop near Ainslie street where the car was stopped and backed into a small parking space. In all, three shopping stops were made, with the engine shut off and started again, and there was a fourth stop for a red light. Mileage was 13 to the gallon.

Test No. 11 simulated loop driving in which the car crawled and then was speeded to get out of the way of vehicles. Only 10 miles to the gallon was obtained.

Conclusions reached were that 35 miles an hour is the most economical speed because with careful driving gasoline consumption is near the minimum and the pressure rate on the oil system is high and the charging rate for the battery is excellent.

Wins Contest

Sondra Davis, 10 years old, 1304 North Wells street, with talking, singing doll she won in W-G-N contest.

Sondra Davis, 10 year old colored girl living at 1304 North Wells street, was one of the happiest girls in Chicago yesterday. Her happiness came when Uncle Harold Isbell, who reads the Tribune comics every Sunday between 11:35 a. m. and noon over W-G-N, handed her a singing and talking doll as first place winner in the girls' division of W-G-N's funny paper party contest. Stanley Klugiewicz, 9, of 2905 North Springfield avenue, won first prize in the boys' division—a shiny model electric train. The prizes were awarded for the best letters telling what Tribune funnies they like best and why.

Women's Club Gives Cottage to Shelter Boys at Lake Villa

BY JUDITH CASS.

A STUNNING, modern $24,000 cottage complete and paid for was delivered by the Boys Shelter club to the Allendale association at Lake Villa, Ill., a few days ago. Dedicated "to the Allendale work for boys," the building will house 18 of the 100 youngsters the association looks after and represents much planning and hard work by the Chicago women who since 1906 have had the interests of homeless adolescents near to their hearts.

The club was founded by 16 women members of the Children's Hospital society when the society, because of the opening of new hospitals and the increased number of free beds for children, found its work no longer necessary. At that time the late Mrs. Katherine Ellwood Allport headed the club. The first work of these women as a group was to supervise relief work for the San Francisco fire sufferers, at the request of Dr. Lewis Linn McArthur. An office was established downtown and hundreds of helpers were recruited to handle the 16 carloads of clothing that were on their way west in record time—the largest amount sent by any one city. Memories of Chicago's own fire disaster probably still were vivid.

Club Undertakes Care of Boys Lacking Homes.

In 1906 every one connected with the courts and social service work felt that assistance for destitute and homeless boys was a necessity. The society founded the Boys' Shelter club and rented a flat in Harrison street where boys could find shelter and a clean bed. Meal tickets to a nearby restaurant were provided, as was clothing, when necessary. Eventually the club became affiliated with the Allendale farm, a home for boys founded by Edward L. Bradley, where the first Shelter cottage was built in 1909.

The new one, which resembles the handsomest of Lake Forest residences, was designed by Ambrose C. Cramer. There is a recreation room in the basement, a living room, dining room, and housemother's suite, and two enormous dormitories.

To carry on the work of the club, its members will meet next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at the Drake to start a dollar drive. Mrs. Edwin S. Noble heads the club, whose other officers are Mrs. Franklin Martin, Mrs. Charles S. Reed, Mrs. Rudolph Prussing, and Mrs. James W. McCulloh. An especially active member is Mrs. Robert White, whose eldest son, Robert Jr., recently was promoted to a captaincy in the air service command of the army. He and his wife are in Dayton.

Mrs. Coleman's Birthday Celebration Is Canceled.

It is with great disappointment and much sympathy for Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman that those who were to have gone to her 75th birthday party this afternoon are hearing that the celebration has been canceled. The party was called off when Mrs. Coleman and other Chicago relatives of Ensign Walter Cobb Coleman, U. S. N. R., learned of his death in line of duty in the Caribbean area on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, who were to have been the birthday hosts this afternoon, and Mrs. Coleman had been planning a special party for this particular anniversary for several years. Mrs. Coleman is honorary president of the Woman's Aid society of the Passavant hospital, of which Mrs. Kirk is president. Ensign Coleman, son-in-law of the W. Edwin Stanleys, was Mrs. Coleman's step-grandson. His widow and their small daughter are somewhere in South America.

St. Luke's Fashion Show to Be Held on Wednesday.

The patriotic motif without a doubt is favored for decorations for this year's parties, whether for fun or for charity. A patriotic theme and a preview of one of the Chicago Opera company's new singers are attractions for the finale of the St. Luke's fashion show performances Wednesday afternoon and night in the Civic Opera house.

Men and women in uniform will appear on the stage. Bruce Foot, baritone, who won the opera auditions held during the summer and fall and was awarded a place with the company, will lead in singing "The Star Spangled Banner." Mr. Foot has been at the University of Illinois, whose president, Arthur Cutts Willard, and Mrs. Willard, will attend the evening performance as guests of Robert F. Carr.

Woman's Symphony Board Plans Halloween Party.

Members of the Woman's Symphony board of directors are ransacking their Victory gardens for decorations for the symphony benefit Friday afternoon and evening at Huyler's, 310 South Michigan avenue. Witches and hobgoblins and other Halloween creatures will be everywhere visible. Mrs. Edward M. Whiting, Mrs. James G. Shakman, Mrs. Charles Wrigley, and Mrs. Hugo Delmar have promised corn shucks, pumpkins, and colored fruit from their homes. Mrs. Whiting also has obtained two skeletons, and the board announced two prizes for the apple bobbing contest, one for the best "bobber," the other for whoever gets the wettest.

There will be plenty of servicemen at the party. Mrs. Shakman has invited a sailor from Great Lakes Naval Training station and those of his buddies who can have time off on Friday night to be her guests. Mrs. Delmar is entertaining others, and Mrs. Walter D. Monroe has taken an extra table, alongside her own, for the use of servicemen. Frederick Herendeen will be master of ceremonies and announce the fashion show during the dinner.

Mrs. Frank Brawley will open her home at 1448 Lake Shore drive for a meeting of the literary tea group at 3 o'clock today. Mrs. Clarence Hough will give readings from "Apple in the Attic" by Mildred Jordan of Chicago and Reading, Pa. Mrs. Brawley will be assisted at the tea table by her daughter, Mrs. Harold Walker Lewis.

The following letter is typical of many received from married couples or single persons who, altho they cannot afford to sacrifice gainful employment to give their time to war jobs, are eager to devote their free time to the war effort. We know of no short hour work plan in industry at the moment, but publish the letter in the hope that employers may be inspired to work out such a plan.

"Perhaps there are thousands of other men and women situated as we are, as employés in nondefense industries. We have a daughter in college and cannot afford to give up our positions now. We would, however, gladly devote as much as four hours each evening to learning any defense work or doing the most menial work of this kind after our regular workday is done.

"We both are in excellent health and anxious to help in any way that we can to help win the war. My husband is an air raid warden, has taken the advanced course in first aid, and plans to take the instructors' course.

"The schools I have investigated require that the trainee be an employé of a vital industry. It would seem to me that if we are to man these plants with additional workers they must be taken from outside the ranks of defense plants. Undoubtedly it is necessary to further educate those already employed, but isn't it just as vital to bring new blood into the industry thru these training schools?

"In short, what we are looking for is short hour work in a vital industry or in a school where we can learn to be of use."

Don Cossacks Sing Like True Sons of Russia

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Something sharply effective had happened to the Don Cossack chorus under the direction of Serge Jaroff when it celebrated its 20th season and its 13th tour of the United States by singing two concerts at the Civic Opera house Sunday to benefit Russian war relief. Tho these exiled White Russians no longer boast a single traditional beard to their 34 names, they have rediscovered, if they ever doubted it, that they are deeply, ineradicably Russian, and that political color fades in a crisis.

Only a few years ago when they sang Tchneskoff's powerful chant, "O God, Save Thy People," you caught in their singing the unmistakable pathos of old days remembered and old friends lost.

Yesterday afternoon, when they sang that chant and sang it magnificently, you knew they were singing, not with pathos, but with blazing fervor, and not of the past, but of the poignant present. You knew they were singing for embattled Russia where red is no longer the color of revolution, but of blood.

* * *

This sharp shift of focus from past to present ran thru the concert like a pulse of new life. I don't know about other people, but I was growing a little weary of these singing Cossacks, despite their unquestioned dominance in their field. The resounding brilliance of their American debut had slipped into an annual routine of concerts, each much like what had gone before. The faithful were reduced to lamenting the beards as they vanished.

But yesterday it wasn't like that. The beards were gone, but the voices were back in all their barbaric splendor, with that strange Slavic texture based on layers of tenebrous tone, all of it mesmerized by the tiny conductor who is a wizard in Cossack boots.

* * *

There were new songs that ranged from a mystical service honoring the dead to a broadly infectious peasant song called "In Praise of Raspberries." There were three shining songs dedicated to the Cossack's anniversary by Shvedoff, culminating in an unsheathed war cry that melted into a prayer for Russia. There were traditional songs so inextricably Russian that only Russians can hope to sing them.

There were times when the chorus was as murmurous as the Lvoff chant, "Of Thy Mystical Supper," times when it was as rollicking as the balalaika strumming of its matchless basses. But always it sang superbly, and when the dancers appeared, they too, had been brushed by the irresistible. Perhaps these exiled Russians merely shone in the reflection of the invincible. At any rate, they shone.

* * *

At the Goodman Sunday afternoon, Harry Swanson, baritone, and Florence Henline, pianist, appeared in joint recital to benefit army and navy relief. They were sponsored by the American Daughters of Sweden.

Miss Henline, who is a member of the Woman's Symphony orchestra, has the beginnings of a bold style suggested in the Bach-Szanto organ prelude, and a flair for Brahms that was unmistakable in the opening of an intermezzo. But her Chopin was surprisingly shallow. Mr. Swanson, who needs to unstiffen himself both physically and vocally, has a pleasant baritone with a good legato, but he has pinched and bleached it by poor production.

Stop!

This little homily is directed to the attention of those officials, whoever they are, who take care of players injured in football games in this first year of national feminine participation in the sport of first aid:

Maybe you are unaware of it, you officials, but we ladies cannot forget [for feminist lecturers remind us daily] that we now have 60 per cent of the vote, 85 per cent of the money, all of the responsibility of the kitchen, the last nylon hose of our times, and an opportunity to take over 70 per cent of the work in war industry. Our newest field of infiltration is that of first aid; 9 out of 10 dream it. Well . . .

In the Northwestern-Seahawks game two weeks ago a player was knocked out. Thousands watched as he was placed upon the cold, cold ground while the water boy, orange peel boy, coach, captain, and 21 players carefully scrutinized his face. He lay there two minutes. When he did not respond to his name, the color vision test, a dash of cold water, and verbal inducements to come on, get conscious, and let's get on with the game, two huskies grabbed him by his legs. He then was lugged off the field with arms swinging and head lolling.

Maybe you officials don't know, but our first aid manuals say:

Stop! Do not move the victim in that position. Give him air, keep him clear, bring a stretcher or lift him carefully, four men to a side. Keep him warm.

Didn't you officials hear the murmur of horror that swept thru the stands? Didn't you hear the buzzing as outraged first aiders stipulated to their companions what you should have done? Didn't you see several jump to their feet and start to stride toward you?

Just a word of advice, boys. We really don't want to take over the football field, too, but you make it irresistible.

Summer Ended.

Raising his hand the master soundlessly
Compelled attention; hushed were listeners.
Breathless expectancy hung quivering till

His own heart strings, vibrating one to one
With each loved instrument, attuned his ear
To nuances of tone heard on earth.
Concern swayed him lest sound be overdone . . .

With sparkling eye and fingers that inspired,
He drew the eager strings to rise and swell
To warmth of color past belief, the flower
Of swift crescendo—strains his soul desired.

No more his feet ascend that podium throne;
Celestial orchestras reclaim their own.

—Mary Pauline Richardson.

Perhaps.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I'll give you a lot of movie sleuths with pleasure—but you can't have Lloyd Nolan. I want him.

This very slick and credible actor has been, as you probably know, appearing off and on in a series wherein one Michael Shayne, amateur sleuth, foils the cops and solves the mystery of the corpse.

As this picture opens he's sitting on a jury in the case of the People vs. Lillian Hubbard, charged with the murder of her fiancé, Harley Forsythe. . . .

That night he escapes from the hotel room where he's locked up with another juror, and in a few sma' dark hours—assisted by a determined and sassy young newspaper woman, gets evidence which brings the deserving party to justice. . . . [WHERE HAVE I MET THIS PLOT BEFORE? I think it was used for a picture featuring Gail Patrick. . . . See "Just Off Broadway" and tell me the name of the production it's so remindful of. Please?]

Here's a fast and entertaining whodunnit. Everybody plays up excellently excepting Marjorie Weaver, who as the girl reporter acts like a fool. . . . But maybe, the director was at fault. She's a pretty thing, anyway. . . . Joan Valerie, in the rôle of a night club entertainer—much under suspicion—is perfectly lovely. [To look at.]

As for Mr. Nolan—ah-h-h! Not purty—but O the dis and the dat!. . .

Antagonism Will Not Solve Pair's Problem

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

They thought it would be a grand idea to open a joint account in both their names and thus save for the future. They—he, 20, and she, 19—opened the account and got an enormous kick out of seeing it grow the last six months. They're engaged after a courtship that dates back to junior high school days. So it would seem that this young pair were set for something constructive as well as romantic. But the best laid plans of mice and men, as you know, may go awry. And our young pair feels that it's up against an insoluble problem. The boy's mother got wind of the savings account and she's on the war path. Her boy is too young, she argues, for any such seriousness. She needs whatever money he has to save. She doesn't like the girl either. She wouldn't like any girl her son would choose, seemingly. The young couple assumes she's out to wreck their plans.

The above abbreviated tale was told to us by the young woman in the case. It's she who assumes the boy's mother is out to hold her boy against any and all female assault.

We would like to hear that mother's side. Perhaps the wage-earning son offers her nothing for his board and keep. Perhaps he is not the son around home he might be. Perhaps she feels the girl is unduly aggressive and possessive. Anyway, mother has a side. Her boy is 20, which, in a parent's eyes today, at least, is pretty young for marriage in view of the war situation and economic pressure in all departments of living.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 25.—Instead of objecting as some have hinted, it was Claudette Colbert herself who asked to have Paulette Goddard and Veronica Lake in "So Proudly We Hail," even tho Claudette has a clause in her contract which forbids her being co-starred with any other actress. But in times like these, with the shortage of man power, contract clauses have become rather unimportant. I hope her example will be followed by other biggies, 'cause it's something to be proud about. It's coöperation such as this that will carry our industry thru a mighty tough war. . . . Met Commander Fitzhugh Green at the Martin Broones' dinner. He's just returned from Guadalcanal, and brings thrilling news about our Gene Markey. The men over there don't care a darn that he was once married to Joan Bennett or Hedy Lamarr, or that he got a $5,000 a week salary here, but they do admire him as a man. His commanding officer has recommended that he be given the navy cross for valor in saving the lives of two men.

Man of Action.

Now we're getting somewhere, since Charles Francis Coe is a member of the Hays organization. And boy! Is he in there pitching! He knows what he's talking about. In the last war he was a fighter in the navy and kept on fighting until he was their champion. He's written about 300 stories for the Saturday Evening Post. Dozens of pictures have been made from them. Coe knows everybody. He's a two fisted fighter, and our producers should be mighty happy 'cause that guy's going to get results or I miss my guess. And it's about time some one was in their pitching for us, especially in Washington. . . . I wonder if Walter Wanger will get his wish. Hear he'd like to take over Lowell Mellett's job. . . . Roll out the red plush—Michael Arlen's in town, after all these years, to do a stretch on "The Stars Can Wait," for Bill Powell and Hedy Lamarr. Well, the stars waited a long time until Mr. Arlen got here. . . . David Selznick must be getting ready to jump, 'cause Rose Franken is set to arrive here in November to begin adapting "Claudia" for the screen.

'T'aint Fair.

Last winter when I was in New York, I thought I'd never seen a finer performance than Edmund Gwenn's in "The Wookey." I'm distressed, and so are his friends, that instead of his playing the same part in the picture, it's being given to Laughton. After all, if Laughton hadn't had his chance in "Henry the Eighth," he wouldn't be the great Laughton he is today. But our loss is Katharine Cornell's gain, 'cause Gwenn is rehearsing with her, Ruth Gordon, and Judith Anderson in "Three Sisters" . . . . Ona Munson has no intention of giving up acting, even thou she will produce several air shows. She had two mighty good jobs coming up. I never did think we did right by her after her performance as Belle Watling.

Short Orders.

The widow of Sam Harris, when she marries Ned Marin, will have a ready-made family—a daughter of 20 and a son of 16. . . . Wait until you get a load of George Brent in that sailor suit, now that he's joined the coast guard. He looks cute as all get out, and his white hair gives it added dignity. . . . With the shortage of man power here, I can't see for the life of me why Albert Hale, who's directed over 300 pictures, doesn't get another chance. He's helped so many in the past—it's our turn to do something for him. How about it, boys? . . . I thought only producers got ulcers. Seems Norma Shearer's got them, and that's another reason she's spending so much time in Phoenix, Ariz. . . . Tommy Dorsey's latest is Ruth Owenby of the "Dubarry" company.

Good News.

Attention, Second Lieut. Robert W. Soderberg, Officers Mess, Camp Roberts: When I quoted part of your beautiful letter to me, it came to the attention of the Columbia Motion Picture studio. They phoned me, commented on it, and would like to do something about it—so they're sending to you, to be shown at Camp Roberts, a copy of their hilarious picture "My Sister Eileen," starring Rosalind Russell, Janet Blair, and Brian Aherne. So I say to you, keep on writing—you never can tell what's going to happen! . . . Katina Paxinou is in for a surprise. She doesn't know that Val Arms is flying to the coast, end of this month, to do some special art on her, as Pilar, 'Cause Arms' publisher, Basil Vlavianos, who's a great friend of Katina, wants it for his paper, The National Herald. . . . Maureen O'Hara, who said when she came to Hollywood she'd never do a bathtub or lingerie scene for a picture, has a bra and panties scene in "The Immortal Sergeant!" . . . Shirley Deane writes from Seattle that she overheard this conversation between a couple of hat check girls. One said, "Gee, I feel so sorry for those boys in uniform—I can't even take a tip from them." Other girl said, "Yeah, I'll be so darned glad when this war's over so we can clip them alike!"

3,000 Hear Annual Song Service at South Side Church

More than 3,000 persons packed the Metropolitan Community church at 4100 South Park way last night to hear Prof. J. Wesley Jones conduct the 22d annual song service, one of the south side's outstanding musical events.

Guest artists were Robert McFerrin, chosen best male voice in this year's Chicago Music Festival, and Virginia Davis, coloratura soprano. Prof. Jones, who directed the 1,000 voiced colored chorus at the festival, last night directed the singing of the church's 100 voice choir, which he has led for 22 years.

One of the most popular features of the entertainment was the group singing of spirituals. The service closed with the singing of the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's Messiah.

Guests of honor included Postmaster and Mrs. Ernest J. Kruetgen, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Compton, Col. Walter Jeffries, Captains Richard Jones, Harold Bachman, and Wayne King; Mrs. Edith Mason Ragland, opera star, and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sengstacke.

Salvation Army's Wartime Work Told by World Leader

Salvation Army groups are carrying on their work in almost every country of the world, even those which have been occupied by axis forces, Gen. George L. Carpenter of London, England, International Leader of the Salvation Army, said at a civic reception held in his honor yesterday at Moody Memorial church, Clark street and North avenue. He came here to attend the Salvation Army central territorial congress which opened Saturday and will continue thru Tuesday. With his wife, Minnie, Gen. Carpenter has been making an inspection tour of principal cities of the United States and Canada.

He told those who attended the reception that the Salvation Army is grateful for contributions, particularly of clothing, which Americans have sent to England.

"These gifts have greatly aided in our work of taking care of those in distress in all the war torn countries," he said. "Even in Germany, the Salvation Army is working in a limited way. Our groups are still carrying on in France, Iceland, India, Africa, and the far east. But, we are no longer able to carry on our work in Italy."

Gen. Carpenter will speak at the annual joint luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow in the Medinah club, 505 North Michigan avenue. Nathaniel Leverone, chairman of the association's public affairs committee, will have charge of arrangements for the meeting, and Miss Mary H. Burris, president of the women's organization, will represent the alliance at the speakers' table.

Do you actually use and need those battered pie tins, bread pans, spatulas and other kitchen utensils that are packed away at the back of your cupboards? Aren't they just taking up a lot of room which you could use for other purposes?

If every one of us would dig down into cupboards and rout out all the metal objects which aren't in use, I'll wager there'd be enough scrap to put more than a scare into Mr. H. of Tokio and his boss-friend, Mr. H. of Berchtesgaden.

Let's all clean out our cupboards and closets and turn in all the old metal and rubber we can possibly spare! There's more than one way for a homemaker to demonstrate her patriotism.

"What Do We Eat Now?" is the name of a timely new recipe and home management book by Helen Robertson, Sarah MacLeod, and Frances Preston, a trio of ladies who know what they're talking about. Many money-saving suggestions and economical ideas are included between the covers. It's the first big wartime cook book I've seen. Up to date and practical. Costs $2.50 at your bookstore. [Don't order from me, please—all I have for sale are my own booklets!] J. B. Lippincott company is publisher.

If you haven't cut your home coffee consumption yet, you'd better start right now. Your dealer is having increasing difficulty getting coffee enough for his customers. In some parts of the country unpatriotic and greedy hoarding by housewives has caused an unhappy situation. Let's not hoard anything! Who are we to think we must have ALL the coffee or tea or other rationable goods we want, whether our neighbor gets any or not!

Cut coffee consumption to a cup a meal, and serve it not more than twice a day. Brew it carefully, only as much as you'll use for that particular meal. Don't waste a smidgin! No more coffee desserts or coffee flavored delectables of any kind, unless, by some miscalculation, there's leftover coffee to be used up.

Tea keeps coming to port in spite of the war, altho in considerably reduced quantity. Tea conservation is as necessary as coffee conservation. Brew only what you'll drink. Don't heap the teaspoon you use for measuring. Your dealer gets only half the tea he formerly sold, so it's your duty to stretch your personal supply as far it will go.

Yes, eggs are expensive, but don't cut down on their use any more than you absolutely have to, for they are an important protein food. A dozen standard size eggs weigh 1½ pounds, and there's no waste. Even if you pay as high as 60 cents a dozen for eggs, you're not paying more than 40 cents a pound for this fine "meat." When eggs are high, use them less frequently in cooking, and serve them as often as you can just as eggs, one to each member of the family. Poached or soft cooked for breakfast, perhaps. If possible, serve an egg a day to each child in the family, three or four a week to each adult.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE.

Sour Cream Veal.

[Serves 10.]

1 pound veal steak
Salt, pepper to taste
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 cup sliced celery
1 medium sized can mushrooms or 1 cup sauteed fresh mushrooms
½ cup water
⅛ ounce package egg noodles
1 cup sour cream
Bread or cracker crumbs
Butter for cooking

Cut steak into ½ inch pieces. Brown in butter. When nicely browned add seasonings, onion, celery, mushrooms and water. Add noodles, which have been cooked in boiling salted water until tender, and sour cream; place in buttered casserole and sprinkle top with crumbs. Dot with butter. Place in moderate oven, 350 degrees, until butter melts and forms a brown crust. Cover and bake for 1 hour.

This combination may be cooked in a heavy skillet over low heat on top of the range if desired. It may be necessary to add more sour cream in this case. Use sour cream in the recipe, for sour milk does not produce the same flavor.

THREE DRESS PATTERNS.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents for mailing (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Challenge.

"Ever since Nosey Parker's self-appointed survey of the manners of business women I, likewise self-appointed, have been conducting my own investigation of the manners of business men," writes Sally.

"To date I have acquired one skinned knee [he didn't take his foot out of the aisle] . . . one bum ankle [I couldn't outrun him for the bus] . . . one lame strap hanging arm [I gave up my seat to a man on the 'L' who took it without an 'Ah!' . . . 'Yes!' . . . or 'Thank you!']

"In the elevator, reversing the usual order of things, I removed my hat when three men entered. One grinned; one grunted; one asked 'Got a headache?' The elevator operator, obviously not a gentleman, said, 'She's nuts.'

"To save space for a portly fellow following me thru a revolving door I darted swiftly into the same compartment of the door as a stringy little man . . . and you should have heard what he said!

"After a good rest over the week-end I am probing further into such matters as offering your last cigaret to the boss; holding his topcoat; carrying his brief case, and shall be glad to confer with 'Nosey' on the relative number of 'thank you's' encountered during our separate investigations."

New Word.

"May I suggest the word 'sacrif-aid' in place of 'sacrifice' for those of us at home? To limit ourselves to meat, sugar, and gasoline; to salvage useful materials, to buy bonds, to pray for our soldiers, these are sacrif-aid to our men who are sacrificing their lives."

A PRIVATE'S MOTHER.

Afternoon of a Columnist.

"Won't you come with me?" his mother asked, and because it was his mother I said yes. We slid into the only vacant chairs a trifle self-consciously, for the subject of the speaker was "Columnists." From an ample storehouse of reminiscence she delighted her audience. Of Eugene Field she spoke . . . of B. L. T. . . . of Harvey Woodruff . . . and now of Charles Collins and Arch Ward. She read paragraphs from cherished clippings to show how intimately, thru a printed page, they gathered their readers into their own rich experience.

But I wondered as I listened: Do the readers know how they, in turn, share their lives with the columnist? How hauntingly they impress themselves on the heart of some one they have never seen? What, for example, has become of the wistful woman who wanted a certain book for her ill husband ["he finds it so hard to be out of business"] . . . has the young girl abruptly catapulted into a position of great responsibility, made good . . . did "Blue-Jeanne" of the factory win her long wished for promotion . . . has the pitiably disheartened 42 year old found a job . . . what has happened to the man who wrote so bitterly from a dismal rooming house . . . did the pretty voiced telephone supervisor receive the present Jack Norworth—he of the famed Norworth and Bayes team—intended to send to her . . . where is the young woman who moved and left no address . . . are the boys of the working three star mother safe . . . will the secretary of the executive who wanted a clipping ever call again so I can send it to her . . . is the exuberant Rich., the No. 1 man, off somewhere on the far seas . . . what has happened to this one . . . and to that one whose weal or woe wends its way to a columnist's desk?

Early Shoppers Already After Yuletide Cards

BY REA SEEGER.

Early bird shoppers swarming around the Christmas card showings are smart people selecting and rejecting while the collections are complete. While there are those who actually enjoy the crowded hub-bub and the last minutes frenzy, many are hurrying down right now to snag the prize finds before that rush. This year the cards arrived earlier than ever before, so that all the men in service would not be deprived of the fun of Christmas card mail [cards should be in the mail not later than Nov. 1, remember]. Even the men who sniffed and scoffed in former years over the dither of Christmas cards are this year anything but the Scrooges of past history.

After an exhaustive preview of all the available cards, here is the dope. There are the usual "ye olde time" affairs with suitable eye-sight test script, flowery texts and letterings. Vellum and synthetic vellums appropriately printed in facsimile illuminated scrolls and embellishments look very picturesque. Miniature colored etchings deserving of a frame are exceptionally beautiful, especially when they are placed beside the modernistic effects of bold color contrast and surrealistic designs.

But the finds of the times are the cards designed by the American Artists group, cards of surpassing beauty and ingenious ideas, color and scene, typical of the American way of doing up a good old-fashioned Christmas. In this prize assortment are cards for he-men—fishing, dogs, snow and seacapes, logging and farmyard scenes—each depicting the sturdy more masculine side of life. Yes, there are "funny cards" but the quality of humor this year is definitely strained and falleth flat!

The newest, and for our money, the best innovations are the soldier cards, greeting cards designed by soldier artists right now in the service. Some of them rate museum notice and niches—that is, the originals. For the cards tell the story of army, navy and marine routine. There are snow scenes, tanks, encampments, and one knockout of a sentry, muffled and padded to the ears, doing guard duty on a cold Wyoming winter night. One look and you get the shivers. What's missing for some unexplained reason are any cards with the famous jeeps. Wonder who censored their performance on a Christmas card.

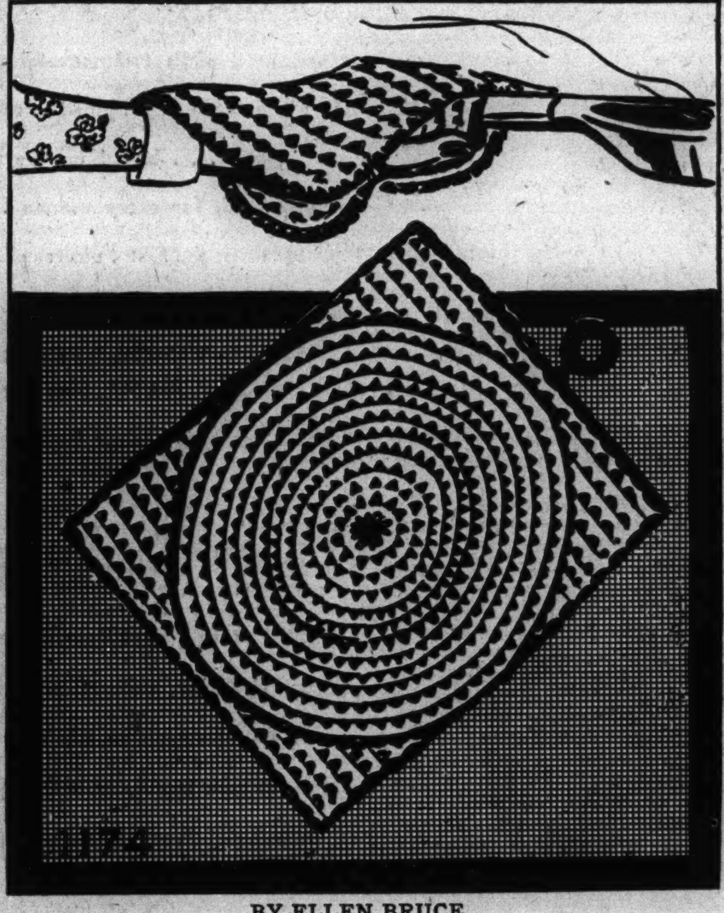
Crocheted Pot Holder



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This unusual crocheted gadget is a combination pot holder and sleeve guard. It is not difficult to crochet and saves many a hand and arm from the discomfort of steam burns. Single crochet is the stitch used, and carpet warp, string, or wool is the suggested material.

For instructions in crocheting the combination sleeve guard and pot holder, No. 1174, send 10 cents in stamps, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

The 1942 Self-Rating Bridge Examination starts today.

For the benefit of readers who may have missed last week's announcement, here are the conditions of the exam: Every day for five weeks, excluding Sundays, a question concerning bidding or play appears in this column. The next day the official answer appears, together with a stipulated number of demerits to be deducted for this or that incorrect answer. Each examinee starts with 1,000 points and his final ranking is determined by the table which was published twice last week. Unusually difficult questions will carry credit rather than demerit points, to be added back to the net total. And now, we are off!

Question 1: Rubber bridge; both sides vulnerable. The bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠2 ♥J 8 6 5 3 2 ♦10 6 3 ♣J 7 4

What call do you make?

TODAY'S HAND.

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠K Q 9 7 3
♦9
♣A 8 6 5 2

WEST
♠6 4
♥None
♦A K J 10 6 4

EAST
♠J 8 5 2
♥J 8 4 3
♦8 2
♣10 9 3

SOUTH
♠A 10
♥A K Q 10 7 5 2
♦Q 7 5 3
♣None

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	4 hearts	5 diamonds
5 hearts	Pass	Pass	6 clubs
Double	Pass	6 hearts [final bid]

West's bidding, not vulnerable, was logical enough, but it still establishes a moral for players to bear in mind. It was solely because of that strong two-suit bidding that South was led to the winning line of play at his slam contract.

West opened the diamond king and on view of the dummy and East's signal of the eight-spot, continued with the diamond ace. Now declarer, forced to ruff in dummy, had to make a difficult decision, namely, how to play the trump suit. Nine times in 10, of course, the correct line is to play for the drop of the jack when holding this strength in trumps, but declarer shrewdly concluded that this was the "10th time." West's vigorous minor suit bidding had announced a great number of cards in those two suits. It was scarcely possible that he had more than one heart. Only in the case of that one heart being the jack could a finesse lose, whereas if West were void, as he might well be, the finesse would be vital. Thus, acting on the information given him, declarer finessed against the heart jack on the first trump lead and thereby brought home the slam contract.

Remove Basic Cause to Cure Misbehavior

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We who study children have learned that their behavior usually is a symptom, and when that behavior persists in being of an undesirable nature, we hunt around for the cause. So here is a thought to stick in your mental mirror, and to come back to again and again:

One of the greatest helps, one of the best clews to intelligent child management is guidance by indirection. Life would be much easier and happier for many mothers if they realized that the indirect approach to solving behavior problems is quickest in the end. That is, the longest way around is eventually the shortest way home. I suppose we might say that indirect methods are the keynote of modern child training, and the most successful.

Of course, I don't mean to say that there's never a time to be direct. There are times to be direct. There are times when we can deal with a situation on the spot and get the results we want. There are things we can even talk over frankly with the children themselves, and that's certainly direct enough.

But taking child management as a whole, the best approach is the indirect one. In doing this we go behind the scenes of a child's life, off into the shadowy "wings," or down below the stage, and find out what is amiss. Then we change the background, reset the scene, and behold, our small son or daughter, or our big one, comes out upon the stage of life and acts a normal, happy part.

As you can readily see, this is not in line with the old ideas of discipline which, on the surface, however, are much more direct. A spanking for a misdemeanor, a punishment for every fault, a scolding for every slip, a "don't" for this and a "don't" for that, are all quite simple and obviously to the point, but they don't get you anywhere worth going.

I believe that one of the biggest things which modern methods of child guidance have accomplished is to make people realize the subtlety of human behavior, and therefore to make them recognize the fact that you must get around in back of an action, that you must work on the motive to get really lasting results.

Thru the Looking Glass

The short fluffy bob has won high favor with American women and, in a time when efficiency is in vogue, a hairdo that can be taken care of with dispatch is welcome. The shorter hair is far easier to handle, but, unfortunately, the fact that it requires less time seems to be the signal to neglect it entirely.

We've seen some very droopy versions of the short bob, hair that flops disconsolately downward with just a little kink at the ends denoting the curl that was there in fascinating abundance when the hair was freshly dressed. On the other hand, some heads remain beautiful at all times, and they belong to the army of brushers.

If ever brushing was a boon, it is with these shorter cuts. A vigorous workout with a good brush helps to give spring to the hair and make the pretty halo about the face a reality. Contrary to the belief that some women cherish, brushing will not spoil the curl. If done properly, it will encourage it and make it last infinitely longer.

A strong upward and outward swirl with the brush trains the hair in the direction you want it to go. It will avoid the matting and bogging down of the curls into unattractive "edging." Each individual hair will have a sheen and luster all its own and fall gracefully into place.

A good stiff brush should be used in the privacy of your own boudoir, and for use at the office and in between times there are fine little brushes about the size of a comb and with a handy little rat tail handle. And, if you doubt the indispensability and endurance of your curls, take time to pin them into place before you go to bed at night. It will insure your looking like an angel child the next morning, instead of a drooping little dandelion.

HUTSON HALTED AS GREEN BAY TRIUMPHS, 28-7

Don Hutson.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 25 (AP).—Don Hutson, who had been running ahead of his all-time record scoring pace of last season, was held without a touchdown today for the first time this year, but the Green Bay Packers nevertheless whipped the Detroit Lions, 28 to 7, in a National Football league game before 19,097. Andy Uram returned a kickoff 98 yards for one Packer touchdown.

The Packers, gaining their fourth successive victory since losing to the Chicago Bears, scored in each period while handing Detroit its sixth straight defeat. Joe Carter, Charles Sample and Lou Brock crossed the goal before Uram broke away in the last two minutes, and Frank Grigonis tallied for Detroit.

Gang on Hutson.

Carter took a 10 yard scoring pass from Cecil Isbell in the first period to extend to 17 games Isbell's string of touchdown tosses. Hutson set up this thrust by snaring passes of 13 and 34 yards, but the Lions diverted 25 per cent of their defensive strength—three men—in an effort to stop the lithe ex-Alabaman. Near pay dirt, they succeeded.

Hutson place kicked two extra points, however, to run his five game scoring total to 58 points. Last year he set the league record of 95 in 11 games.

For the first time this year Coach Curley Lambeau had Isbell and Hutson in the starting lineup, and they paid off quickly. Midway of the period the Packers started to march, going 79 yards in nine plays. On third down the Lions surrounded Hutson and knocked down Isbell's pass, so on the next play Isbell pitched to Carter, who was practically alone in the end zone.

Fumbles Encourage Packers.

The Packers seized upon Detroit fumbles for the next two scores. On the last play of the first period Ernie Pannell recovered Harry Hopp's fumble on Detroit's 35, and five plays later Sample plunged over from the 1 yard line.

When Mickey Sanzotta fumbled in the third period, Charles [Buckets] Goldenberg scooped up the ball and ran 27 yards to Detroit's 10. On third down Brock went 10 yards thru the middle for the score. Dick Weissgerber place kicked the extra point.

Sparked by a new star, Chester Wetterlund, who was acquired last week from the Chicago Cardinals, Detroit advanced 77 yards in the second period to the Packer 3, where Charley Brock intercepted a freakish pass that rebounded from the goal post.

In the final period Wetterlund again directed Detroit's drive that went 80 yards in 17 plays. From the 6 yard line Grigonis carried the ball over in three tries, and Augie Lio place kicked the extra point.

On the following kickoff Uram came roaring back for his long gallop. Taking Lio's kickoff on the 2 yard line, the former Minnesotan rolled right up the middle and broke into the clear at his 40. There wasn't a hand laid on him. Ted Fritsch kicked the point.

Detroit had 16 first downs to Green Bay's 9 and outgained the Packers 152 yards to 48 on the ground and 128 yards to 118 thru the air. Lineup:

SOWA ROLLS 910 SERIES IN PIN ELIMINATIONS

Ivan Mann Bowls 833 for Day.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The 32 bowlers who are shooting for Chicago's eight places in the national All-Star tournament found the alleys with greater regularity in yesterday's second round matches of the city eliminations, with the result that some huge totals were turned in. At the end of two of the seven rounds of play scheduled, it was quite apparent that even the lowest scorer at each of the four centers could easily bowl his way into a leading spot on his squad during the two week-ends over which the eliminations have yet to run. At the end of all play, the two top men of each squad go into the All-Star event and they, plus six seeded men, will make up Chicago's team.

Carlson Loses Two.

Adolph Carlson, who bowled both his first and second round matches, dropped 820 pins in each match—and lost both. His teammate on the Joe Gills, Rudy Habetler, fired 843 against him in the first match and Harold [Lucky] Ploch got 855 against him in the second. They bowled at Garden recreation.

Paul Krumske, who likewise bowled a pair of matches, got 845 in his second round match — which he bowled first—to shut out Johnny Munch. His teammate on the Schlitz, Adam Plunge, piled up the highest series rolled so far at Congress, 871, to take three games from Krumske in the first round match.

Lippe Leads Squad.

Harry Lippe, who had trouble with the alleys at Pla-Mor Bowling lanes Saturday night, led his squad there yesterday, shooting 837 to break even in games won with Glenn Gersch. Andy Melant, who had a nice series Saturday, broke even with Jim Keating yesterday to keep the squad leadership.

Yesterday's scores with total pins and points for the day's matches and total points scored thus far in the competition:

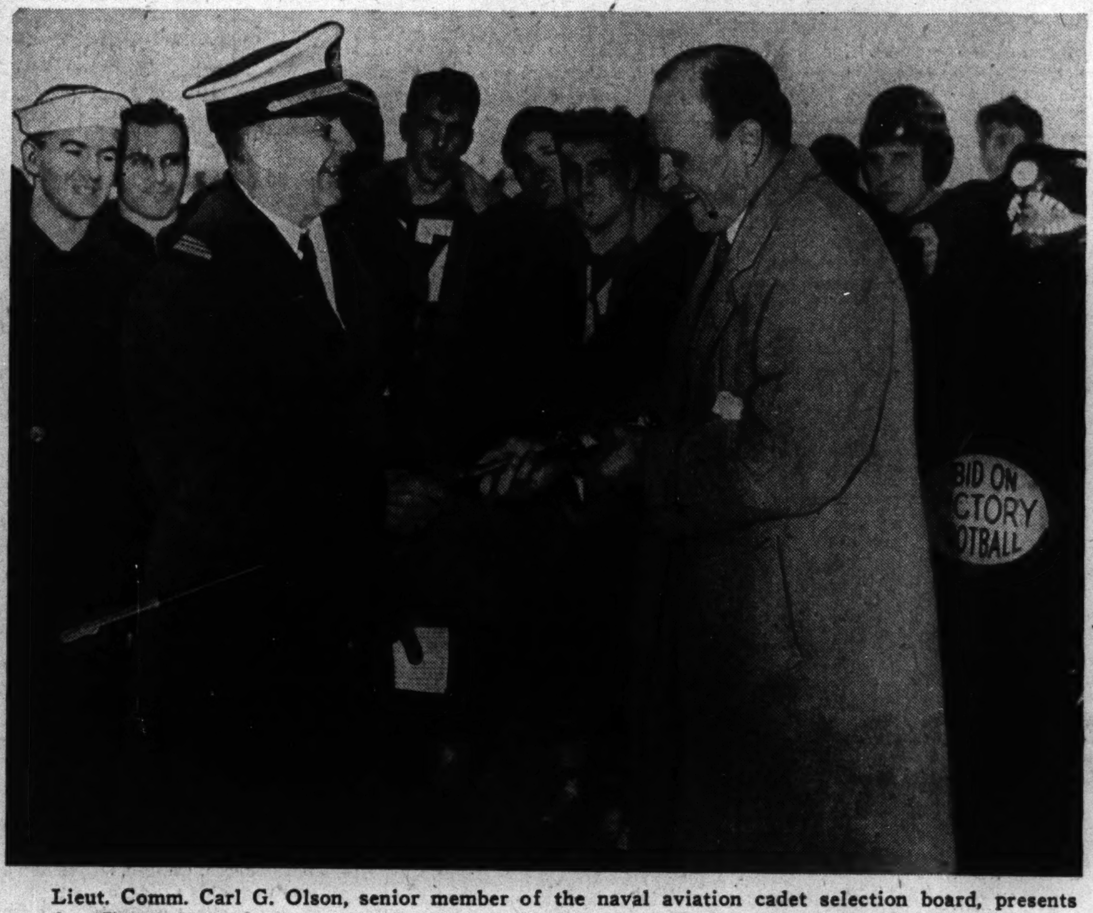
Sword Presented at Halas Farewell



Lieut. Comm. Carl G. Olson, senior member of the naval aviation cadet selection board, presents a sword to George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, between halves of yesterday's game with the Philadelphia Eagles. It was the Bears' last game at Wrigley field under Halas, who has been commissioned a lieutenant commander. The fact this was his last game was revealed exclusively last Thursday in In the Wake of the News.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Halas Receives Sword at Last Game as Big Bear

This was the picture yesterday as the Chicago Bears' big Bear, George Halas, received a rousing farewell preliminary to his departure late this week as a lieutenant commander in naval aviation:

At the end of the first half of the Bears-Philadelphia Eagles game the mascot in the Bears' unit, grinning widely, dashed up and down before the Bears' bench. Col. Armin Hand's band, out on the gridiron, decorated with three pretty drum majorettes, started playing "Anchors Aweigh." Then the band marched up in front of the Bears' bench and again broke into the same tune.

Where Is Halas?

By this time every one in the stands was wondering when Halas would put in his appearance. The photographers were impatiently inspecting their cameras, waiting for George to show up. Then the band changed over to "Bear Down, Chicago Bears." Still no Halas. The Eagles came out on the field and wandered over toward the Bears' side of the field. For a third time the band struck up "Anchors Aweigh." By now the Bears were coming out on the field from their dressing room and following them, in a tan overcoat, was Lieut. Comm. Halas himself. At the sight of George, the band started playing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Lieut. Comm. Carl G. Olson, senior member of the naval aviation selection board, stepped to the microphone and took charge.

"This will be a simple ceremony," he said. "If this is a surprise to George Halas it will make us happy. The radio football audience and fans would deem it unwise if he left without some sort of a ceremony. I speak for all the lovers of the great game of football when I say they admire and respect you for your energy and effort in putting professional football on the high plane it now enjoys in the sports world."

Four More Bears Going.

Then Lieut. Comm. Olson pointed out four Bears standing near Halas. They were Adolph Kissell, Francis [Monk] Maznicki, Bill Geyer, and John Petty. Addressing them, he said:

"You are awaiting your call to duty as naval aviation cadets. I know that you and your coach are leaving the game you love to serve your country. You know there is so much to do and none of us can do too much until victory is won."

Then Lieut. Comm. Olson presented a sword to the Bears' cocah. As he doffed his light brown fedora, Halas said:

"This indeed is a complete surprise and I do feel honored by this presentation and I wish to thank my friends. As you all know, it is difficult to leave the Bears at this time, but nevertheless I am looking forward to my naval duties. I hope I will be a credit to naval aviation."

Halas to Report This Week.

Halas will report late this week to a naval aviation station at Norman, Okla., site of the University of Oklahoma. Halas brought a football team to Wrigley field from Decatur, Ill., in 1920, and since then his organization has been known as the Bears.

The most disgusted player on the field yesterday was Bob Nowaskey, Bears' end. . . . In the third quarter, the baldish end took three passes from Sid Luckman, but all were nullified by penalties, including one over the goal line which took six points off Bob's scoring record. . . . And to top that off, he was kicked in the stomach and had to retire. . . . Ernest Steele, Eagles' half back, was carried off the field in a stretcher. . . . He suffered a cut leg. . . . At the end of the game, the Bears had an all-Boston back field in action. . . . It was Charley O'Rourke at quarter, Monk Maznicki and Butch Kissell at the halves, all of Boston college, and Francis Morris, full back, from Boston university. . . . Sandy McEvans, a Scot who flies with the RAF, was introduced around by Tarzan Taylor, former Marquette line coach. . . . It was Sandy's first American football game. . . . Bob Snyder and Ed McKeever of the Notre Dame coaching staff watched the game.

RAMS WIN, 7 TO 3, AS CARDINALS' ATTACK FALTERS

Cleveland, O., Oct. 25 [Special].—Failure to muster a scoring punch when they were within Cleveland's 5 yard line twice in the fourth period today sent the Chicago Cardinals down to a 7 to 3 defeat at the hands of the Rams in a National Football league game before 7,896.

The Cards' aerial attack, which earlier in the season beat the Rams, 7 to 0, backfired when four of Bud Schwenk's passes were intercepted when the Cardinals were touchdown bound. Gaylon Smith, Rams' full back from Southwestern university, took one of Schwenk's passes in the end zone and another on the 3.

Chicago started strong when Marshall Goldberg intercepted Jack Jacobs' pass on the Rams' 33 in the opening minutes of the game. Schwenk made first down on the 19 with two off-tackle thrusts. His long pass to Steve Lach on the next play slipped off Lach's fingers in the end zone and the Cardinals lined up for a field goal try. Bill Daddio sent the ball between the uprights and gave the Cardinals a 3 to 0 lead.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

If the Chicago Bears wanted to give their old boss, now Lieut. Comm. George Halas, some laughs to add a lighthearted touch to his change over to military life they succeeded yesterday afternoon in Wrigley field. In the wackiest sort of a game, the National Football league champions took apart their T formation twins, the Philadelphia Eagles, 45 to 14.

One of the smallest Bear crowds in recent seasons, 15,372 shivered thru the long afternoon, but forgot their discomfort as the Bears added a touch of humor into their fifth straight league triumph of the season their 18th straight victory in almost a year, and their 33d in the last 34 games.

Maznicki Leads Bears.

There were complicated laterals that made the spectators dizzy, a ball stolen by Connie Mack Berry which netted the champions their sixth and last touchdown, the sight of big Ed Kolman, a tackle, playing end, the Bears carrying the ball over the Eagles' goal line three times on the same series of plays, yet getting only a single touchdown, and other items too numerous to mention.

If you forget the ludicrous side of the game, chunky Frank [Monk] Maznicki, rookie Chicago half back from Boston college, was little less than terrific. Monk scored a touchdown, kicked a field goal, notched three points after touchdown, and gave the Eagles fits before they pinned him down on off tackle runs. Berry, a new Bear end, scored his first touchdown when he took a lateral from Maznicki as the little fellow was hemmed in on Philadelphia's 32 yard line.

Try 46 Passes.

The teams threw a total of 46 passes, 24 being tried by the Eagles, who completed only 7. Most of them were flipped by Tommy Thompson, who previously had clicked on 55 in 110. Sid Luckman and Charley O'Rourke threw 22 for the champions and 11 were completed for 227 yards. The Bears picked up 415 yards in all to 81 for the Eagles and this was a true story of the effectiveness of the T, as used by the top and bottom teams of the league.

The Bears scored in every quarter—a touchdown and a field goal in the first, one touchdown in the second, and two each in the third and fourth. They had a perfect scoring record with Lee Artoe matching Maznicki with 3 points after touchdowns.

Gallarneau Scores.

Two minutes and 25 seconds after the game opened the Bears had 7 points. Hugh Gallarneau leaped high for Luckman's pass on the Chicago 47 and fought his way down the field, carrying a tackler with him all of 10 yards. Hugh finally was knocked down on the 25 and fumbled. George Wilson picked up the ball and ran for a touchdown. Luckman shortly afterward intercepted a toss by Thompson and carried to the Philadelphia 27. The Bears settled for Maznicki's field goal from the 28 after six minutes had been played.

A 62 yard punt by Len Barnum rolled dead on the Bear 3 and the Eagles later tried to cash in on this profit with a field goal, but Barnum missed from the 37. Shortly before the quarter ended Artoe missed a field goal attempt from the 45.

Steele Runs 80 Yards.

One of the Bears' numerous 15 yard penalties—they were assessed 11 times for 102 yards—stopped a drive and O'Rourke punted to Thompson on the Philadelphia 20. Tommy faked to his right and handed the ball to Ernie Steele, a first year back from the University of Washington, who reversed his field and sped down the east sideline, bare of Bears, who had

PICK EMPLOYES GROUP FOR RACE CHARITY WEEK

Workers at Sportsman's Park to Aid Nov. 2-7.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Sportsman's Park race track employés yesterday announced the makeup of their committee which will coöperate in the week of racing under the sponsorship of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which opens next Monday and runs until Nov. 7, concluding the most successful season of the sport ever conducted in this area.

All Join with Officials.

Thus track employés, owners, trainers and jockeys have joined with Sportsman's Park officials in their efforts to make the final week one of the best of the entire Chicago season. John L. Keeshin, William Johnston, Charles Bidwill and other officials of the Sportsman's Park track have turned their entire facilities over to The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. The proceeds of the last week will be devoted entirely to the local charities which have been partially deprived of their normal sources of revenue because of the war.

In recent years, the proceeds of the All-Star football game, one of the most popular presentations of The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., have been divided among United, Catholic and Jewish Charities. This year, because of the war, the proceeds of that event were turned over to army and navy relief agencies. Recognizing the fact that the requirements of local welfare organizations go on month after month regardless of war or peace, The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., has undertaken the sponsorship of an additional week of racing for the benefit of these groups.

Racing Board Offers Help.

The Illinois Racing board, consisting of Maj. Ednyfed Williams, William Fay and Frank Mandel, was quick to offer its help in this project. Its secretary, Clement Nance, threw his efforts into the work. Horsemen, jockeys, track officials and turf fans responded with enthusiasm.

Previous to the announcement of the track employés' committee, the horsemen had announced that they would coöperate thru their representative group which was made up of Monte Weil, Al Gaal, Bennett Creech, J. T. Withers III., E. B. Carpenter, J. D. Mikel, John Theall, Paul Kelley, J. J. Greeley Jr., Clarence Davison, Clyde Troutt and Jack Bainton.

Spartans' Coach Proves He's a Spartan Himself

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 25 [Special.]—Charley Bachman, Michigan State college football coach, went wading in the chilly Red Cedar river at noon today to make good on a promise made last week. He had said that if his Spartans beat Great Lakes in their football game here yesterday, he'd wade the river and as a result of their 14 to 0 victory for State, he was called on to make good, before a crowd of 2,000. The river is only about 50 feet wide and waist deep, but that was enough in the near freezing temperature.

Pirrone and Varketta Head Marigold Card

Joey Pirrone, lightweight of Cleveland, will seek to stop the rise of Young Jimmy Varketta, also of Cleveland, in an eight round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Pirrone will rely on his right to snap Jim's string of five straight victories. His right brought him a first round knockout over Charley Eschman in Chicago Stadium on April 10. It also was a potent factor in his conquests of Matt Daugherty, Stanley Poreda, Doll Rafferty, and Gene Ward, each of whom also was stopped in the Stadium last winter.

Borrado Wins by Knockout.

However, Pirrone is not unbeatable, as testified by his third round knockout at the hands of Marcellina [K. O.] Borrado.

Vince Turpin, Canton, O., 138 pounder, will make his Chicago debut in an eight round event against Al Reasoner, promising prospect from Hines, Ill. There also will be an eight round encounter between Mickey Hayes, Milwaukee heavyweight, who either scores a knockout or gets knocked out himself, and Frank Greene.

Lemmon to Meet Miner.

Four round preliminary matches will bring together Tommy Lemmon, welterweight, also of Milwaukee, and Isadore Miner, and Harold Blunt, East Moline, Ill., middleweight, and James Smyles.

Hans Steinke and Walter Palmer will appear in two bouts heading Fred Kohler's wrestling show this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, the former against Gerard Lauth, and Palmer against Pierre La Belle. . . . Tickets for a 10 round contest between Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight, and Nate Bolden have been placed on sale at 65 West Madison street. Prices for the match in the Stadium Nov. 6 are $1.25, $2.50, $3.75, and $5, including tax.

GOOD INJURED; MAY MISS NEXT 2 ILLINI GAMES

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 25 [Special].—Dick Good, leading passer on the University of Illinois football team, probably will be unable to play for two weeks, Coach Ray Eliot said today. Good, whose passing resulted in one of Illinois' touchdowns against Notre Dame, sustained an injured leg.

Blackhawks Sign Goalies to Expand Roster to 21

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 25 [Special].—The Chicago Blackhawks expanded their hockey roster to 21 names here today when President W. J. Tobin signed a pair of young goalies, Bill Klun and Doug Stevenson. Stevenson will be retained by the Hawks to furnish a replacement for Bert Gardiner, while Klun will be farmed out to the Boston Olympics.

North, South Tie, 2 to 2, in Soccer Game

BY OFFSIDE.

The sixth annual Kelly soccer cup semi-finals between All-Star north and south side teams finished in a 2 to 2 tie yesterday in the Winnemac park stadium. As a result the grand finals, to be played in the spring, will carry an added significance for the outcome is always decided on a total point basis and the two teams will enter that game even.

Steve Kammerer opened the game in sensational style when he took a well placed pass from Edward Lewis to score from three yards in the first minute of play. The Northsiders widened their margin 15 minutes later when Kammerer, playing his final game before joining the service, again scored to put his team out in front, 2 to 0.

The Southsiders scored their first point when Smitty Tomecek drove a penalty shot past Wener Kekker into the net. An even 37 minutes had elapsed in the second half before Jerry Bohm slipped thru to boot the tying goal.

In the opening match of the day the South Side Swedes defeated the Schwabens, 2 to 1, to remain undefeated. Eric Klaber, playing his first game for the Swedes, made the winning goal near the close of the game after Steve Larson had kicked a 30 yard counter to tie the score. Henry Soufal got the losers' lone goal.

STUDENTS CHEER MICHIGAN TEAM ON RETURN HOME

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 25 [Special].—A sad band of Michigan football players returned home today to get a rousing welcome from students despite their ninth straight loss to Minnesota yesterday. As the 33 players stepped off the train the crowd sent up a volley of Michigan cheers and shouted reassuringly that the loss was no disgrace.

"You're still the victors as far as we're concerned, Cy," one enthusiastic rooter hollered at Capt. George Ceithaml, but that didn't make Ceithaml, who has fought vainly for three years to break the Minnesota jinx, feel much better.

Coach Fritz Crisler told his players to rest tomorrow and take care of their bruises, altho there were no serious injuries on the squad. Michigan will face Illinois here next weekend and a loss for either squad probably will eliminate it from the conference title race.

Crisler is not expected to protest the officials' ruling which stopped the clock for a Gopher substitution with nine seconds of the first half to play. The delay allowed Minnesota enough time to make a field goal play, with Bill Garnaas drop kicking successfully. That gave Minnesota its margin of victory, 16 to 14.

ST. MEL ELEVEN IS 25-13 WINNER OVER ST. PHILIP

Mario Maggio Stars in Catholic League Feature.

Mario Maggio scored two touchdowns yesterday to lead St. Mel to a 25 to 13 victory over St. Philip in a North section Catholic league contest. Five thousand witnessed the game in St. Philip stadium.

Maggio, a 147 pound left half back, scored in the first minute of play by returning Ray Di Benedetto's kickoff 80 yards. Early in the third quarter he broke thru left tackle and sprinted 60 yards for his second tally. Frank Sacamundo and Louis Muttucci accounted for the other St. Mel touchdowns in the second period. Sacamundo kicked the placement following Muttucci's score.

While losing, however, St. Philip uncovered a spectacular passing combination in Maury Coutoure and Bob White. Within the space of seven minutes in the final period Coutoure threw two passes—one for 60 and the other for 35—to White who carried the ball across the St. Mel goal. Di Benedetto added the point after the first of the touchdowns.

BADGERS HOLD OUT ON SCOUTS AGAINST PURDUE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ohio State and Wisconsin now are the only Western conference teams which have not been defeated this season. The Badgers' record bears a slight blemish in a 7 to 7 tie with Notre Dame. The Buckeyes have whipped all their foes, including three conference opponents, Indiana, Purdue, and Northwestern.

Before casting up accounts for both Wisconsin and Ohio State, which meet this Saturday in Madison, Wis., it is advisable to check over Wisconsin's 13 to 0 victory last Saturday at Purdue. Admittedly, this score does not compare with Ohio State's 26 to 0 victory over the same team on the preceding Saturday, but it was quite evident to those who saw the Wisconsin-Purdue contest that the Badgers not only had complete control of that battle but they purposely did not show all of their offense.

In general, the Badger quarter backs were content to send their ball carriers into the Purdue line. Wisconsin did not seem concerned about Purdue's tightly drawn six man line that invited sweeping runs. The Badgers used only two or three wide plays from the T formation without a shift, on which maneuver, Jack Wink, the quarter back, lateraled to Pat Harder, full back, or his substitute, Bob Ray.

Try Few Passes.

Wisconsin tried only six forward passes in the first half—all failed—and Wink and Ashley Anderson, who relieved Wink, threw three of these from the T formation. The Badgers showed a much more versatile attack when we saw them play Notre Dame.

The Badgers undoubtedly were instructed to stick to football fundamentals. These were sufficient against Purdue and the Badgers marked up seven first downs to Purdue's none in the first half and had made 11 first downs before Purdue accomplished one. Then the Badgers linked together six more first downs in the third and fourth quarters to march 84 yards for their second score.

The comparison of the offensive strength of the two teams is best shown by the number of rushing plays. Wisconsin tried 62 running plays. Purdue had only 23, a disparity conforming to the difference in the scoring.

Harder Gains 99 Yards.

Harder carried the ball 25 times for Wisconsin and had a net gain of 99 yards. Elroy Hirsch, the fleet sophomore half back who carried the ball eight times, had the longest gain when he went inside Purdue's left tackle for 26 yards to set up Harder's four yard plunge for Wisconsin's first touchdown, but Hirsch's average was cut badly when he was thrown for losses while attempting to pass. Hirsch's value as a punt receiver must not be overlooked. He made successive returns of 32 and 25 yards on Purdue's first period kicks.

While Wisconsin completed only three of its 12 forward passes, five Badger backs threw these passes. They were Hirsch, Wink, Mark Hoskins, Anderson, and Harder. Wink completed two in five attempts and Hoskins completed one in two tries.

Purdue's team lacked speed, a defect for which there is no remedy known to the coaching profession. Wisconsin's opponent this week, the undefeated Buckeyes, will have more than sufficient speed to keep the Badgers busy. Paul Sarringhaus, Ohio State's regular left half back, runs well and is an exceptional passer.

Bear Story Effective.

Sarringhaus had been reported as injured in practice for the Northwestern game Saturday, but he took his usual position in the lineup. The bear story on Sarringhaus' alleged injury is the first instance in recent conference history when an opponent has been deceived by advance reports. The final score in Northwestern's defeat did not depend, however, on Sarringhaus alone.

ST. MARY'S WINS 13 TO 0 DECISION FROM LOYOLA

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 25 (AP).—St. Mary's college pushed Loyola of Los Angeles out of the undefeated class today by scoring a 13 to 0 victory before a crowd of 20,000 at Gilmore field.

Loyola held a slight edge thru the first half but the Gaels began to crack down on the Lions' left tackle spot in the third quarter, and with Full Back Tony Compagno leading the charge, pounded 33 yards to a touchdown.

Compagno also set up the second touchdown in the fourth quarter. Gonzalo Marales shot a pass to Tony on the Lions' 18 to climax an assault at the left side. Morales passed to End Ray Curry on the 2, and Morales scored on the next play.

ARMSTRONG AND FRITZIE ZIVIC MEET TONIGHT

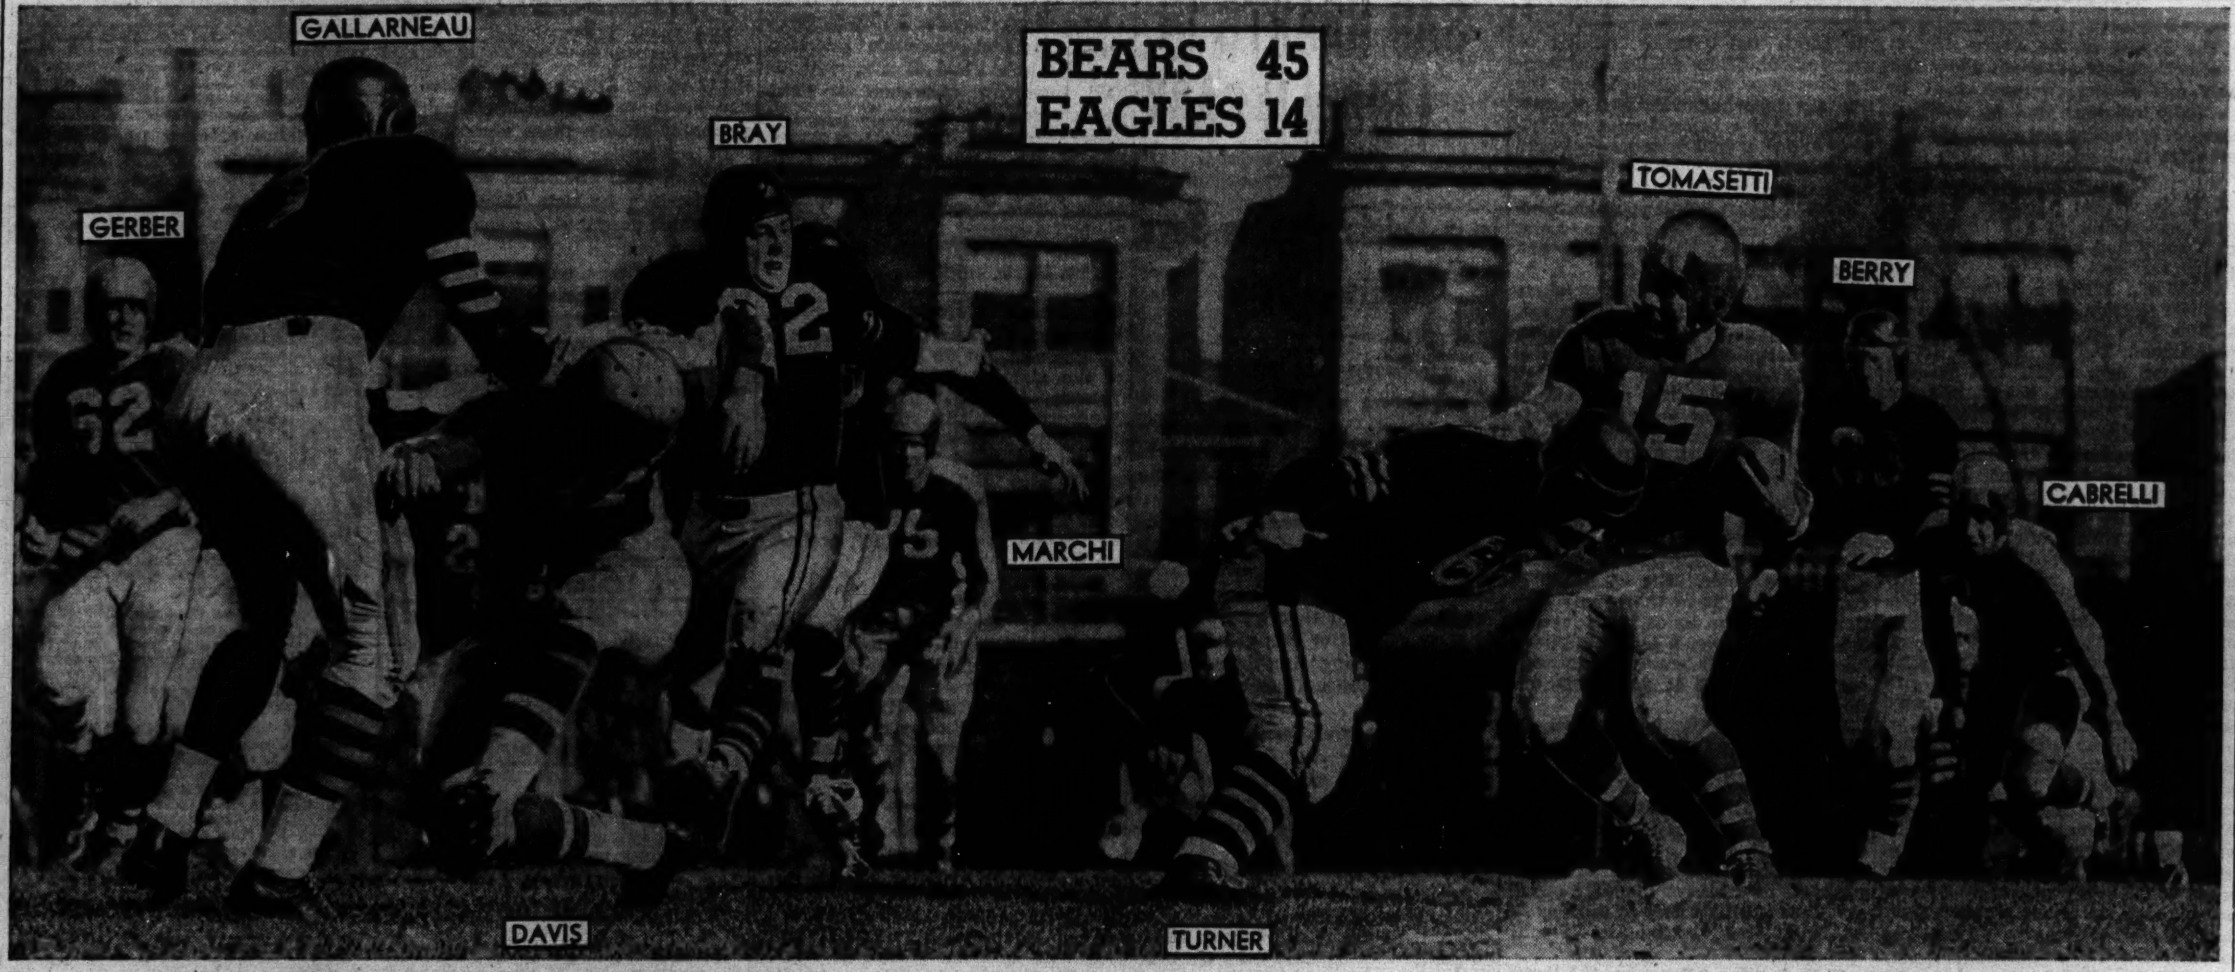
San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 25 (AP).—Henry Armstrong, who once held three boxing championships, gets his long awaited chance tomorrow night when he is matched at the Civic auditorium with Fritzie Zivic, the tough Pittsburgh boy who beat him out of his welterweight title a couple of years ago and battered him into retirement in a return match.

Gate receipts, with an $8 top, are expected to reach more than $30,000.

Joseph White, Former Illinois Player, Dies

Joseph P. White, 64 years old, who played football at the University of Illinois in 1898 and at Washington and Jefferson in 1899 and 1900, died Saturday in a sanatorium in Naperville. Funeral services will be held tonight at 208 South Marion street, Oak Park, with burial in Danville, Ill., tomorrow.

AN EAGLE NEEDS WINGS TO GET THRU THAT BEAR LINE



Lou Tomasetti, Philadelphia Eagles half back, loses a yard in this drive against the Chicago Bears' line in first quarter of yesterday's National Football league game in Wrigley field. The Bears easily won their fifth straight league victory before a crowd of 15,372. The triumph also was their 18th straight in almost a year, and their 33d in their last 34 games. Monk Maznicki of Boston college and Connie Mack Berry, ex-Packer and North Carolina State product, both Bear rookies, led the north siders' attack with 12 points each.

Bears Smash, Pass Eagles Into Defeat

massed toward the center of the field. Steele completed his 80 yard scoring journey by turning in toward the middle and going past O'Rourke. Barnum added the point.

After the kickoff, which Ray Nolting returned to his 27, the champions went 73 yards for a score, with O'Rourke pitching. He passed to Hamp Pool on the Chicago 40 and Hamp ran 20 more yards. John Siegal snared a pass and ran to the Eagles' 23, then lateraled to Pool, who was bounced out on the 11. Three passes failed but O'Rourke floated one over Bert Johnson's head to Maznicki in the end zone. Before the half ended the Eagles got a first down on the Bears' 2. While the fans stood up and roared the champions twice held less than a foot from the goal and O'Rourke smashed the threat by tackling Thompson on the 2.

Third Time It Counts!

The three-touchdowns-for-one incident happened early in the third period. Gallarneau took the kickoff on his 14 and ran 86 yards, crawling the last few feet after being caught from behind by Ken Hayden. But the Bears drew 15 yards for clipping to the Eagles' 40. Bob Novwaskey took a pass on the 20, but the Bears were holding, and wound up on their 48. They drove back down to the 27 and Nowaskey caught a Luckman pitch in the end zone. This time the champions were offside and went back to the Eagles' 32. Gallarneau caught a pass and was knocked out of bounds on the 8. Gary Famiglietti drove for 2, Gallarneau got 7 and Harry Clark went over from the 3.

Nowaskey reached the Eagles' 20 after taking a pass, but the Bears were offside. Then Dick Erdlitz intercepted a Luckman pass and ran to the Eagles' 44. Luckman evened it up with an interception of Thompson's toss and a return of 18 yards to Philadelphia's 37. But as the quarter ended, the Eagles again swarmed over Sid. His pass was blocked and caught by Len Supulski who ran to the Eagles' 48.

Eagles Score Again.

The Eagles went from there to their final touchdown early in the fourth quarter aided by a 15 yard penalty on the champions for roughness. This put it on the 30 yard line. A pass to Steele, and laterals to Johnson and Steele put it on the Bears' 3. Johnson caught an aerial under the goal posts for the score.

Butch Kissell raced back 43 yards with the kickoff to Philadelphia's 48. O'Rourke added to the fun by fumbling, but he recovered. Then he sent Maznicki thru guard on a quick opener. Monk was trapped on the 32 where he lateraled to Berry who loped for a touchdown which made the score 38 to 14.

Maznicki sparked the Bears' sixth touchdown adventure. He ran and squirmed 20 yards and a 17 yard pass from O'Rourke to Frank Morris put the ball on Eagles' 37. After Kissell lost 12 trying a reverse Bosh Pritchard intercepted on Philadelphia's 36. He ran 10 yards, then fell as he tried to swerve into the open. Berry reached over and grabbed the ball, then sprinted 46 yards as a finisher for the daffy afternoon.

REDSKINS HALT STEELERS, 14-0; CLING TO LEAD

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP).—The Washington Redskins, striking thru the air for one touchdown and blocking a punt for another, clung to the Eastern division lead of the National Football league today by turning back the Pittsburgh Steelers, 14 to 0.

The Redskins found a game, dangerous foe in the Steelers and to a record crowd of 37,764 their two touchdown margin in no way told the story.

Steelers Threaten 4 Times.

Sparked by Bill Dudley, ex-Virginia star, the Steelers carried the fight to the Redskins thruout and seriously threatened to score four times.

The Redskins, jarred back by two Steeler drives in the first half, struck thru the air on passes by Sam Baugh to get their first touchdown with only 25 seconds of the half remaining. The drive, starting from the Washington 20, was solely a personal achievement for Baugh. Three short passes advanced the ball to the Steeler 39 and then two long tosses to Half Back Ray Hare, former Gonzaga star, placed the ball on the Steeler 3.

On the first play, Baugh shot the ball to Dick Todd, substitute half back, in the end zone and Bob Masterson kicked the first of two extra points.

Redskins Block Punt.

Washington's second touchdown came in the third period when Tackle Wilbur Wilkin charged thru to block a punt by Dudley from the Steeler 9, with Ed Cifers, Redskin end, pouncing on the ball in the end zone.

At the start, with Dudley firing 37 and 15 yard passes to Curt Sandig and Vernon Martin, the Steelers went to the Redskin 14. But their attack stalled and Armand Niccolai's field goal try was wide.

Later Dudley dashed 47 yards with a punt to the Washington 29. He was in the clear but lost his balance getting past the last defenders, stumbled and fell. Lineup:

Condit Stars; Dodgers Beat Giants, 17 to 7

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 25 (AP).—The Giants' makeshift back field couldn't generate enough power today and the Brooklyn Dodgers bowled over their New York rivals, 17 to 7, in a National Football league game at Ebbets field before 23,244.

With the running, kicking and passing of Merl Condit, one-time Carnegie Tech player, leading the attack, the Dodgers capitalized on a Giant fumble to score a touchdown in the first quarter. Condit kicked a field goal in the second and the Dodgers marched 68 yards thru the third and fourth periods to post their final marker.

Only in the opening moments of the game, when Leo Cantor, formerly of UCLA, and Mississippi's Merle Hapes combined for the Giants' lone score, was the New York back field able to put on any determined show of offensive strength. Minus the consistent battering of Tuffy Leemans, the full back who was injured in last week's game, the Giants started several times, but just couldn't keep going. Lineup:

WARRIORS START PREPARING FOR SATURDAY GAME

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 25 [Special].—The Camp Grant Warriors apparently will be at full strength for their game with Fort Knox, Ky., Saturday in Dyche stadium, Evanston, it was indicated today as Lieut. Glen Rose, Camp Grant coach, laid plans for the opening of a week of intensive practice tomorrow.

George Garrett, former Rice institute end, who has been out of action since the Wisconsin game, probably will start in the Fort Knox game. Harold Schumacher, Stan Stasica, Mickey Anderson, and John Carey, backs who have been out of the line-up recently with injuries, also will be ready.

tossed to Warren Plunkett, Rams' quarter back, from his own 25 to start a 75 yard march. Plunkett took the ball on his own 40 and went to the Cards' 41. Jacobs passed to Jim Benton for 8 and two plays later laid one in the arms of Dante Magnani, who was tackled on the Cards' 7 by Marshall Goldberg and Buddy Parker.

Jacobs passed out of bounds, but a holding penalty gave Cleveland first down on the 3. Jacobs then shot a pass to Magnani for the score. Chet Adams, left tackle, added the extra point from placement.

Cardinals Rally in Fourth.

Here the Cardinals used a baffling pass from a spread formation and it clicked four out of five times.

Goldberg took the first of these tosses from Schwenk and shook off five tacklers as he went to the Rams' 22. Schwenk then passed to Lach for first down on the 9. On the next play, Lach rounded right end, only to be shoved out of bounds on the 1.

Ram Defense Holds.

Schwenk and Goldberg both tried unsuccessfully to pierce the Rams' line. Apparently attempting to outwit the defenders, Schwenk on fourth down tried a naked reverse around right end and was spilled for a 3 yard loss on the 5.

Jacobs, whose punting was a feature of the contest, kicked to the Cardinal 43. Three successive passes from spread formation with Ray Ebli on the receiving end carried the Cardinals to a first down on Cleveland's 10. A direct pass, Schwenk to Alton Coppage, made 5 yards, but taking too much time on the next play brought a 5 yard penalty.

Schwenk passed again to Coppage for 6 yards, but here the Rams dug in. Two attempted passes and an effort by Bob Morrow to crack the Rams' center all failed. The Rams took possession and after one play, the game ended.

EDUCATORS SEE NEW MAN POWER LAWS IN OFFING

Urge Clarifying Acts on Role of Colleges.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The anticipated early passage of the 18 and 19 year draft extension was seen by Illinois educators yesterday as leading at once to subsequent legislation which will clarify the nation's whole man power problem as related to farm labor, war industry workers, and training of strategic specialists in colleges and universities.

In a resolution which foresees necessary clarifying legislation, these educators, comprising the executive committee of the Illinois Federation of Colleges, meeting at the University club, asked legislative consideration for a four point plan for the education of draftees and enlisted men in colleges and universities, as developed by the American Council on Education in conjunction with the Association of American Colleges.

Summary of Four Points.

The four points include:

1. Various specialists' training corps for students under 18 meeting competitive standards.
2. Enlisted candidates may apply to institution of their choice where standards of training are approved by military authority.
3. Year 'round studies.
4. Base pay and subsistence.

Some of the strategic specialists under discussion were medicine and allied professions, and engineering.

Dr. Carter Davidson, president of Knox college and president of the federation, made it clear in discussion leading up to adoption of the resolution that the 34 independent Illinois colleges represented have no interest in deferments for students as a class, nor in "business as usual for educational institutions." Pointing to the four points program, he declared that the present man power emergency is "the greatest opportunity the country has had to make democracy in higher education work."

"No college student should be deferred," Dr. Davidson said. "But each would be given army tests as to fitness for further specialized training and then sent back to the proper college or university on a private's pay and subsistence. This would mean that the poor boy as well as the financially able would be given college training."

Gist of Resolution.

The resolution, in part, follows:

"The 18-19 year old draft law makes no specific provision for the education of students in strategic fields of training. The colleges wish it clearly understood that they are not interested in maintaining 'business as usual,' nor in protecting the vested interests of the colleges as such, nor in the deferment of college students as such.

"The member colleges of the federation of Illinois colleges recommend the adoption of the plan for an enlisted training corps as submitted to the army and navy by the American Council on Education and the Association of American Colleges.

"The member colleges of the federation offer their plant facilities, teaching personnel, and student man power to the carrying out of . . . an accelerated program. The urgency of such a plan's consideration in connection with later over-all man power legislation should be brought to the attention of congress and proper military authorities."

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

J. C. C. writes: "I have had 12 years' experience as a lithographer, but I can't find any place excepting in civil service."

ANSWER: Write a letter to the Engineer Section [Topo], Directorate of Base Services, Army Air Forces, Washington, D. C. In your letter give your age, draft, and marital status, classification, if any, and the number and location of your draft board. In addition state your education and experience and include letters of recommendation covering your civilian experience. This branch of service also can use lithographic draftsmen, photo-transfer workers, plate grainers, topographic draftsmen, laboratory technicians, copy camera photographers, rotary lithographic pressmen, commercial artists, and almost any one with general lithographic experience. Civil engineers, any degree of schooling with experience, civil, mechanical, and electrical draftsmen with degrees, or students with or without experience can find an opportunity for service with this branch.

T. C. writes: "My son is in the infantry and several months ago he was shipped overseas. Since he has been overseas he has been allotting bonds to me every month. To date he has allotted six bonds which I have never received. Can you tell me who to write to in Washington?"

ANSWER: The bookkeeping connected with any and all pay roll deduction plans of war bond buying is enormous. As long as your son's pay vouchers show that deductions are being made from his pay for these bonds he has a perfectly valid receipt from the United States government showing that he bought and paid for the bonds and there is nothing to worry about. When all the bookkeeping has been accomplished and the treasury department receives a statement from the army finance department showing that your son has paid for a bond the bond will be sent to you.

J. M. W. asks: "Will you please advise the procedure to be followed and to whom I must write to cast my ballot in the Nov. 3 election?"

ANSWER: War department circular 321, issued a couple of weeks ago, directs that every post, camp, station, and organization designate a suitable officer to supervise the handling of ballots cast under the provision of public law 712, as well as all state election ballots provided by the various states. Postcard applications for ballots were to be distributed to every eligible member of the armed forces. When you receive your card fill it out and mail it to the secretary of state of the state wherein you are a qualified voter. The secretary of state forwards it to the county election official, who sends you your ballot. If you haven't heard anything about the matter around your camp see the adjutant of your post and find out why.

L. B. writes: "My husband, who is an alien, entered this country illegally 12 years ago. He was inducted Oct. 9. I have been told that because of his illegal entry he will have to wait until the war is over to apply for his citizenship."

ANSWER: He can activate an application thru his commanding officer or adjutant of his post as soon as he has completed two months of military service.

O. O. A. asks: "What are the limits of blood pressure under the draft?"

CARVES SCARY PUMPKIN FACES FOR HALLOWEEN

Down in his produce house at 46 South Water market, Dan Goodman uses his spare time at this time of the year to carve eerie faces out of big, yellow pumpkin. It's just a Halloween pastime, he said yesterday, as he put the finishing touches on one of his masterpieces. Miss Louise Anderson, 2970 Sheridan road, a pretty model, stood by to show by contrast just how scary Goodman's pumpkin faces are. Goodman says he will carve out some evil likenesses of Hitler, Mussolini, and Hirohito this week. His pumpkin faces will be presented to the service men's centers. In other years he gave them to children's homes.

FUR COATS HIDE SAD HEARTS IN LINCOLN PARK

In a Crisis No One Says 'Nuts to You.'

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Sad hearts are beating beneath luxurious fur coats in Lincoln park. There are no more peanuts for the squirrels.

Time was when conscientious squirrels got indigestion on Sunday, eating all the peanuts that visitors gave them. There were a few who would eat their fill and then bury the rest of their gifts. But the general feeling was that not eating their peanuts on the spot was a disappointment to their friends.

And the squirrels felt that as quasi-public servants they had a certain responsibility to eat their peanuts to please the park visitors, Director Floyd Young and the park commissioners.

Shortage Has Them Digging.

Then the peanut crop failed, and even the squirrels who used to look down their noses at peanuts began to realize that peanuts were the most delectable food on earth. The thrifty squirrels and the ones who had just buried their peanuts to get rid of them gracefully dug them all up. Gobble, gobble, gobble, they went, until every cached peanut was gone.

Starving for peanuts, small delegations petitioned the park peanut man. He explained that the peanut crop had been bad, that the peanuts there were had spoiled, and that the new crop wasn't on the market yet. He showed them the extra stock of cracker jack he had put in for customers who used to buy the squirrels peanuts.

Storm Peanut Kiosk.

But explanations didn't fill the squirrels, stomachs. Ignoring the reports of their delegates, the squirrels began storming the peanut kiosk. The peanut man looked in his empty sacks and found them a few peanuts, which only made them the hungrier.

Bolder squirrels began surrounding park visitors, insisting on peanuts and scorning cracker jack. Timid squirrels that used to remain in the trees hoping a peanut would be thrown in their direction joined the groups.

Director Young says he has plenty of grain, pecans, and hickory nuts for his squirrels. But if you find a place where you can buy peanuts, remember 'em. Won't you?

SYNOPSIS.

For eight years Julia Hadfield has been separated from her husband, Blake, who has refused her a divorce for fear she will marry Philip Courtney, their lawyer. Two years after they separated, Blake, president of the M. T. & T. company that failed, was shot and blinded by James Sprague, a ruined depositor, who afterward committed suicide, according to police. Now Julia's and Blake's son, Seth, is engaged to Sprague's daughter, Elise, but they quarrel because she feels she shouldn't marry the son of the man her father blinded. Seth gets drunk and goes to his father for help. Father and son go down to Blake's old office at night, with only the night watchman, Dan O'Hare, in the building. Seth connects the telephone for his father and sits down at Elise's desk, where she works as secretary for Bentley, controler for the receivership. There he goes to sleep while his father telephones Philip, then Julia, to come down to his office. Philip sprains his arm and doesn't come, but just as Julia is entering the lobby, Blake plunges from the eighth floor railing to his death. Inspectors Archer and Davis arrive almost at the same moment, summoned earlier by Blake, who told them he wanted to show them a neat way of murder. Sybella Ford, left a legacy by Blake, and Harold Lawson of the state insurance department, in charge of the defunct M. T. & T. company, ask Capt. Duncan Maclain, blind detective, to investigate. Lawson was formerly auditor for Sprague's company. Maclain says Blake and Sprague were both murdered and that the same person committed both crimes. A fountain pen, some loose change, a paper weight, and a highball glass are missing from Blake's office. The highball glass has been replaced by a copy traced to Sybella's firm. Lawson admits he ordered it made to keep inventory correct. A ball of twine, missing from Bentley's desk, is found in Blake's desk. Meanwhile a crooked lawyer, Doxenby, tries to blackmail Philip. Afterward Doxenby's girl friend, Sophia Munson, is seen with Bentley. Then Doxenby is killed by a fall from his apartment window and the missing highball glass is found in his apartment with his and Sprague's finger prints on it.

INSTALMENT XXV.

THIRD PARTY.

Courtney's words came with the slow consideration of an address to a jury. "Capt. Maclain means, Julia, that the three men who could wreck me are dead. Last Monday night Blake telephoned to me, but I fell and never got there. Last night, I haven't any abibi at all. After Doxenby left me I merely went home. When the police learn of that——"

"Phil, don't be a fool," said Julia sharply.

The captain picked up the chess queen and twirled it between his fingers. "About the time that Blake Hadfield fell to his death you were riding to your apartment in a taxicab, Mr. Courtney, after being attended in St. Vincent's hospital for a badly sprained arm. You underestimate the New York police, Courtney. I'm surprised—as long as you've been a member of the bar."

The captain caressed the three chess pieces on his blotter, arranged them in a triangle, and finally set them out in a remarkably straight row.

"I'm going to be frank, Mr. Courtney. I have certain facts in my possession which I think you and Mrs. Hadfield are entitled to know."

It was part of Courtney's training to regard frankness with suspicion. He touched a finger to his lips for Julia's benefit and said, "So?"

"Perhaps the strangest factor in the death of these three men," Maclain indicated the chess pieces with a slight movement of his hand, "is the very frankness, the utter lack of reticence, which has surrounded the investigation."

"I'm sure neither Phil nor Seth have anything to hide, Capt. Maclain."

"Undoubtedly, that is so. Still, Mrs. Hadfield, incongruous as it may seem, the police are geared to unearth falsehood." He clucked softly. "They find it most disconcerting to be told without restraint everything they want to know. I'm afraid I do, too."

He centered his attention on Courtney. "Have you ever worked very hard to prepare a trap for a hostile witness, only to find the witness was presenting facts in your favor?"

"Yes," said Courtney. "You begin to fear that the witness is smarter than you."

"Ah! There we have it," said Maclain. "I want you both to help me." He picked up the ivory bishop and held it high for their inspection. "This is James Sprague. The knight is Blake Hadfield. The blotter is Hadfield's office. The time is a certain night, six years ago."

"What about the queen?" asked Courtney.

"She's a murderer—sex and identy unknown," said Duncan Maclain. "I want to see if we all agree on hat a murderer would do. I'll follow out my idea. Either of you may cross-examine when I'm thru."

He placed the bishop and knight close together, then reached accurately for the cloisonne cigaret box which he set beside the two chess men. "Here we have two victims in a conference. They had been arguing over Sprague's conduct of his own company, according to Hadfield's testimony."

Maclain picked up the queen and set her near the edge of the blotter in back of the cigaret box. "Let's suppose the murderer is standing in the foyer in back of Hadfield. He has overheard the conversation. It is, for some reason, getting dangerous to his own safety. He determines, before anything more is said, to get both men out of his way."

"Why both?" asked Julia, unwittingly speaking aloud.

"Obviously he can't kill one and let the other live. Using normal precautions against finger prints, he takes Blake's gun from the drawer of the table in the foyer. He has it in his hand when Sprague leaves his place beside Hadfield and steps out thru the curtain on his way to the lavatory. That's a part of the police records, I believe."

Courtney nodded.

Maclain moved the bishop to the edge of the blotter to face the queen. "Now Hadfield claimed that as Sprague stepped thru those curtains he heard him exclaim in anger. Hadfield asked, 'What's the matter, Jim?' and doesn't remember anything more."

Maclain's hands flashed out to seize the bishop and the queen. "I believe that Sprague's exclamation was one of fear. As he stepped thru those curtains he was met with the muzzle of a gun."

The captain placed the queen behind the bishop. "The murderer forced Sprague to turn around, and holding the gun to his spine started him back into the office. He reached around Sprague and shot Blake Hadfield in the head. Dumb with horror, Sprague saw the gun turned on him again. The murderer forced him several steps from the desk—where his body was found—placed the gun to Sprague's temple and fired. He put the gun in Sprague's hand——"

"Then what?" Courtney was leaning forward in his chair.

"Then," Maclain continued in his trancelike tone, "instead of running, the murderer took a moment to look around. Does that convey anything to either of you?"

"Yes," said Courtney. "He must have known the location of the watchman, Dan O'Hare, and approximately how long after hearing the shots it would take him to get upstairs."

"Check!" said the captain with a satisfied nod. "The murderer looked around and saw that a third glass was there, a glass with whisky in it. Now a third glass was a bad thing if the shooting of two men was to look like murder and suicide. The literal police would immediately conclude that a third person had been there—a thought which might never enter their heads if only two glasses were found in the office."

"Isn't it possible, captain, that this murderer had a drink with Blake and Jim Sprague and took the glass because his own prints were on it?"

The captain's eyebrows drew together. "It's the logical thing to think, Mrs. Hadfield, but I'll tell you why it won't do. Your husband was alive for six years after this shooting. He's never mentioned any one else being there. If Sprague was killed, he was killed before he gave your husband information dangerous to the murderer. Mr. Hadfield was quite open with the police. If the murderer had sat around and had a drink, then left and returned, I think Blake Hadfield would have mentioned it. Don't you?"

"Yes," said Julia. "I do."

The captain reached for the three glasses on the desk and stood them in a row. "Sprague fixed all the drinks," he stated abruptly. "That we know. His finger prints were on all three glasses; the two used ones found in the office, and the one found in Doxenby's apartment last night. Blake Hadfield's and Sprague's were found together on one in the office; on the other were Sprague's alone."

"What about cleaning women?" Courtney inquired.

"The police checked that, too. The woman who cleans Hadfield's office is a conscientious soul. Each night she goes over those glasses with a cloth and returns them to the rack, apparently leaving no finger prints at all.

"To return to our murderer," Maclain went on. "He took a glass with him, judging from its location, that it was neither Sprague's nor Hadfield's. He ducked downstairs as O'Hare came up after hearing the shots. Once home, he began to sense the possibilities of the glass he had taken."

"Isn't it possible that he saw the third man who drank in the office?" asked Courtney.

"No third man drank," said Duncan Maclain. "If Sprague's finger prints stayed latent on that glass the third man's prints would have been there, too."

"Unless Doxenby was the man."

"What good would it do you to preserve a glass with your own finger prints on it?" asked Maclain. "It might be a neat way of seating yourself in the electric chair."

Courtney uttered a puzzled, "That's true."

"Then we must admit our murderer took the glass, Mr. Courtney. He took it because he didn't want the police to think a third person had been there. He kept it because he didn't know who that third person was, waiting to see if that third person would speak. When that third person never came forward our murderer still preserved the glass. Sometime he might learn that third person's identity. That glass might be used for a little protective blackmail some fine day."

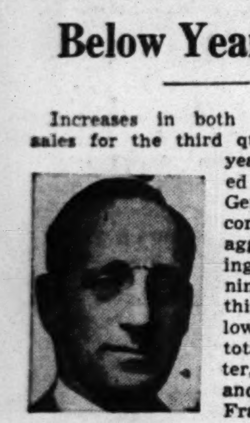
GENERAL FOODS THIRD QUARTER EARNINGS RISE

Profit for 9 Months Below Year Ago.

Increases in both earnings and sales for the third quarter of this year were reported yesterday by General Foods corporation, altho aggregate earnings for the first nine months of this year fell below the year ago total. C. M. Chester, chairman, and Clarence Francis, president, announced that third quarter earnings applicable to the common stock rose to $3,133,423, or 60 cents a share, compared with $2,987,927, or 57 cents a share in the September quarter of 1941.



Clarence Francis.

9 Months' Earnings Dip.

Earnings on common stock for the nine months ended Sept. 30 amounted to $8,462,958, or $1.61 a share, against $10,169,505, or $1.94 a share in the 1941 period. Nine months' sales climbed to $167,386,263 from $136,172,714 last year.

The company's sales of packaged food products in the third quarter were slightly below those of the same period last year, because of government restrictions on the use of various raw materials, the officials said. Disposal of certain raw materials accounted for the sales increase, they added.

Union Carbide Earns Less.

Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, New York, reported that net income for the third quarter was $8,941,246, equal to 96 cents a common share, compared with $10,916,770, or $1.18 a share, in the corresponding 1941 quarter. Inspiration Consolidated Copper company reported net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30 was $1,162,388, or 98 cents a share, compared with $1,661,190, or $1.41 a share, in the like 1942 period.

New Treasury 2 Billion Loan Offered Today

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25 [Special].—The treasury today announced the offering thru federal reserve banks of 2 billion dollars of ⅞ per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness, series D-1942, for cash subscription at par and accrued interest.

To insure widespread participation by banks, corporations, and others, subscription books will remain open two days. At maturity the certificates will be redeemed in cash, and will carry no exchange privileges. Proceeds will be used to redeem 1⅓ billion dollars of similar certificates maturing Nov. 1 and to provide the treasury with additional cash.

Minimum Amount $1,000.

The certificates will be dated Nov. 2 and will be payable on Nov. 1, 1943. Interest will be payable on a semi-annual basis on May 1, and Nov. 1, 1943. They will be issued in bearer form only, with two interest coupons attached, in denominations of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

When the treasury resumed the offering of certificates of indebtedness in April, the securities industry, thru the victory fund committees, was asked to call attention of non-banking investors to the issue. This procedure resulted in considerable distribution outside the banking system.

Reserve Banks Official Agents.

Subscriptions will be received at the federal reserve banks and branches, and at the treasury department. Banking institutions and securities dealers generally may submit subscriptions for account of customers, but only the federal reserve banks and the treasury department are authorized to act as official agencies.

Subscriptions from banks and trust companies for their own account will be received without deposit, but subscriptions from all others must be accompanied by payment of 2 per cent of the amount of certificates applied for.

N. Y. FURNITURE SHOW SWAMPED BY 'BUYERS' RUSH

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(AP) Jamestown's wholesale furniture market, the only one in the nation this fall, opened prematurely today as 400 buyers from coast to coast arrived and, an officer of the Furniture Market association said, "literally swamped showrooms."

"Buying was the heaviest on record," Paul V. Denny, executive secretary and general manager of the association, added. He estimated that more than 2,000 buyers will be present during week.

Time to Plant Trees

October 25, 1942.

THE thermometer hovered near 22 degrees when the gardener rolled out of bed the other morning. The temperature and the sight of the fall colors on the trees served notice that tree planting time has arrived.

This is the season when shade trees best can be planted and nuts gathered in the woods to be planted in the nursery to start new seedlings.

The gardener follows the practice of starting nuts and seedlings of trees that grow naturally in the woods so that the farm may be assured a continual supply of trees. Trees are one of the most important crops raised on the farm. They have new significance in wartime when fuel oil is scarce and building materials hard to find.

Displace Steel Posts.

Wooden fence posts will replace steel ones, and the old and dead trees in the woods will be felled, sawed up and cured for stove wood. The farmer's woodlot represents a tangible asset these days, and care should be taken to see that all trees are properly handled.

September and October are the months during which it is best to set out evergreens. These generally are set out before the deciduous trees so they can enjoy some root growth before winter begins. The evergreens will not make any top growth now but will get a good start for next spring.

The job of planting a tree is not difficult. However, to plant the right tree in the proper location requires foresight and long range planning. Trees mature slowly and one must have the patience to wait years for the results of his work.

Where possible it is advisable to plant a combination of rapidly and slowly growing trees. The rapidly growing trees will supply quick shade and growth, and can be removed when the slower and longer lived trees have become established.

A common mistake in planting trees is to place too many in a small area. As trees grow their tops spread and crowd each other. If this occurs, it is best to cut out the weak trees, leaving only the thriving ones.

Best Trees for Shade.

Native trees that make excellent shade and most often are selected for planting are the oaks, elms, maples, catalpas, black walnuts, ashes, locusts, and hickories.

During the next few years, farmers and city people alike should pay particular attention to the health of their trees. Wood is rapidly becoming an important war time material, and any extra care given woodlots or timberland will pay ample dividends.

"KATY."

On the basis of a recent earnings report it appears that the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad is headed toward the first year of profitable operations in some time. What was the last year in which the road showed a profit? A report on recent operations will be appreciated.—T. P.

Answer: This railroad, known as the "Katy," operates about 3,300 miles of track extending from St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., south thru the agricultural, industrial, and oil producing areas of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas, terminating at the gulf port of Galveston. More than a third of the mileage is in Texas.

Principal traffic items are petroleum, wheat, bituminous coal, cement, gravel, stone, steel, and iron. Altho 1940 freight traffic was 27.4 per cent below the peak of 1920, mainly because of truck competition, pipe lines, and drouth, there has been a substantial gain in the last two years as a result of the growth of war plants in the road's area.

The present company, the outgrowth of a reorganization, was incorporated in Missouri in 1922. Capitalization at the end of 1941 was 808,948 shares of no par common outstanding and 666,910 shares of 7 per cent preferred. Total funded debt was $112,020,986. A record of recent financial results follows:

1939	... 28,170,695	*3,499,564	......
1938	... 27,857,730	*3,849,166	......

*Loss.

For the first seven months of 1942 total operating revenues amounted to $28,335,801 and net income was $1,663,430. This compares with operating revenues of $18,816,483 and a deficit of $570,991 in the corresponding 1941 period.

The last year in which the road showed a profit was 1931. No dividends have been paid on the common stock since 1930, and none has been paid on the preferred since 1931. The common shares ranged from 9¾ to ¼ from 1937 thru 1941 on the New York Stock exchange.

Current assets at the end of 1941 were $8,729,090, compared with current liabilities of $8,368,060. Total assets were $259,864,531.

Bogey of Yank Pay Spending Bothers British

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The American doughboy's $50 a month pay continues to agitate many British economists to such an extent that Financial News this week urged strongly that German devices for limiting individual soldiers' purchases outside of camps in occupied countries be adopted in Britain.

The bogey of the United States forces' pay roll has been regarded for months as a possible menace to the British retail supply position and a danger to public morale.

Purchasing power of American troops already is reported tending to deplete the stocks of many shops in villages near American camps—a situation said to be causing concern.

The German system was recounted at length in Financial News. The first step to divert troops' purchasing power from meager local supplies in occupied countries was to earmark part of their pay to be sent back to dependents in Germany.

New Currency Issued.

This payment to the next of kin follows the line adopted by some dominion forces now in Britain.

In order to restrict individual purchases further, however, a new money known as "wehrmachtsbehelfsgeld" army auxiliary currency—now has been introduced to the German soldiers' pay packet. These bills, in small denominations, are valid only within the German army of occupation, at canteens, and officers' messes, but are not to be accepted by the civilian population.

The auxiliary currency involves no cut in individual purchases but is designed to facilitate distribution of available supplies, because local army commands purchase for canteens where goods are available, and thus reduce demand upon village stocks.

Questions How It Works.

The Financial News writer, however, suggested that in actual practice shopkeepers in the occupied countries or countries allied with Germany are not likely to refuse to sell goods for the auxiliary bills if an armed German trooper insisted.

For this reason, he argued that the German system should operate more successfully in Britain. Urging that a large part of the pay of all overseas troops stationed in this country be blocked along those lines, the writer concludes:

"The problem requires urgent attention, as owing to the arrival of increasing numbers of American troops, the weight of their unorganized individual purchases increases, while supplies tend to diminish. Before very long, the supply position of even quite large towns is likely to be upset."

African Boom Also a Problem.

Another purchasing power problem confronts the British in West Africa, because of near boom conditions, owing to development and production of metals and other materials Britain formerly imported mostly from Malay and the Dutch East Indies.

The African peoples are said to dislike paper currency and prefer to translate their earnings into goods. Cotton goods are in high favor, and the British cotton board has just made allowances for doubling exports to West Africa. Demand is such that some Lancashire exporters had to contract for extra cloth from India. Manchester spinners received an order for three million yards this week.

Japan had captured a large slice of the African market for cotton articles, and British manufacturers are reported jubilant at the wartime change.

NYLON BRISTLES HELD ANSWER TO PAINTERS' NEEDS

A solution of the war created shortage of hog bristles for paint brushes was offered yesterday by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., which announced that its chemists have perfected a nylon bristle which has all the qualities of natural bristles and will "wear at least three times as long."

The nylon bristle, the announcement said, has the required taper, resiliency, toughness, length, and inertness to paint ingredients. Its development culminates five years of research in du Pont laboratories.

All the production of the pilot plant will be assigned to military uses. Hog bristles formerly were imported principally from China and Russia, because domestic hogs as a rule do not produce a tough enough bristle for satisfactory use in paint brushes.

Family Groups Keep Outlying Bank Interests

BY CECIL LE BOY.

Family groups, some of whose names are linked with Chicago's history and industrial growth, retained their controling interests in Chicago banks operating outside the loop and in suburban banks thruout Cook county during the year ended April 1.

Lists of stockholders released yesterday by County Assessor John S. Clark disclosed few changes in major holdings. Three of Chicago's largest industrial enterprises, Sears, Roebuck & Co., Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, and William Wrigley Jr. company continued to own or control large blocks of stocks in banks near their factories or offices.

Several Increase Holdings.

The Regnery family boosted its holdings in the Central National bank from 19,774 to 20,067 shares of the 40,000 shares outstanding. The Rathje and Jaeger families increased their large holdings in the 16,000 shares of Chicago City Bank and Trust company stock. The Rathje family's holdings were increased from 1,850 to 2,015 shares, and the Jaeger family added 10 shares to its holdings of 1,324 reported last year.

The Morris family continued to hold large blocks of stock in the Liberty National bank of Chicago, Mid-City National bank, and the Halsted Exchange National bank. The family also was listed for 2,089 shares of Sears-Community State bank. Helen Swift Neilson retained large interests in Liberty National and Mid-City National.

William C. Cummings retained his 2,439 of the 10,000 shares outstanding of Drovers' National bank and increased from 1,596 to 1,737 shares his holdings of Drovers' Trust and Savings bank, of which there were 3,500 shares outstanding.

Coon Terminal Holdings Raised.

The Banco di Napoli, Naples, Italy, retained its holdings of 2,690 of the 3,000 shares outstanding of the Chicago bank of the same name.

Col. Robert R. McCormick and Maxwell M. Corpening retained their large holdings of 1,448 and 613 shares, respectively, in the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank. The Coon family's holdings in the Terminal National bank were increased from 1,137 to 2,628 shares.

The Brenza family maintained its block of 1,088 shares of the 2,000 outstanding of Metropolitan State bank, and the Skala family retained virtual ownership of the Skala National bank. The Hajicek family remained the largest stockholder of the Lawndale National bank.

Otto C. Doering, a director of the Oak Park Trust and Savings bank, which has 10,000 shares outsanding, retained the 2,159 shares he held last year, and 342 shares again were listed for Mrs. Mabelle I. Doering.

Estate Gets More Shares.

The estate of Gilbert Alexander, former chairman of the board of the Suburban Trust and Savings bank, Oak Park, increased its holdings in that institution from 330 to 333 of the 2,000 shares outstanding. John J. O'Laughlin, chairman of the board of the Prairie State bank, Oak Park, retained his holdings of 1,341 of the outstanding 2,000 shares of Prairie State.

C. H. Poppenhusen, a director of the State Bank and Trust Company of Evanston, retained his largest block of 1,006 of the 8,333 1-3 shares outstanding. The Scheidenhelm family maintained its largest interest in the bank. W. W. Buchanan, vice president and a director of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Evanston, reduced his holdings from 300 to 200 of the 3,000 shares outstanding. Mrs. Kate H. Buchanan was listed as owning 100 shares this year.

Eugene W. Kaspar, president of the First National Bank of Cicero, increased his holdings from 1,155 to 1,566 shares. There were 6,000 shares outstanding.

Lyman M. Drake and Judson F. Stone, directors, remained the large individual stockholders of the Wilmette State bank, and Laird Bell, a director, increased his holdings in the First National Bank of Winnetka from 240 to 248, 1-3 of the 1,000 shares outstanding.

DENIES PETITION FOR DENVER, RIO BOND INTEREST

Denver, Colo., Oct. 25 (AP).—A petition asking that the Denver & Rio Grande Western railroad pay approximately $2,500,000 in interest on five bond issues was denied by United States District Judge J. Foster Symes.

Henry Swan, a railroad trustee, testified that the trustees believed a cash balance in the railroad treasury should be devoted to purposes other than interest payment.

Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., a spokesman for the petitioning group, asserted that equity demanded a distribution of the railroad's treasury balance.

Rock-Ola Plant to Employ 2,000 Women in War Jobs

David C. Rockola, president of Rock-Ola Manufacturing corporation, announced yesterday that the company's Chicago plant soon will be providing war jobs for more than 2,000 women. Several hundred already have been employed by the plant, which has been converted to war work from its peacetime making of furniture, radios, and coin operated phonographs and vending machines.

STEEL DELIVERY FOR LOW RATED JOBS UNCERTAIN

PRP Orders Often Wait for Weeks.

Steel mills are giving consumers no assurance that delivery will be made during the fourth quarter on "orders with low ratings, assigned on production requirements plan certificates," the magazine Steel reported yesterday.

"In some sizes of various products, they point out, fourth quarter capacity already is absorbed by directives and further orders have no chance of being filled," the trade publication continued.

Bar Deliveries Uncertain.

"In bars, depending on the size involved, definite delivery promise is unlikely on lower than AA-2 priority. While the War Production board has attempted to balance quantities PRP customers are allowed to buy with available supplies, difficulties appear from the fact that demand for some sizes exceeds quantities that can be produced.

"Pressure for steel bars, carbon, alloy and cold finished steel has increased to the point that deliveries are delayed eight to ten weeks, even on AA ratings. As a result directives and allocations are on the increase where early delivery is essential. Improvement is appearing in steel supply to warehouses as a result of the new directive plan which allows orders to be placed on the basis of current needs rather than on a quota basis related to prior tonnage."

Output Rate Maintained.

The national ingot production rate was unchanged last week at 99 per cent of estimated capacity, the nationwide scrap drive meaning that "only necessity for open-hearth repairs now holds back production."

"Results of the salvage drive have exceeded expectations in many districts, tonnage dragged from hiding places totaling high," Steel said. "Gathering this into central locations and placing it in the hands of dealers has taxed trucking facilities. Dealers find difficulty in handling the accumulations and tonnage delivered to steel mills is not in proportion to the quantity gathered.

"Further campaigns to obtain industrial scrap are under way, salesmen from warehouses and other branches of the steel industry canvassing plants for obsolete machinery or other steel material not in use. This source is expected to yield a large tonnage of scrap of better grade than that collected from households and stores. Some time will elapse before the full effect of the campaign is seen in the steelmaking area."

GENERAL MOTORS WAR DELIVERIES TREBLE '41 TOTAL

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 25 (AP).—General Motors corporation announced today that delivery of war materials from its plants in the United States and Canada totaled $1,203,849,889 for the first nine months of this year, compared with $406,149,273 in materials delivered during all of 1941. September deliveries amounted to $212,851,360.

General Motors employment also is increasing rapidly, the company said. During the week ended Oct. 11, hourly rated factory employment in its United States plants totaled 262,549, an increase of 12,199 over the week ended Sept. 13. This brought the total employment in the United States to approximately 328,584 while approximately 12,885 men and women are employed in Canada.

MUTUAL WAIVES EXTRA PREMIUM FOR MEN AT WAR

The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York announced yesterday that extra premiums which originally were charged for insurance on account of added risk due to a hazardous occupation will be waived for the period the insured is in the military or naval service.

J. Roger Hull, vice president and manager of agencies, said the company's action is not required by policy provisions and that upon return of the insured to civilian life the extra premium will be re-imposed.

INDUSTRIAL CONCERNS ASKED TO DIG DEEPER IN SEARCH FOR SCRAP

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25 (AP).—An appeal to industrial concerns to "dig deeper and even deeper" for scrap materials was made today by Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman.

"Nothing is more important to war production than scrap," Nelson said in a statement. "The amount of scrap we get depends in a large measure on industrial scrap. It is essential to the successful solving of the winter supply problem."

Nelson declared the results obtained by the newspapers in the recent general salvage drive showed the "kind of coöperation they can give, and we are grateful to them for their magnificent job."

Johnson & Johnson Plant to Get Flag for War Work

Employés of the Chicago plant of Johnson & Johnson, gas mask division, 88 per cent of them women, will receive "E" pins at a ceremony on Nov. 2 at which the joint army-navy award for efficiency in war production will be presented to plant representatives by Brig. Gen. P. X. English and a navy officer.

DON'T BORROW

Borrowing is not always the proper solution to a money shortage. But there are times when a loan is both provident and wise. For instance, you might borrow to move into a more economical house, nearer to work . . . to pay cash for medical and dental attention before your favorite doctor is called into the armed forces . . . to buy winter fuel and clothing . . . to clean up past due charge accounts and other bills . . . to buy tools, to pay union dues, or to take special courses for a new job on war production . . . and for many other purposes equally worthy. Loans $10 to $300. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or come prepared to present proper identification and evidence of employment.
